The Grapevine

By BEV DORAN
Have you done anything funny or wrong this week, kids? This new column is an attempt to keep you posted on good old KUHS and some of the kids who we see in our "beat" through the ivy towers.
How many times have you heard about maintaining our traditions? Here are a few girls who must not have heard. It was after a pep rally, when Darlene Buchholz, Sharon Ruiton, Ramona Woodford, Donna Woyak (all sophomores, naturally) were caught walking down the senior walk.
Ronnie Ropp's car is a cute car, but will it run?
Last Thursday night at Future Business Leaders of America meeting, Donna Mahan was elected president of the club. After the meeting, Donna, Betty Barrett, Sally Sayers, Jan Murphy, Sandra Baker and Janet Gaddis hopped down Main Street doing the Bunny Hop barefooted which almost created a traffic jam. Then they departed for Wong's.
Well, kids, when are you going to don your Bermuda skirts or striped shirt? Beverly Goehring and Nancy Clark were the first journalists to parade the new fad. Bev is associate editor of the Krater, and Nancy serves as feature editor.
That's all for this week, guys and gals. If you've done anything outstanding, or heard of anything making a personal appearance to Room 302, where a News Nugget staffer will be happy to take down the "S Ws."

LYNN ARNOLD

Fort Worth, Texas, was the birthplace of Lynn Arnold, who we have selected as first on the agenda for this week's Senior Spotlight. Lynn arrived with his parents in Klamath Falls at the age of four. He was born September 12, 1937, and stands five foot, nine inches tall. He owns black hair and hazel eyes.
Lynn's hobbies are hunting, sleeping, and just being plain "lazy." His likes are Badapady, potato soup, television, and his collection of modern jazz records. His favorite song is "Love is a Many Splendored Thing." His pet peeve is Pekingese dogs that get hair all over everything.
Red, Earl, Tim, Joe, Badapady, and all the rest of the gang are on his register of close friends.
Currently, Lynn is employed part time at the Herald and News. He would not reveal his plans after graduation.
Second in this week's Senior Spotlight is Roy Ropp, who was born April 30, 1937. This popular brown-eyed senior enjoys wrestling, football, track, "K" Club, and is an enthusiastic member of Boys' Alliance.
Roy's dislikes are mainly "rooks," chocolate and Western music. Athletics of all types, tinkering with cars and ice cream are listed among his likes.
We asked Roy's opinion about Senior Spotlight, and he confessed that he enjoyed it.
Third to be interviewed this week is blue-eyed Shirley Moore. She is very active in student affairs at Klamath Union High. She is a member of Tri-Hi-Y, Girls League, Future Business Leaders, FHA and Rally Squad.
Some of Shirley's likes are: Little Orle, dancing, movies, football and basketball games, french fries and her many friends. She dislikes homework, mayonnaise and the idea of graduating. Shirley lists her closest friends as Bev Overen, Bonnie Karnes, Jimmie Arnold, Gloria Mahan, Marjorie Anderson, Gerry Steiner, Marilyn Nancarrow and Orin Perkins.
Last this week we present Patsy Jean Golden, five foot tall and weighing 117 pounds with brown hair. Born in Broken Bow, Oklahoma, the Golden family migrated to Klamath Falls, while Patsy was still a baby.

Patsy spent the last summer's vacation in California with her sister. Her main hobby is cooking, and she lists her best friend as Lois Lebeck. Likes include the color "red." Western music, most sports, and food in general.
Her ambition and desire is to someday own her own car.
Patsy recalls her most embarrassing moment as the time when the old car which she was driving stalled on Main Street, and, of course, the clothes she was wearing were greasy and dirty.
Her plans for the future are undecided.

MR. EVERETT VANDERPOOL, veteran Klamath Union High Social Economics instructor, attended college this summer where he studied family problems for four weeks. He spent the remainder of the summer working.

'Happy Birthday' Mr. President!

By FRED HEARD
President Dwight David Eisenhower, our 34th president of the United States, celebrated his 65th birthday last Friday.
"Ike" was born October 14, 1890, in Denison, Texas. His early years were spent in the town of Abilene, Kansas, the place where "Wild" Bill Hickok gained his fame as the frontier marshal.
Mr. Eisenhower was graduated from West Point in 1915, as a 2nd lieutenant of the infantry. In 1934 "Ike" began a two-year period on the staff of General Douglas MacArthur. The President was promoted to colonel on March 11, 1941, and brigadier-general, September 29, 1941. In March, 1942 Mr. Eisenhower was elevated to major general.
After being placed in command of the United Nations, February 11, 1943, Winston Churchill addressing Congress that month remarked, "I do not think you could have chosen any man more capable than General Eisenhower for keeping this very large heterogeneous force together through bad times as well as good, and in creating the conditions of harmony and energy which were the indispensable elements of victory."
On January 20, 1954 after a long and hard campaign, "Ike" took office as our 34th president.
September 24, just 20 days before his birthday, Mr. Eisenhower suffered a mild heart attack, and he is now on the road of recovery in Denver, Colorado. Get well quickly, Mr. President!

Letter to the Editor

By LINDA GREGORY
Some of you guys and gals might be wondering just what has happened to our fair-haired seniors of the 1955 class. A letter to the News Nugget staff from Dave D'Olivio, one of last year's grads at the University of Oregon for his freshman year, will answer your query.
Dear News Nugget Staff:
I wrote down the names of the fraternities and the names of the fellows who have pledged. As yet, I don't have the girls or their respective sororities. Here are the guys:
Alpha Tau Omega, Vaughn Schneck, and James Southwell; Phi Gamma Delta, David Troy; Phi Kappa Psi, George Brandt and Ronnie Conner; Phi Kappa Sigma, Stuart Campbell, Robert Dixon, Jim Dutcher and Tom Humble; Sigma Chi, David D'Olivio and Craig McCarty; and Sigma Phi Epsilon, William Bechen, Donald Boyd, John Shaw and Larry Yarnell.
Other songs that are enjoyed by these pep cats are "Gum Drop," "If I May," "Don't Stay Away Too Long," "Longest Walk," "Humming Bird," "Suddeny There's a Valley," "Man in a Raincoat," "Redheaded Stranger," and "Slaughter on Fifth Avenue." These discs are supported by Dennis Runge, Robert Hughes, Janet Putman, Neoma Young, Darlene St. John, Jim Stevens, Arlene Matthews, Lucy Rider, Kenneth Stang, Janet Morris and Sylvia Miller.
These are really the most enjoyed records of the nation today.
All of the Klamath Falls group are enjoying school. It seems like home up here with all of them around. There are a lot of things to do here, but most of your time is taken by studying.
Well, that's about all for now, as I have to study biology and go to bed.
Sincerely,
Dave D'Olivio

Platter Patter

By SHARON O'NEIL and CAROLE HORN
Since music is very popular, and most people like it we are featuring a column with names of kids and their favorite tunes. "Rock Around the Clock" rates top with Carol Holcomb, Dorothy Hodges, Gloria Wallin, Bill Vertrees, Beverly Wade, Robert Malotte and Victor Nork. The next most popular recording, "Black Denim Trousers," by Vaughn Monroe is liked by Larry Alexander, Eddie Mike-shell, Mary Ann Harper, Katherine Lemire and Ralph McKines. "The Yellow Rose of Texas" is enjoyed by Michael Briggs, Dave Vinson, Beverly Wise, David DeLap, Jim Brown, Sharon Zachary, Edward Veach, Jim Veach, Bill Messner and Bryon Smith. "Learning to Love" and "Seventeen" is popular with Bob Addington, Steve Reeder, Carole Corley, Pat Campbell, Jackie Fanning, Lynn Frisler, Dennis Long, Marlene Cramer and Frieda Neal.
"Ain't that a Shame" is real gone with Herbie Rodgers, Richard Johnson, John Genzales and Alan Cone.
Other songs that are enjoyed by these pep cats are "Gum Drop," "If I May," "Don't Stay Away Too Long," "Longest Walk," "Humming Bird," "Suddeny There's a Valley," "Man in a Raincoat," "Redheaded Stranger," and "Slaughter on Fifth Avenue." ## Pelican Poet

MELANCHOLY AUTUMN
By Cleo Braathen
Sad, sweet music fills the air,
Born in the cool, crisp breeze,
A mood of reluctance is everywhere,
The wind is stripping the trees.
With the spicy aroma of burning leaves,
And smoke drifting through the skies,
Nature, a world of awe she weaves,
Muffling Summer's cry.
Now the year has quickly fled,
A tear on a fading rose remains,
Summer's forgotten days have aged,
Gone are the last refrains.
And through the late October haze,
We see the Master's hand,
Beyond the hills with color ablaze,
An everlasting land.
And when at last you come to fall,
Your life work is all done,
And when you beckon to the call,
There'll be eternal sun.

Typing Department Lists Dorothy Bailie 'Veteran'

By JAN MURPHY
Featured this week in the News Nugget are the typing teachers of Klamath Union High School. Miss Dorothy Bailie hails from Deadwood, South Dakota, and majored in Business Education at both Southern Oregon College and Oregon State College. She is a graduate of OSC.
Miss Bailie has three classes of beginning shorthand, two advanced classes of typing, and one beginning class of shorthand. During the activity period she supervises the typing rooms, where she handles the makeup work for students who have been absent. Students requiring additional help are assisted during this period.
Currently there is a variety of typewriters from which the students may choose. These include Royal, Remington, Underwood and R. C. Allen, the latter which is being used for the first time at Klamath Union High School.
Advanced students are now studying units in business forms, stenography and duplication of forms.
Miss Bailie has approximately 190 students enrolled in her classes this year.
Next we feature Mrs. Sam "Mortie" Redkey, who has just begun her first year on the KUHS faculty. Mrs. Redkey's birthplace was Buhl, Idaho. She majored in Business Administration at Southern Oregon College of Education, and later was graduated from the University of Oregon. Mrs. Redkey is the daughter of Mrs. Ruth King, feature writer for the Herald and News.
General Business and typing one and three are subjects assigned to Mrs. Redkey this year, and her first year students are currently learning the keyboard. Her second-year students are completing a review. General business students under her tutelage are concentrating on banking accounts.
Mrs. Redkey lists her hobbies as teaching, reading and needle work.
"I am really too new here at KUHS to have any likes, dislikes, or pet peeves," stated Mrs. Redkey at the conclusion of her interview.
Mr. Leslie J. Fischer tops the list as the first male typing teacher. Born in Richardson, North Dakota, he received his bachelor of science degree from the University of North Dakota.
This personable teacher instructs typing classes during the first, fourth, fifth and sixth periods. He enjoys all sports and hunting. "As for my pet peeve it is gum-chewing in class. I think this is a very nice school. If I can eventually discover where everything is located, I enjoy the students very much."
During the summer, Mr. Fischer attended the University of North Dakota. This is his first year at Klamath Union High. His previous teaching experience came from high schools in North Dakota.

Assembly Features Expert Rifle Shooter

October 14 students of Klamath Union High School assembled in Pelican Court for a trick shooting demonstration by Mr. G. E. Damon, Assistant of Secondary-member of the National Rifle Association.
In this demonstration of the "two-gun Annie" type, he showed us what he called the "crasiest ammunition" in America.
Mr. Damon has taught classes in gun and hunting safety for many years. According to this gun enthusiast, everyone who learns to shoot a gun should be taught how to shoot accurately and safely. His book, "Gun Fun With Safety," was published in 1946, as a text and reference for this purpose.
