

Dual Marriage Problems In Hands Of Wife's Lawyer

NEVADA CITY, Calif. (UP)—Mrs. Una Schmidt, who married another man thinking her prisoner of war husband dead, and her second husband, Alford Fine, contacted an attorney last night to guide them through their marital tangle.

Attorney Harold A. Berliner would not disclose whether the 20-year-old redhead would stick by her former husband or return to her second husband, Alford Fine, contacted an attorney last night to guide them through their marital tangle.

"This is a problem that concerns three adult people and only these people can work it out," Berliner said. "It's no one's business but their own."

"The bright glare of publicity can do them no possible good and could seriously damage the lives of all of them," Berliner added.

Mrs. Schmidt and Fine said they hoped all inquiries would be directed to Berliner "in order that our private lives may become private again."

The meeting between the couple and Berliner was uncovered by a staff reporter of the Sacramento, Calif., Bee. The reporter, Al Trivelpiece, talked to the couple after their meeting with Berliner in return for his promise not to disclose their hiding place in the Sierras Nevada.

Police Check Fire Cause

PORTLAND (U)—Police Saturday were investigating a fire which burned a 7-year-old girl to death as she slept Friday night.

Questioned about the fire was Lloyd Riederer, grandfather of the dead girl, Linda Riederer. He was arrested at the scene and charged with drunkenness, and released Saturday on $20 bail.

Three other children, Rance, 6, Sheri, 5, and Tomi, 3, escaped injury.

The grandfather has returned from a fishing trip and told a baby sitter she could leave. Sheri, the 5-year-old, told officers she had found her grandfather's cigarette lighter and had held it under the curtains until they caught fire.

The children's father, Leo Doyle Riederer, was at work when the fire started. He had attempted to enter the burning home to rescue the sleeping girl, but was stopped by smoke and flames.

"The boy is the problem," Fine told the Bee. "He calls me 'Daddy' and I'm the only one he has known." The boy is Daniel Walter, the two-year-old son of Schmidt and Una.

Fine indicated he wouldn't give up his wife without a battle. "When you love a woman, you stick to her," Fine said.

As to allotments she continued to receive as the wife of the young airman, Mrs. Schmidt said: "I have discussed the matter with Mr. Berliner. I am certain I have done nothing improper or illegal."

Capt. Aubrey Rogers of the Air Force Finance Center at Denver had said earlier the center's legal department was considering the "legal aspects" of Mrs. Schmidt's allotment." Rogers said the case was unprecedented in Air Force history.

Fine and Mrs. Schmidt confirm they still plan to meet Schmidt when he arrives in the United States. They said they would arrange their own transportation to the meeting place.

Meantime, Schmidt was attempting to contact his wife by telephone from Tokyo. Schmidt had stripped from his finger the gold wedding band he was wearing when he came out of Communist China.

An Air Force spokesman said, however, "He is still all for the girl and doesn't want to give her up." He added Schmidt was anxious to see his son.

Mrs. Schmidt and Fine vanished from the Soda Springs, Calif., logging camp early Thursday, two days after the story of their marriage was made public.

Efforts to relocate Mrs. Schmidt had proved unavailing until last night.

She married Schmidt, a child-hood sweetheart, in their home town of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, five weeks before he went overseas. She was notified in January, 1953, that her husband's plane had been shot down over Korea.

"I received no further information about the fate of my husband and I believed he was dead," Mrs. Schmidt said.

California Tax Assessment Study Completed By Board

SACRAMENTO (UP)—The Board of Equalization has completed two weeks hearings on proposals to increase tax assessments in 19 California counties.

Since July 25 each county has been allotted a half-day to make a protest.

The objections have followed a pattern. The counties have argued that the board's computations were inaccurate and that the board's sampling methods were inadequate.

Five counties—Merced, San Benito, Riverside, Shasta and Colusa—won their cases. The board, after last minute readjustments in each case, ruled that assessments within those counties were within five per cent of the 25 per cent or market value goal set by the board.

The remaining 14 counties await a decision Aug. 15, the last date for the board to "equalize" assessments among counties.

"Equalization" means simply that the board wants each county to assess property at the same percentage of market value as all other counties.

As the first step to bringing this about, the board proposed to up the assessment ratio in 19 counties where it found, by special sampling, that the assessment was below 20 per cent market value.

The last time the board exercised this power and duty to "equalize" assessments was in 1935. A majority of the counties went through an upgrading that let many county assessors and local taxpayers mad at the board.

As if in preparation for a repeat, one board member late yesterday issued a statement that the board was not responsible for tax rates. Robert E. McDavid pointed out that boards of supervisors and city councils set the tax rates.

"If assessed valuations are increased, there should be a comparable decrease in local tax rates," McDavid's statement said.

In the last hearing yesterday, the board dismissed the case against Shasta County, but stood by a proposal to increase Humboldt County Assessments 55 per cent.

James D. Adams, attorney for seven Humboldt lumber companies, put three statisticians on the stand in an attempt to prove the state's sampling method was without value. All three said that a random sample "at best can give you only an area within which the truth lies."

Dr. Lincoln E. Moses, an assistant professor at Stanford University, said it was almost impossible to find the 16.1 per cent assessed value ratio claimed by the board for Humboldt County is the true figure.

The chance of coming up with the precise ratio as the result of a sample is about the same as drawing a royal flush poker hand the first time you sit down at the card table, he said.

Police Question Prowler Suspect

SANTA MONICA (UP)—Detectives today quizzed a 40-year-old man suspected of prowling in the bungalow apartment of Gov. and Mrs. Goodwin J. Knight.

Taken into custody late yesterday at a Los Angeles cafe was Gilbert J. Pfeiffer, Los Angeles police said he told patrons he entered the Knight's vacation cottage early last Sunday.

"I was crawling around on my hands and knees when I hear a woman scream," he was quoted as saying. "I knocked over some furniture as I went out the window."

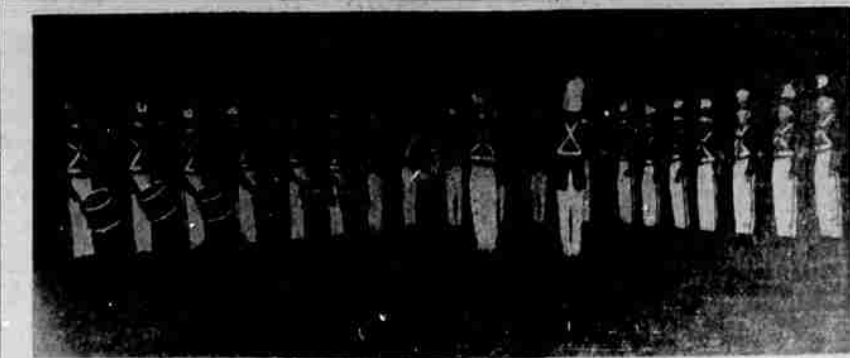

Pfeiffer told detectives he was walking near Knight's cottage and saw an open window. He said he climbed in the window, but "didn't know the governor was in town."

Purple Heart Order Recalled

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (UP)—One hundred 73 years ago tomorrow George Washington sat in his headquarters here, impatiently waiting out the last days of the Revolutionary war.

As he watched for a chance to attack the British, still holding New York City, the general also thought about his soldiers.

He had fought with Congress to get their back pay, and he had been pleading for a pension for them. But Washington also was determined they should have some measure of recognition for their courage.

Thus, on Aug. 7, 1782, Washington issued his now famous order for the Purple Heart.

Originally intended as a medal for military bravery, the decoration was awarded to three Connecticut sergeants the next year and then lapsed into obscurity for more than a century.

It was officially re-instituted at Washington's birthday bi-centennial in 1932.

The original was made of Purple cloth in the shape of a heart and was named the Purple Heart after the stout purple-heart oak wood then used in Army gun carriages.

In 1932 it was decided to award the purple heart retroactively to "doughboys" who had received numerous service citations and had records of wounds in World War I.

In December, 1941, the medal was ordered reserved specifically for servicemen wounded in enemy action.

The medal, now held by thousands of World War II and Korean veterans, has a profile, in relief, of Washington in military uniform and the shield of his coat-of-arms between the two sprays of green leaves. On the reverse side is a raised bronze heart with the inscription, for military merit.

Brazil Mourns Carmen Miranda

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UP)—Brazilians in all walks of life today mourned the death of Carmen Miranda, the peppery singer-dancer who typified to them all the glamor and gaiety of Hollywood.

Miss Miranda, 41, died yesterday of a heart attack in her Beverly Hills, Calif., home. The news of her death stunned Brazil.

Local radio stations interrupted scheduled programs to announce her death and carry special programs of Miss Miranda's recordings.

Miss Miranda had been one of Brazil's most popular samba singers even before she went to the United States.

Atom Bombing Prayer Given

WASHINGTON (UP)—A survivor of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima ten years ago, laid a wreath Saturday at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery.

He prayed that under the "peerless leadership" of President Eisenhower "world disarmament would take place within our lifetimes."

When Rev. Kiyoshi Tanimoto, director of the Hiroshima Peace Center Associates completed the prayer, a U.S. Army bugler sounded taps as the wreath was placed on the tomb.

Tanimoto said the people of Hiroshima had a bitter taste of the horrors of atomic war and accepted it as a judgment of God. But he asked that "never again should any city or nation have to suffer a similar fate."

French Cabinet In Turmoil Over North African Crisis

By UNITED PRESS
French Premier Edgar Faure convened his bickering cabinet in Paris today to try and quell a threatened right-wing revolt against his North African policies.

He is faced with the problem of granting more home rule in French Morocco or oust the Sultan there and try to prevent wide-scale riots threatened for later this month.

Three mainstays in Faure's loosely-knit coalition have warned him against taking hasty steps towards granting autonomy to the North African protectorates. They are the Gaullists, the dissident Gaullists and some of the independents.

Several ministers were reported ready to resign rather than endorse large-scale concessions to the Moroccan Nationalists who have staged bloody riots to win their way. These ministers included Defense Minister Gen. Pierre Koenig, a World War II hero.

French deputies and senators recessed for their summer holiday last night but spokesmen of various parties served notice on Faure they would remain "vigilant" while bathing on the Riviera or climbing in the Pyrenees.

Faure, in a vaguely worded policy review yesterday, promised not to "precipitate things." But at the same time he publicly reiterated his full confidence in the new resident general in Morocco, Gilbert Grandval.

Grandval has been the object of bitter criticism in both houses of parliament for his plan to replace the present Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafa by a regent and discuss home rule with a Nationalist cabinet.

The final decision on Morocco is not expected before a week. Grandval is to report fully on the situation when he and the governor general in Tunisia and Algeria meet Faure next Wednesday or Thursday.

Other international news: Moscow: Western correspondents were informed they, too, were invited along with the diplomatic corps to be the guest of Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin Sunday at his summer home south of Moscow. Such an invitation was unprecedented.

Rio De Janeiro, Brazil: Gen. Canrobert Pereira Da Costa, chief of Brazil's armed forces, called on the military to close ranks for "possible dramatic moments" during this presidential election year.

Sendai, Japan: The prosecution and defense gave final arguments in the court martial of Mrs. Romola Abidin of New York, accused of murdering the Army husband she described as a "monster."

Hiroshima, Japan: Sirens sounded at 8:15 a.m. marking the atomic bombing which destroyed the city in a blinding flash.
