Peach Shortcake

As summer ends and fall starts, the Klamath Basin comes into its own. The days are warm and golden and the nights crisp and clear.

Casual summertime entertaining gradually gives way to more formal planning, but the homemaker still welcomes the informal Saturday afternoon crowd to watch the game on TV or the drop-in guests on a sunny Sunday.

There is nothing like topping off the after-the-game snack with a slice of sunny cake, especially if the cake is topped with whipped cream and sliced peaches, fresh or canned, and made from Dromedary's popular twin pack mix.

If you are the kind of hostess who likes to give her guests a cake choice, Dromedary — a stand-out in the cake mix field, — has helped solve this problem for you. Now, for the first time in cake mix history, the handy 2-in-1 pack gives the homemaker a choice of baking one layer at a time.

There's no waste and the remaining pack stays mixing-bowl fresh until ready for use. Depending on the number of guests, you can serve one, two, or even three one-layer cakes — each in a different flavor — White, Yellow or Devil's Food. There's plenty of variety in these time-saving mixes, and they give you everything any home recipe ever could.

For that first football TV afternoon, here's a one-layer suggestion — tempting Peach Shortcake, using Dromedary White Cake Mix. The early frost played havoc with the peach crop this year, but we can't let summer go by without this extra special treat. Use one "twin-pack" for your shortcake, which will give you a generous 8 or 9 inch layer. For a high, fluffy treat just carefully follow the directions on the package, and don't forget to take advantage of the handy pan liners included with each box — another Dromedary exclusive feature. Cut layer in half and fill with whipped cream. Top with whipped cream and sliced peaches. A fitting halo for a heavenly cake.

With Dromedary you get a tender, flavormore cake every time, tailor-made in size to fit the family or the occasion, thanks to the convenience of "twin pack" packaging.
