

Mrs. Dunbar Home Again

Mrs. R. H. Dunbar, teacher and principal in the Klamath Falls school system for 37 years has returned from an extended trip to the east coast.

After leaving here June 5 by United Airlines she spent some time with a step-daughter, Mrs. Ernest Moser and family, frequent visitors in Klamath Falls. Mr. and Mrs. Moser, former missionaries in Africa, are now in charge of a home at Stony Point-On-the-Hudson, willed to the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions for the use of missionaries home on furlough.

During her visit Mrs. Dunbar visited Harvard for graduation when Helen Keller received her doctorate's degree and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany received an honorary doctorate. She visited Hyde Park, Boston, Columbia University and took a boat trip around Manhattan Island.

Rotarians Plan Tour

The annual Rotary Club Livestock tour is scheduled for August 9, 10 and 11. They plan to visit every 4-H livestock club member in the county.

In order to succeed in visiting every livestock project, the Rotarians have set up two groups with a definite area to cover each day of the tour.

Group 1 will start the tour at Keno and work toward Klamath Falls while group 2 will travel to Bonanza and Langell Valley.

The second day the two groups will cover the Olenn, Henley and Midland areas and the last day will see group 1 in Malin and group 2 in Merrill.

Emotionally Disturbed Women Turn Up Records Of Excessive Surgery

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—In wealthy, fashionable Westchester, a suburban area adjacent to New York City, the women who are emotionally disturbed have managed to get many more surgical operations than the women who aren't.

Dr. William A. Triebel looked into the situation carefully. He couldn't know, of course, whether all the women deserved all their operations but he was frankly suspicious that many of the women with disturbed emotions had hoodwinked their surgeons into futile slicing.

Dr. Triebel, of the staff of New York Hospital-Westchester division in White Plains, had been roused by a 28-year-old nursery school teacher. Her symptoms, as she described them (and as she acted them out physically) all pointed clearly to a malformed stomach.

NORMAL STOMACH
This was confirmed by a series of standard gastrointestinal tests. Confidently, the surgeon opened her — and found quite a normal stomach. In retrospect, said Triebel, one could see that her stomach troubles had all originated in her mind. Yet she had produced symptoms and signs which fooled doctors and tested positive.

So Triebel took 300 women who had been patients in psychiatric hospitals or had been treated by psychiatrists. Each one of the 300 he matched with a woman of the same age, marital status, and social and economic setting. The second 300 women were his controls — not one had ever been in a psychiatric hospital or treated by a psychiatrist.

Of the first 300, 199 had had major operations. Of the 300 controls, only 68 had had major operations. The 129 had had 183 operations among them. The 68 controls had only 77 operations.

He had his 300 emotionally disturbed women subdivided into categories according to the nature of their disturbances. Of the neurotics among them, 65 per cent had had operations while only 23 per cent of their matched controls had had operations. In the other categories, the relationship was about the same, save that for schizophrenia. Here there was no significant difference between the disturbed and their controls.

PSYCHIC VALUE
Triebel, in his report to the New York State Journal of Medicine, could offer only a series of "perhaps" in trying to explain it. Perhaps, he said, emotionally ill persons might have some "constitutional inferiority." Or perhaps "events" in the mind had effects in the body. Or perhaps emotionally disturbed persons, and conveyed this great psychic value to the emotionally disturbed persons made much enthusiasm to their doctors. Or perhaps surgical operations have immediately seek operations.

Soviet Air Crash Picture Published

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda Monday published news of one of Russia's worst known air disasters in recent years—the fiery crash of a Soviet airliner which claimed the lives of 25 persons, including 19 Norwegian women.

It was the first time in years that the Soviet press has reported such an accident. The brief dispatch on page three of the Communist Party organ, said the tragedy occurred Saturday near Voronezh, 290 miles southeast of Moscow.

The women were members of Norwegian political parties who had accepted a Soviet invitation to visit Russia. The remaining victims were Russians, five of them crewmen.

Spud Growers Slate Meeting

The Klamath Potato Growers Association has scheduled a meeting for Friday evening, August 12, at the Recreation Hall in Merrill.

Growers are concerned with the market outlook for the 1955 crop. An effort is being made to provide Section 32 funds to encourage diversion of low grades. Marketing agreement regulations will be discussed.

Representatives of the State Department of Agriculture wish to discuss administration of Oregon's new potato grade and labeling law. Reasons for increased inspection fees will be explained.
