

TWO PROMINENT Malin families were joined August 11, when Pearl Ottoman and Wayne H. Rick exchanged nuptial vows in Malin Presbyterian Church. The Rev. George Milne read the 3 p.m. service in the presence of a host of friends and relatives. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Jackson, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rick.

Malin Presbyterian Church Is Scene of August Wedding

MALIN — One of the loveliest of the late summer weddings was that of Pearl E. Ottoman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Jackson, Malin, and Wayne H. Rick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rick, Malin, who were united in marriage at the Malin Presbyterian Church on Saturday, August 11.

The Rev. George Milne, Merrill, read the 3 p.m. double-ring ceremony before an altar banked with tall baskets of pink and white gladioli and fern. Lighted tapers in tall candelabra illuminated the setting and pews were marked with large white satin bows.

Mrs. Ernest Gray, organist, played incidental music and the traditional wedding marches. Soloist, Mrs. Vince Zumr sang "Because."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, James R. Ottoman, wore a gown of heavy white slipper satin designed with a fitted bodice and high round neckline with a vee shaped inset of Chantilly lace. The neckline of the full skirt and the vee yoke were outlined with a ruffle of lace. The long sleeved bodice buttoned down the back and the full skirt flowed into a chapel train.

Her fingertip veil of illusion net was held in place with a coronet headpiece of pearls and white sequins and her bouquet was of white roses centered with a large white orchid. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls.

For something old, she carried a handkerchief brought from Czechoslovakia by her late maternal grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Rajnus; the something new was her veil and the something borrowed was her wedding dress, which had been worn by her sister, Mrs. Richard Halousek at her own wedding, and a corsage of pink roses. Completing the bridal tradition, she wore a blue garter and had a penny in her shoe.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Arthur (Jean) Evans, cousin of the bride. She wore a waltz length gown of orchid pink lace over tulle, fashioned with front pleats of nylon tulle. Her bouquet of baby orchids, shattered pink carnations and stephanotis was arranged on a wired fan of white net with orchid satin ribbon streamers. A circle of small pink and orchid flowers was worn in her hair.

Bridesmaids were Patti Smith, Phyllis Johnson and Mrs. Eddie (Barbara Salyers) McAuliffe, high school classmates, and Jan Johnson, Portland, college roommate, and sorority sister. All were dressed identical to the matron of honor and carried fan bouquets.

Kristie Ottoman, little 7-year-old flower girl, scattered rose petals as she preceded her aunt down the aisle to the altar. Her floor length dress was of the same shade of orchid pink as the other attendants and she wore a halo of flowers in her hair.

The wedding rings were carried on a tiny white satin pillow by Larry Halousek, small nephew of the bride.

Best man was Ted Van, brother-in-law of the bridegroom; and ushers were George Rajnus and Norman Ottoman, cousins of the bride, and classmates Ronald McVey and Eddie McAuliffe.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Jackson, was smartly dressed for the summer wedding in a petal pink linen sheath dress and wore pink and white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Rick chose a charming costume in navy blue sheer with blue accessories. At her shoulder she wore a corsage of pink roses.

Around three hundred guests were received in the garden of the bride's home, by the newlyweds and their parents.

The four-tiered wedding cake, decorated with pink roses and silver leaves, was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Initial cut was made by the bride couple and served from a lace covered table by Mrs. Richard Halousek, sister of the bride; Mrs. James Ottoman, her sister-in-law; and Mrs. Ted Van, sister of the bridegroom.

At the punch bowl were aunts of the bride, Mrs. Jerry Rajnus and Mrs. William Rajnus. Pouring coffee was another aunt, Mrs. Laddie Rajnus, assisted by an aunt of the bridegroom, Mrs. Norman Frisvold.

Later in the afternoon guests passed through a garden arbor decorated with white wedding bells to a buffet table laden with cold ham, turkey, salads and kolache, a traditional Czechoslovakian pastry.

Guests were registered by Darla Sarutski; and Vernetta Dokken and Ruth Kalina were in charge of gifts.

For travel the new Mrs. Rick wore a suit of beige linen with wacado accessories. Completing her outfit was the white orchid from her wedding bouquet, which she wore at her shoulder.

After a wedding trip to Carmel-by-the-Sea and on to Yosemite Park, the young couple will live at the Kalina Court Apartments in Malin until school starts, at which time the bridegroom will enter Oregon Technical Institute.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Rick are from well known Malin families and were both graduated from Malin High School. Rick has just recently returned from Austria where he has been stationed for the past two years with the United States Army. The bride attended Oregon State College where she was a member of Sigma Kappa sorority.

Special out of town guests were Mrs. Arthur Evans, matron of honor, who came from Fert Ridge, Kansas; her husband is stationed with the army; and two of the bridesmaids, Jan Johnson of Portland and Patti Smith, formerly of Malin but now living in Sacramento.

Pre-nuptial events included a shower for the bride at the home of Mrs. Chester Stonecipher; another shower at the J. Z. Smith home, an after-rehearsal party the evening before the wedding at the Sportsman's Hotel in Tulelake for members of the wedding party, relatives and close friends. The wedding breakfast, served at the Jerry Rajnus home, hostessed by Mrs. Arthur Evans. Wedding colors were carried out in table decorations with places marked with miniature fans similar to those carried by the attendants at the wedding.

REMODELING AT RESORT FAILS TO STOP PARTY PLANS

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Timmons celebrated their wedding anniversary this year while in the throes of remodeling what was once known as the Dining Room at Rocky Point Resort during the days that Mr. and Mrs. (Art and Miriam) Lavitt operated the resort for Copco. No meals have been served since that time.

Present hosts, Lloyd and Florence Timmons, are completely changing the interior and food will once again be served when the lace-lifting job is finished.

What will be the community room will boast a large circulating fireplace with a five foot firebox set in a ten foot wide, eight foot high rock faced wall. Glass and plenty of it on the lake side of the building will afford a panoramic view of Upper Lake scenery. Dining areas will be on the glazed-in enclosure adjoining the community room—and on the upper deck.

It was impossible to have things in apple pie order and remodel, too, so the hosts ignored the clutter and cleared out a space large enough for their 29 guests to help them celebrate their 29th anniversary in. This is the 10th year they have celebrated at the resort — and the procedure August 15 was as usual — lots of food, conversation and dancing for entertainment.

Not pictured on the front page of the section were Mr. and Mrs. Dom Provost, Ashland, owners of Provost's Furniture Company; Mr. and Mrs. Jack London, Alhambra, California, where he has two cocktail lounges. The Londons were guests at the resort earlier in the season and came back especially for the anniversary party and to celebrate Jack London's birthday anniversary the following day.

Others were Mr. and Mrs. Ira Parish of Medford, Rocky Point summer home owners, and he is the Medford Airport control tower operator; Lynn Crawford, from Santa Ana, California, where he is superintendent of schools; Mack McGuire, Puente, California, is a metallist in heavy construction; Jimmy Pearson and Ralph Milnes, who, with their respective parents were guests at the resort. This is the fifth year that the Milnes have been here for he anniversary party — and the ninth for the Wolken.

It all sums up to the fact that running a resort can be fun and also affords an opportunity to meet a wide variety of "people." "Rocky of Klamath," the Timmons' Labrador retriever, a popular figure at the resort, is of Bear Ranch lineage — The Bear Ranch strain is rated in list of 89 who have placed in all-age divisions.
