

Style Revue Winner Named

LAKEVIEW — Grand champion winner in the annual 4-H style revue Friday night was Cecilia Swingle, who modeled her slate blue rayon dacron coat dress which she made in 4-H. She will model this same dress at Salem on September 9.

The theme of this year's revue was "Pattern Books" and as the narrators, Mrs. Anne Sprague and Frances Tracy, thumbed through the latest pattern books, the girls modeled in front of them.

Winning awards were Audrey Milsap, first, Terry Linecum, second, Mary Lee Scoville, third in the Charmingly Yours section; Barbara Oakley, Helen Odegaard, Janet Oakley, Teen-Age Miss; Francis Stewart, Joyce Robnett, Rhea Garrett, Fun and Sun, Division A.

In the Fun and Sun, Division B, P. Stewart again won first, Rhea Garrett, second, Mary Gail Barrow, third.

Winners in clothing 4A were Cecilia Swingle, Shirley Scoville, Anna Rose Lamb; 4B, Caroline Padgett, Jean Kaley and 5B, Earlene La Branch.

In the knitting section, first place went to Terry Linecum, second, Mary Lee Scoville, third, Ruth Troxell, Shirley Scoville, the only entry in Knitting 3, won first.

Judges were Mrs. Alice Lindsay, Grants Pass and Mrs. Charles Thurman, Klamath Falls.

Mrs. Robert Weir Jr., chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Richard Peat, Mrs. Donald Hotchkiss, Mrs. Warren Maxwell, Mrs. Jack Pennington, Mrs. Paul Kiewer. Background music was played by Mrs. Art Morton at the piano.

Southern Pacific Merges Departments In One Office

In a move to give greater emphasis and importance to its public relations effort, the Southern Pacific has merged its passenger traffic and public relations departments.

The consolidated department, now the "passenger traffic-public relations department," is under the direction of Claude E. Peterson, whose new title is vice president, system passenger traffic.

MINISTER DEPARTS

HONOLULU (AP) — Japanese Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu left by plane for Japan Tuesday night after a one-day visit. He is en route home after discussions with U.S. officials in Washington.

ARTHRITIS?

I have been wonderfully blessed in being restored to active life after being crippled in nearly every joint in my body and with muscular soreness from head to foot. I had Rheumatoid Arthritis and other forms of Rheumatism, hands deformed and my entire body ached.

Limited space prohibits telling you more here but if you will write me, I will reply at once and tell you how I received this wonderful relief.

public relations. Peterson formerly was vice president, system passenger traffic, of the railroad.

D. J. Russell, president of Southern Pacific, declared: "We believe the integration of the two departments will permit the assumption of greater responsibilities which will make public relations of real concern to everyone connected with the passenger department."

"I believe the new and enlarged organization will represent a step ahead in the public relations efforts of the railroad industry."

The professional public relations staff was retained as the nucleus of the new system-wide organization, and promotions were made among it.

F. Q. Tredway, general advertising manager since 1939, and promi-nently identified with railroad promotional activities on a national basis, became assistant to vice president, with jurisdiction over both advertising and public relations.

J. G. Shea, manager of public relations for SP's southern district in Los Angeles, was named general public relations manager, with headquarters in San Francisco.

A. L. Kohn, assistant general advertising manager, advanced to advertising manager.

Other promotions in the railroad's immediate public relations and advertising staffs in San Francisco included: Erle Heath, E. O. Fitzpatrick and S. T. Moore as assistant general public relations managers; Andrew Anderson, editor, Bureau of News; J. R. Houghton, editor, Southern Pacific Bulletin; J. R. Lehmann, assistant advertising manager; and H. M. Shreve, production manager.

K. C. Ingram, assistant to the president for more than 20 years, with responsibility for public relations matters, retained his title and was assigned related duties.
