KU Grid Year Opens

By CLAYTON HANNON

The 1955 football season officially opens tomorrow morning when the Klamath Union High School Pelicans meet for their first practice session of the year. Coach John McGinnis is expecting 75 or more prep griders to report for workouts, which for the first week will be twice-a-day. Of this number 12 will be lettermen. The Pelican coaching staff will be the same as last year with Harry Russell assisting McGinnis with the linemen and Gerald Bevans working as the backfield mentor. Ralph "Baldy" Foster, Dick Vaillencour, Ray Coley and Joe Roberts will probably be working with McGinnis and his two assistants until school opens, then they will have the junior varsity and freshman teams to handle. Of the 12 returning lettermen, nine will be linemen and the other three backs, Donn Taucher, Dave Pepple and Dave Leeling are the lone returning lettermen backs. The big losses by last June's graduation were quarterback Larry Yarnell, fullback Gerald Del Fatti and halfbacks Jack Sumtosh and Scott Hancock.

Following the annual grid test with Grant, the Pels travel to Eugene to do battle with the powerful Aztecs of the Willamette Valley. On September 23 the heavily loaded Redding Wolves come to Klamath to meet the Pels in the first of two straight weeks of home football for the KUHS squad. La Grande is here the following Friday. The Pels then travel to meet Boise on September 30 only to return home from the long jaunt to meet their traditional rivals, the Medford Black Tornado. This will open the Southern Oregon Conference season for the Pelicans.

After their clash with the Tornado club, Reno is here for another Friday evening game. On October 28 the Klamaths travel for another SOC game, this one with Grants Pass on the Cavenem's home field. Ashland is here on November 4 to close out the Pel's grid year, and what a year it should be.

The conference outlook gives Grants Pass a big edge towards winning the district honors. Coach Mel Ingram's Cavenem will field a team that has five starters and 20 lettermen back from last year's club and a front wall that could very well average near the 200-pound mark. Medford cannot be overlooked, nor can one think Ashland will be a push-over.

With only 10 days to prepare his team for its opener with Grant, McGinnis has a big job ahead. Until school opens September 6, the Pels will hold morning workouts at 8:30 and evening sessions at 6:30. After school starts, just single afternoon practices will be held.

The season ticket sale is in progress right now at the chamber of commerce office with a cut-rate bargain being offered to the Klamath gridiron fans. The season ticket for all six home games is selling for $6. This is a saving of $3. The single game reserved seats cost $1.50 and the general admission pasteboards will sell for $1. All reserved seats will be held on sale until the morning of the Grant contest.

Women's Title Won By Lesser

By HUGH FULLERTON JR. CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Perky Patricia Ann Lesser of Seattle, scrambling but still superb, won the 35th Women's Amateur Championship of the United States Golf Assn. Saturday by administering a crushing 7 and 6 defeat to Jane Ann Nelson, a spunky schoolteacher from Indianapolis, in the 36-hole final.

It was the most lopsided final match in the women's national tournament since Babe Zaharias beat Mrs. Clara Sherman, 11 and 9, in 1946. Miss Lesser, barely 22 years old but already golfer of note, took charge of her older but comparatively unknown opponent on the back nine of the morning round over the hilly, tricky Myers Park Country Club course to lead 5 up at the 18-hole mark.

Except for one horribly bad hole in the morning, the Seattle University senior played sub-par golf all the way. And the 37-37-74 woman's par for the 6,413-yard Myers Park course isn't easy to master. During the entire week of play only Miss Lesser has been able to beat 8 consistently.

Miss Nelson, a vacation-time golfer who hadn't gone beyond the fourth round in two previous appearances in the women's amateur couldn't match that pace after the first half dozen holes. For that distance, Pat had to rely on a red-hot putter to stay even. Then as she dropped behind, Jane completely lost control of Myers Park's tricky, bumpy Bermuda grass greens.

The loser, twice a semi-finalist before she reached the top and a member of the 1954 Curtis Cup team, is a tall, deeply tanned girl who has plenty of endurance and competitive spirit. To some extent it was endurance that counted on this blazing hot day.

At the start the slim-legged, smooth swinging Hoosier was out-litting Miss Lesser. But as the match went on and as she dropped farther and farther behind, her drives became shorter and her game seemed to come apart.

Still it was something of a triumph for Miss Nelson to get as far as the final. She's a history teacher in an Indianapolis school and can only play tournament golf during vacations. Pat manages to stay on the tournament trail most of the season.

As champion, Miss Lesser succeeds Barbara Romack, who was knocked out in the second round. Pat came through the toughest half of the draw, beating Mary Ann Downey, Barbara's conqueror, or Mrs. Jane Crum Covington and Polly Riley on the way to the final.

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Dick Whitman hit a double and three singles in four chances Saturday as his Portland Beavers trimmed Oakland 12-0, before a scant crowd of 681. It was one of the smallest crowds in Oakland history. Portland scored four times in the third inning on a double by Artie Wilson, singles by Royce Lint, Luis Marquez and Eddie Basinski, a walk to Whitman, a fielder's choice and a sacrifice by Jim Robertson. The Beavers got four more runs the next inning on a walk to Frank Austin, singles by Lint, Whitman, Marquez and Wally Westlake and a throwing error by pitcher Tom Birlaud. The relief chucker threw the ball into the dugout after Wilson bunted. Basinski's double, a single by Whitman and a walk produced a run in the sixth. Two more crossed the plate in the seventh on singles by Don Egert and Austin and a sacrifice by Wilson. The last run scored on singles by Austin and Wilson and a grounder by Marquez. For Royce Lint it was the eighth pitching victory against nine losses. Charles Beamon, the starting pitcher for Oakland, was charged with his sixth loss against two wins.

Indians Edge Yanks, Tie For League Lead

B. MURRAY ROSE THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The American League race became hotter than noon at the equator in July Saturday as Cleveland pulled up even with the New York Yankees and the Chicago White Sox slammed their way within a half game of the pacemakers. A four-run rally in the eighth brought the Indians from behind to a thrilling 7-6 victory over the Yankees. The White Sox had it easier, crushing Washington 11-1. And the Red Sox kept right in the battle by edging Detroit 4-3 on Ted Williams' dramatic, two-out grandstand homer in the ninth inning, to pull within four games of the leaders.

In the National League, Sandy Koufax, a husky, 19-year-old bonus baby, pulled the league-leading Dodgers out of a tailspin by blanking Cincinnati 7-0 with a brilliant two-hit, 14-strikeout performance. Milwaukee kept 10 games behind by nipping New York 5-4, and dropped the Giants into fourth place and moved the Philadelphia Phillies into third. The Phils walked St. Louis 5-2. In the other game, Chicago edged Pittsburgh 4-3 on Walker Cooper's ninth inning homer. Baltimore and Kansas City were not scheduled.

Trailing 6-3, mainly on Bill Skowron's three-run homer and starter Don Larsen's two-run homer, the Indians blasted their way into a tie for the lead on their four-run spree in the eighth. Bobby Avila's three-run homer off Johnny Kucks evened the count at 6-6. After the Indians loaded the bases on Bob Grim, Bob Lemon hit a sacrifice fly for the winning run.

The White Sox snapped a three-game losing spell on lefty Jack Harshman's eight-hit flinging and a 13-hit assault against four Washington pitchers. Minnie Minoso hit a two-run homer for Chicago. Detroit got only two hits—Jack Phillips' run-scoring single in the first and Bill Tuttle's two-run homer in the third—and made it stand up for a 3-0 lead going into the ninth. Then Detroit's Frank Lary weakened.

With one way, he was reached for singles by Eddie Joost and Faye Throneberry. Billy Goodman flled out but Billy Klaus singled to right to load the bases. Lary was replaced by Al Aber. Wham! Williams sent the ball flying high in the upper rightfield seats for his 24th homer, his third grand slammer of the season and the 14th of his career. The Red Sox were back in the race. Koufax, making his second start of the year, he went only 4-2-3 innings against Pittsburgh July 6, yielded only a two-out single to Ted Kluszewski in the first inning and a two-out double by Sam Mele in the ninth.

His 14 whiffs was a National League high for the year, surpassing the 12 strikeouts of Chicago's Sam Jones and Milwaukee's Bob Buhl. Carl Furillo and Jackie Robinson each hit two-run homers to help end Brooklyn's three-game losing streak. Danny O'Connell's 11th inning homer, his second of the game, propelled the Braves to victory and a three-game sweep of the Giants.

The Braves were able to collect 12 hits themselves, just one less than Spokane, and counted one homer, a blast over the left field wall by Gene Klingler. Tri-City reliever Stan Arthur gave up nine runs to the Indians but starter Don Hopp, who allowed the other five runs, was tagged with the loss.
