The summer art workshop weaving class is now in full swing on the OTI campus. In their respective home towns, these people are teachers, secretaries, nurses, housewives, students, etc., but under one roof they are strictly artists with no thought for the routine workaday world they left for two magic creative weeks.

Out of town students attending the class are Betty Lienkaemper of Bandon, Oregon; Catherine Carlisle of Pennsylvania; Louise Morgan of Corvallis, Oregon; Dorothy Taylor of Lakeview, Oregon; Beatrice Young of La Grande, Oregon; Lester Weber of Eugene, Oregon; and Helen Bell of Dunsmuir, California.

Local people attending are Jean Puckett, Dorothy Anderson, Margaret Hartell, Myrtle Pence, Olive Wilson, Roberta Blomquist, Gladys Herron, Irma Dixon and Richard Norland.

Many and varied are the objects being woven. Some are weaving skirts, place mats, bed spreads, suit material, purses, table linens and towels. Mrs. Hatch, wife of the instructor and president of the Weavers Guild in Eugene, is weaving glamorous evening bags.

Many of the advanced students are doing experimental work, making small swatches of different types of interesting patterns and weaves. The looms being used vary in size from a 12-harness all the way down to very tiny ones used for the experimental swatches.

The weaving class is planning an overnight camping trek to Crater Lake and will rally there with students from the Eugene weaving class just completed. They will search for reeds and other raw materials suitable for experimental work, and in the evening have a campfire session.

Mr. Hatch, the instructor, will no doubt be prevailed upon to bring his banjo. Much to everyone's surprise and delight, he has proven to be an expert folk song and ballad singer.

Mrs. Dorothy Taylor, a home economics major and professional weaver of exceptional skill, will display some of her handwoven garments at the county library for two weeks commencing August 20.

In the current class, Mrs. Taylor is making a baby blanket with woven lace edging, a most unusual piece of work. She has been weaving for about 19 years.

Mrs. Taylor originally came from Riverside, California, and is a member of the Shuttle Craft Guild of Kelseyville, California, the Southern California Guild.

VFW Auxiliary Chief Named

MERRILL — Barbara Schmidt was elected and installed as treasurer of the VFW Auxiliary at a meeting held Wednesday evening, August 17.

The meeting was called as a work night and members painted chairs and tables in the kindergarten room. Yet to be done are waxing of floors and washing of windows to complete room preparations for the opening of school in September.

Pat Duncan and Barbara Schmidt were hostesses for the meeting. Additional information on the kindergarten, which is sponsored by the auxiliary, may be had by calling Glenna Walker or Billie Woodhouse, board members of the auxiliary.

Sudan Rebels Under Control

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — The Sudan government announced Monday that 158 mutinous troops in the South Sudan town of Yei have been captured or surrendered.

A government spokesman said Thursday was holding out in the rest of the force which rebelled against the government. He added loyal troops were expected to overcome this resistance shortly.

(In Cairo, a British embassy spokesman said a third group of 136 mutineers at Oraba had surrendered to Uganda authorities. He reported that radio communications had been established with the holdouts in Torit and they, too, were ready to consider ending their revolt.)

Yei is just north of the Uganda border and 100 miles southwest of Juba, the capital of Equatoria province. Torit, a battalion headquarters, is 84 miles east of Juba. Government sources insisted their forces had the situation in the south in hand. However, all available aircraft were rushing troops and supplies to Juba, and bringing out foreigners and families of Northern Sudanese troops stationed there.

It appeared the government was replacing the Southern Sudanese troops with forces from the north loyal to the government of Premier Ismail El Azhari. Rivalry long has existed between the more advanced Arabic northerners and the backward Negro southerners. In recent months considerable bad feeling has developed between the Southern soldiers and North Sudanese officers sent to replace British officers who have commanded in the South.

Fort Clatsop Site Dedicated

ASTORIA (AP) — Twenty-seven Pacific Northwest Explorer Scouts arrived here Sunday to take part in the dedication of a replica of Fort Clatsop where the Lewis and Clark Expedition spent the winter of 1805.

The Scouts had retraced by canoe 80 miles of the last 200 miles of the Columbia River route which the two explorers traveled.

It was the last lap of a trip begun at St. Louis, Mo., last spring by relays of Scout groups. Each group covered a short distance of the trail the explorers blazed 150 years ago.

Taking part in the ceremony were descendants of the Meriwether Lewis and William Clark families, Lydia Large, a great-great-granddaughter of Sacajawea, the Shoshone Indian girl who accompanied the two explorers, also was present.

Saturday Gen. William F. Dean, Korean War hero, was grand marshal at a three-hour parade watched by an estimated 25,000 to 30,000 spectators.

The sesquicentennial observance will continue through the coming week.

Neuberger Reports Aid At Capital

PORTLAND (AP) — Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore), who returned home Sunday after his first session as a congressman, said everyone in Washington had been very helpful to him.

"Just about everybody wants to see a new senator make good. People go out of their way to help you," Neuberger said. He added that he found less "petty, personal partisanship" in the nation's capital than he encountered in the Oregon Legislature.

On the subject of national politics, Neuberger said he would like to see the Democrats nominate Adlai Stevenson for president and Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) for vice president.

"I think that would be the strongest possible ticket, but frankly, I think it will be very difficult to beat Ike," he said.

On state politics, Neuberger predicted that Sen. Morse (D-Ore) would be re-elected in 1956. Discussing Gov. Patterson, who has been mentioned as a possible Republican opponent for Morse, the senator said: "Patterson is a very nice man, but I can't see any difference between him and (Secretary of the Interior) McKay. Neuberger has been a bitter opponent of many of McKay's power and resources policies.

Neuberger said the recent 84th Congress had failed in three areas of legislation — schools, highways and civil rights. He criticized the Eisenhower administration's stand on these three issues.

When asked to list the senators who impressed him most with their sincerity and ability, Neuberger included Sen. Knowland (D-Calif.). "I don't often agree with him, but I'm convinced he's a sincere, capable senator," Neuberger said.

He praised the Californian for his efforts in getting a bill passed permitting Henry Holt of Creswell, Ore., to adopt eight Korean orphans.

Neuberger and his wife plan to vacation on the Oregon Coast for some time. He has scheduled several non-political talks, he said, and then next month will take part in a series of debates with Rep. Coon (R-Ore) on Coon's bill for "partnership" construction of John Day Dam.

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION in this pile of trash was believed to have started this fire at 5425 Independence Avenue Sunday afternoon. Firemen from the Suburban, Oregon Tech and Airport departments prevented the flames from completely destroying the small, one-story house, owned by W. Moore of Dorris. Its occupant, Harold Hansen, saved his stove and refrigerator.

Fire Damages Local Home

Fire Sunday afternoon partially burned the home of Harold Hansen, 5424 Independence Avenue, and spread to a neighbor's garage.

Quick work by firemen from the Suburban, Airport and OTI departments prevented the flames from completely destroying the small, one-story house.

The blaze was believed to have started from spontaneous combustion in a pile of old mattresses, tires and lumber in the back yard. It quickly spread to the back of the punice-lile house and then to the neighbor's garage.

Hansen's bed was destroyed but his refrigerator and stove were saved. The back and roof of the house were burned considerably, and a corner of the garage was charred.

Firemen spent over two hours extinguishing the flames and saturating the trash in the back. Three tankers belonging to the departments and one owned by Ned Putnam, logging contractor, were on the scene. The house is owned by W. Moore of Dorris.
