Administrator's Post Created

YREKA—A new position, that of county administrator, has been created by the Siskiyou County Board of Supervisors.

The board had previously adopted an ordinance creating the job, but District Attorney Floyd Merrill said he felt that the proposal was contrary to the state constitution. The board amended the ordinance making the administrator an agent of the board and not an officer in his own right.

The original ordinance also said that the administrator would be ex-officio purchasing agent, but Merrill said that because the legislature has established the duties of the purchasing agent, the board could not add or subtract from them. Clauses in the ordinance giving the administrator budgetary control over county offices were deleted.

At the time the original ordinance was passed, the supervisors appointed Purchasing Agent Jess O'Roke to the job, but no appointment has been made under the revised ordinance.

McCloud Truck Line Planned

McCLOUD — The McCloud River Railroad Company expects to have a trucking service in operation by the first week in October, according to Flake Willis, president of the line.

Permission was granted by the state public utilities commission this week for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, authorizing the railroad to operate truck service between Mount Shasta, McCloud and Burney and all points along Highway 99 to the junction with Highway 299E and from there to Burney.

PUC permission was also given to hook up with the Pacific Motor

Trucking Company, a Southern Pacific subsidiary, at Redding and Mount Shasta.

Willis said he could not estimate how many trucks the line will operate or how much business will be handled. The trucks will handle less than carload quantities of merchandise, and may eventually work into a "piggy-back" operation (loaded trucks hauled by train flatcars to destination). He hopes to provide the new railroad terminal at Burney with fast freight service from San Francisco and Los Angeles.
