Rev. Lunham Home Again

CHILQUIN — The Rev. Patrick Lunham, resident priest at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Catholic Church, returned Saturday from a three and one-half months' trip to his home in Ireland. The plans on which he created the Atlantic took advantage of the fringe of a hurricane to travel in a strong tail wind, but doing so meant that the route was much farther north than that usually traveled, so Father Lunham got to see more of Iceland, Labrador and Canada than on previous photographs.

An ardent photographer, the priest was invited by two of the pilots to sit on the flight deck to take pictures.

Father Lunham spent 10 days in New York on his way to Ireland. The combination business and pleasure trip allowed time to see several stage shows, to visit the United Nations, and to see people he had known there several years ago when he was affiliated with a church in the city.

Although he had planned to visit both London and Paris as well as Dublin, the pleasures of being at home with his family made him change his mind, and he travels around Ireland and quiet living at home filled the summer months.

The Rev. Lunham came to Chilquín last spring, replacing the Rev. William Stone, who was transferred to Redmond, Now, the resident priest says he is anxious to get into parish affairs again after an outstanding vacation.

State Police Officer Addresses Students

Dave Fredrickson, state police officer, spoke to the students of Gilchrist High School September 22 on game laws and game conservation in Oregon in connection with the student planned program on wildlife conservation.

Officer Fredrickson talked of the problem of winter feed for the deer stating that the Oregon Game Commission is spending thousands of dollars in experimenting with plants to help the deer through severe winters.

Fish Killing Job Complete

Fish populations in Lake of the Woods are now a thing of the past — for the present at least. On September 21, a working crew of nearly 350 game commission personnel, homeowners around the lake, and sportsmen from Klamath Falls, Ashland, Medford, and Grants Pass saturated the lake with rotenone, the fish killing chemical, to remove the conglomeration of fish life which populated the lake.

Blessed with clear water, the crews started at dawn, and most of the chemical application had been completed by noon. Mopping up operations of the small swampy areas continued in the afternoon.

John Dimick, game commission biologist in charge of the operation, stated "There is little possibility that any fish escaped the poisoning. Because there were few trout in the lake, the greatest populations consist of carp, bullhead, and perch."

Three days following the treatment, reports disclosed that fish were piling up in windrows along the beaches. The conglomeration included warmouth, bluegill, and pumpkinseed sunfish, bullhead, perch, bass, crappie, suckers, and carp. Only the carp had been able to reach any size as attested by the 19 1/2 pounder that floated to shore shortly after the operation got underway and the thousands more floating on the surface by midmorning.

Two Held In Assault Cases

Two men held Monday in the county jail after gun play at Bly were under investigation by the district attorney's office. Joe Patterson, 41-year-old logger, was booked on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, after he was alleged to have shot his brother, Walter Patterson, 31-year-old U.S. Forest Service employe, in the leg.

According to Deputy Sheriff Jess Bryant, the brothers became involved in an argument in front of a Bly service station Monday morning. Joe Patterson is alleged to have whipped out an automatic pistol and fired one shot which struck his brother in the left leg.

Walter Patterson was taken to Klamath Valley Hospital and his alleged assailant was jailed. After another fracas near Bly Saturday night, a Portland sheet metal worker was arrested on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon by Deputy Bryant.

He is Roy L. Robertson, 49, who Bryant said terrorized a party of deer hunters gathered near Highway 66, a mile northeast of Bly. Bryant said Robertson was waving a pistol and threatening to kill the hunters.

A companion of the alleged gunman, Harold McCleary, also a Portland sheet metal worker, was charged with drunkenness and released on $25 cash bail. District Attorney Richard Beesley said he was investigating the two gun cases and formal charges may be filed later.

DUNSMUIR — Charles Braun, chief criminal deputy for Sheriff John Bolin, Redding, was the speaker for the Siskiyou County Peace Officers Association meeting in Dunsmuir Thursday night, September 15. George Banich assumed duties as president of the association. He was former vice president and stepped up to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of H. C. MacQueen, special agent with the Southern Pacific Railway, transferred to Indio, California.

The Weed officers will host the regular meeting scheduled in Weed October 13. William Auman, game warden, will head the committee for the October meeting, time and place to be announced.

Beef Commission May Be Answer

A beef commission may be the answer to sagging cattle prices according to Bill Gouldin of Chilquín and Ted Hyde of Bly, both Klamath County stockmen.

They attended the Oregon Cattlemen's Association executive committee meeting last week in Prineville where representatives of Oregon's cattle producers continued their study of marketing problems. The Klamath County cattlemen report a committee was appointed to iron out technicalities of Oregon's commodity enabling a act which make it difficult to form a livestock commission.
