

HERE'S A WALL WITH A DOWN-BEAT. This five-way music wall is so beautifully engineered that it will bring joy to the hearts of all music lovers. Spinnet piano has its own compartment and so do television, radio, phonograph and hi-fi speakers. These are easy to build of Douglas fir or West Coast Hemlock to match the paneling in an informal family room.

Music In The Wall

Music hath charms to soothe the whole family and all their guests when it's well assimilated in a music-diver wall in the family room, den or basement recreation hang-out.

One wall can easily accommodate all music preferences—piano, television, radio and phonograph with high-fidelity speaker system and record library. For the shutterbug, there might even be storage in one end for cameras, movie projection and sound equipment and slide file.

When planning an audio wall, it is necessary to choose a building material that will be flexible enough to cut to custom dimensions. For this all-important adaptability teamed with beauty, ease of maintenance and the proper tonal resonance to conduct sensitive sound, Douglas fir or west coast hemlock are ideal woods for such construction.

Such a sound unit may be built in the form of a divider to separate use or play areas, or may be installed right in the wall. Some of those built flush with the wall have a door to furnish access to the back of the unit. This is important if television set, phonograph and radio are not removable from the front, for there is always that little matter of burned-out tubes and other repairs.

Individuals will differ, naturally, as to how they wish each musical unit set into the wall. It is wise to plan television display so it will be at eye level when the viewer is seated. Sliding doors may cover the screen when the set is not in use, or folding shutter-type doors are attractive and nicely textured.

The phonograph will be handy if placed into a regular drawer-type sliding unit. If the phonograph will hold up in a perpetual party mood, for these hospitable softwoods, when properly finished, will resist scuffing and scratching. With many of the modern spray finishes, water and cigarette burns are shed with the greatest of aplomb.

has a lid, it is more convenient to have it removed, for a snugly-fitting drawer will keep dust out just as well. You may want to mount a small radio on a pull-down door and connect both radio and phonograph to the same speaker unit. Speakers placed at vantage points about the room, if you can afford it, or one on either side of the divider wall, will fill the area with music, rather than just emitting sound from a single point.

Simple shelves behind doors will adequately house records. Long-play discs must lie flat to prevent warping.

You need not worry about how your fir or hemlock installations will hold up in a perpetual party mood, for these hospitable softwoods, when properly finished, will resist scuffing and scratching. With many of the modern spray finishes, water and cigarette burns are shed with the greatest of aplomb.

CLEAN BOOKS

Instill a respect for his books in a child by insisting that he wash his hands as a routine preparation for sitting down to read, or being read to. He'll learn to have a pride in keeping the pages clean and unsmudged. The book covers can be protected by jackets of clear plastic, fastened with cellophane tape. The plastic bags that vegetables and other products come in work very well for this purpose. Just open them up and trim to fit.

APPLE CROP

The national apple crop for 1955 is estimated at nearly 106 1/2 million bushels. This compares with the 1954 crop of 111,091,000 bushels. The state of Washington reports an increase this year of approximately 25 per cent in the 1955 harvest and will harvest about 29,647,000 bushels this year. Approximately 90 per cent of the Washington state apple crop will be for fresh fruit consumption. About 35 per cent of the national apple crop will go to processing, primarily sauce and slices.
