Shrine Circus Hits Town With All-New Acts; Sets Up Rigging At Fairground

The seventh annual Klamath Falls Shrine Club-Polka Bros. Circus was being installed at the Klamath County Fairgrounds Thursday, in preparation for performances to be given Friday and Saturday at 2:15 p.m. and 8:15 p.m. Immediately after arrival this morning from Redding, California, riggers and prop hands began setting up tons of aerial rigging and other paraphernalia, with representatives of the various acts on hand to supervise the procedure.

Close by were the portable quarters of Professor George J. Keller's assorted jungle big cats, the Klausner Family's bears, Roland Tebor's sea lions, Albert Ostermaier's goats and Poly Orea's troupe of 16 spitz dogs.

Meanwhile, a special baggage car arrived on the Southern Pacific from the Southern Baby Elephants and the Bealou Baby Elephants and Chilly Feind's dazzling white dancing Lippizan horse.

Prior to the arrival of the circus, the Shrine Club had seen to the erection of a stage in front of the fairgrounds grandstand upon which many of the acts will be presented.

Many children who otherwise would not be able to attend the circus will be entertained at the matinees through blocks of tickets that have been donated by business and professional men, industrial concerns, fraternal organizations and civic clubs.

Such tickets are being given out to youngsters of Klamath Falls and environs for the Friday matinee and also have been sent to such neighboring communities as Chiloquin, Merrill, Malin, Bly and Tulelake.

The circus has just completed a four-month tour of California, comprising 22 cities that included San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento, Los Angeles, Long Beach and San Jose.

From here, the show will go to Seattle and then Vancouver, B.C., for its annual appearance at the Pacific National Exhibition. Several more engagements in Washington and Oregon will follow, after which the itinerary will turn eastward by way of Denver.

Club Boyd, president of the Shrine Club, and Keith O'Hair, general chairman of its circus committee, emphasize the fact that

Wood River GOP's Meet

CHILOQUIN - The guest speaker for the Wood River Unit, Oregon Council of Republican Women, on the evening of July 31, was Mrs. Josephine Kittredge, who talked about the meeting of Republican women in Washington, D. C. which she attended recently with Mrs. Olive Cornett, national committee woman from Oregon.

Mrs. Kittredge, vice-chairman of the Klamath County Republican Central Committee, was kept busy with workshops of instruction, forums, and heard many of the nation's first rate speakers, such as Vice President Nixon, and Sherman Adams.

Mrs. Cornett described a breakfast with the President of the United States, given by a group of Republican Women, from whom she was chosen to greet and escort him to his chair. She also displayed an exquisite model of Mrs. Eisenhower in her inaugural gown.

Other guests of the evening were Maj. Dickson, chairman of the county Republican picnic, and Mrs. Dickson, Mrs. Beth Ferguson, and George Proctor, the newly elected chairman of the Klamath County Central Committee.

Mrs. Guy Stalger took over the duties of secretary-treasurer. The meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Markward, Chiloquin, and refreshments were served by the hostesses.

There will be no regular meeting in the month of August, instead all members are urged to attend the Republican picnic on August 14, in Moore Park, at 1:30.

USE THEIR HEADS - The Pallamades, newly arrived from Europe, balance on their heads on trapezes one above the other, with the top man holding the trapeze of his partner.

Two of the Bealou Baby Elephants stand on their heads, and Baby Opal walks on her front legs and balances her 1900 pounds on one front foot.

Rolando maintains an inverted position throughout his routine, which he begins by walking on his index fingers.

The male half of the Sikoras hangs head downward the entire eight minutes of the aerial suspension exhibition he presents with his wife.

Even Klausner's bears join the trend by doing headstands and walking on their forepaws.

A feature of Freya Josse's aerial exploits is hanging from her trapeze by her bare heels and toes.

Perhaps the most talked-about display of head-balancing in the circus is that of the girls of the Cycling Chlovids. For more than three minutes Dita stands on her head on the head of Lucia - a demonstration of what happens when two women put their heads together, literally.

As one circus wag puts it: "Our performers this year are head under heels in love with their work."

ROBBERY - EMBARRASS, Wis. (UP)—Embarrassed Embarrass police reported today a lone bandit held up the Embarrass State Bank and escaped with $3,500.
