ELECTIONS
PHNOM PENH, Cambodia — Virtually complete returns from Cambodia's general elections gave former King Norodom Sihanouk an unprecedented shutout victory Monday. The 33-year-old ex-king's Popular Socialist triumph broke the hold of former Premier Son Ngoc Thanh's Democrats, who had won every election since 1946.

Army Drops Cases Against Accused Former Prisoners

United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The Army has dropped the cases of 47 former prisoners of war suspected of collaboration with their Communist captors in Korea and China, six others, it was learned today.

The six were cleared by army board action. The 47 cases were dropped for lack of evidence. The army now has 54 cases still pending under investigation or trial.

Of the 565 former POWs of the Army, Air Force and Marine Corps who were investigated for possible collaboration, 428 now have been cleared or their cases dropped. This number includes three Army men acquitted by court martial.

EIGHT CONVICTED
 Eight men, all army, have been convicted by court martial of various offenses including the writing of pro-communist documents and the murder of fellow prisoners. They have received sentences ranging from dismissal to life imprisonment at hard labor.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's advisory committee on the prisoner of war problem reported that as of July 20, the Army still had 112 cases under investigation. All other services had completed action on all its cases.

Of the Army's 112, it was learned today, 47 have been dropped for lack of evidence, two have been convicted and two acquitted by court martial, six have been cleared and one dismissed by action of the Army's security board, and 54 cases are still pending.

CASES PENDING
 Among the Army's pending cases, charges already have been filed in at least eight, including the case of Maj. Ronald E. Alley, Bar Harbor, Me., now standing court martial at Ft. Meade, Md.

Charges also have been filed against three GI turncoats, Ohio G. Bell, 24, Hillsboro, Miss., and Olympic, Wash.; William C. Cowart, 22, Dalton, Ga.; and Lewis W. Griggs, 22, Jacksonville, Tex.

With the new figures the breakdown is as follows:
 Army — 426 investigated, 302 cleared or dropped, including three acquittals by court martial, eight convicted, 62 separated, 54 pending.
 Marine Corps — 52 investigated.

New Plane Shape Aids Top Speed

WASHINGTON (UP)—Aircraft designers have developed a revolutionary new Marilyn Monroe shape jet plane capable of boosting top air speeds 25 per cent.

The design narrows the plane's fuselage where the wings are joined. Its purpose is to cut down the "drag" which takes effect at supersonic speeds.

The long secret development was disclosed last week by Aero Digest, an aircraft industry trade magazine. It was confirmed yesterday by National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

The Advisory Committee said the first two military planes to use the new design have pushed up top air speeds "as much as 25 per cent."

Pilot Killed In Trainer Crash

FARMINGTON (UP) — Authorities today were investigating the crash and explosion of a jet trainer from Los Alamitos Air Force base last night which killed a Navy pilot.

Eye witnesses said the craft was flying irregularly when it suddenly crashed on the James Orvis ranch 11 miles east of here.

The plane exploded immediately, hurling the pilot's body some 200 feet and sending fragments in a quarter-mile radius.

Force of the impact rattled windows in Farmington.

Name of the pilot was withheld by navy authorities pending notification of next of kin.

ATOMIC TESTS

LONDON (UP) — Britain will hold her third atomic weapons test next April in the bleak Monte Bello Islands off the northwest Australian coast, the Ministry of Supply announced Monday. The fourth tests will be conducted later in 1956 in the central Australian desert.

Desegregation In Capital Schools Enters 2nd Year

WASHINGTON (UP) — A second year of desegregation begins today in public schools of the nation's capital.

Racial barriers are almost completely down for the 150,000 pupils involved, though the problems arising from the mixing of white and Negro youngsters are not all solved.

Washington was the first big city to start complete integration in obedience to the May 1954 Supreme Court ruling that segregation in public schools is unconstitutional. It acted before the court issued its formal decree.

Today, 12 months after children of the two races began attending classes together, both white and Negro pupils are starting the new semester in virtually all the 163 public schools in the District of Columbia. Some schools, depending on neighborhood, remain largely Negro or white.

How is this "social revolution," as it's often been called, working out?

Mostly, the new order is being taken for granted by parents and pupils alike — with no public sign of the uneasiness that sparked short-lived strikes by groups of white pupils in nine junior and senior high schools early in the 1954-55 term.

School by school, the situation varies. In some, mainly in higher-income neighborhoods, integration has caused barely a ripple. In one school where less than one third of the pupils are colored, a Negro woman has been elected president of the Parent-Teacher Assn.

In other schools, however, authorities report an increase in such problems as truancy, misbehavior and poor classwork.

Much public concern developed recently when a series of tests given last March showed Washington pupils below the national average in all subjects covered — arithmetic, reading, social concepts, natural science and English expression. There was an effort to link the results with integration.

School Supt. Hobart M. Canning insisted high standards have been maintained in the schools. At the same time he ordered a stepping up in remedial teaching and other measures to bring lagging pupils nearer par.

As the new school year opened, the Washington Star made an exhaustive study of the whole picture and concluded, "Integration has been turned out less smoothly than expected. Many of the problems were not expected. . . . Many of the problems were not expected."
