

Westinghouse, CIO Negotiate

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Negotiators for Westinghouse Electric Corp. and the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers attempted today to settle a strike by 44,000 workers which has idled 30 company plants across the nation since last Sunday midnight.

Company and union representatives agreed to take up wage, time and length of contract disputes which have dominated the month-old negotiations. Federal mediators John R. Murray of Philadelphia and J. A. Moran of Pittsburgh, who participated in sessions down to the strike deadline, said they would sit out today's meeting but would study results.

"We'll let them work it out themselves and then review the progress, if any, later," Murray said.

Prospects for an immediate settlement appeared dim. The chief negotiator, R. D. Blasier, Westinghouse vice president, and James B. Carey, IUE international president, indicated their respective positions were unchanged.

"Settlement can be reached if the company offers proper wages and grievance procedure for limit study of day rate jobs, leading to arbitration," Carey said.

However, Blasier announced that Westinghouse had made its "final proposal." He said the major obstacle was the union's refusal to accept a long-term contract.

The union already has rejected the company offer of a five-year pact with annual pay increases totaling 23 1/2 cents an hour. The IUE has demanded a flat 15-cent hourly boost and a short-term contract.

Carey said he would stand by the demand for a flat increase for the final year of the present contract, which expires in 1956, but would agree to a two-year extension with immediate bargaining to determine terms of the extension.

Smelly Pennies Bring Apology

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Former Navy Lt. Cmdr. Eugene Sutton of Riddle, Ore., has apologized to San Francisco Judge Clayton Horn for sending a batch of malodorous pennies in payment of a traffic fine.

The traffic judge had threatened to cite Sutton for contempt of court if he failed to come up with a satisfactory explanation.

The judge and received 500 smelly pennies for a $6 fine. And there was 19 cents postage due.

Sutton, in a two-page typewritten letter, apologized profusely; reminded the due amount and explained he dropped the pennies and they fell into an open dish full of cheese, "either roperior to limburger."

Mobile Crane Injures Eight

SNOQUALMIE PASS, Wash. (AP) — Eight persons were injured, one critically, Monday when a huge mobile crane careened wildly out of control down a construction area on the Snoqualmie Pass Highway.

Described as in critical condition in Nelems Memorial Hospital at North Bend was Mrs. Violet Basc, 37, of Seattle, who suffered fractured legs and severe cuts when her car was smashed into a twisted pile of metal.

Mrs. Basc and a passenger, Melvin Ferris, 20, of Kent, Wash., who suffered cuts and bruises, were thrown from the car when the crane crushed it on its wild race down the highway.

"It's a good thing they were, too," commented State Patrolman William Milliken, who witnessed the mishap. "Their car was an awful mess."

Besides the Basc car, the crane smashed two other cars and two trucks, including a truck-trailer rig owned by Southern Freightways of Vancouver, B.C.

Patrolman Milliken gave this account of the accident: "I noticed the crane coming down the hill. It didn't seem to be in any trouble. Then I saw the driver (Greene) standing on the running board. He was yelling: 'My air brakes are gone!'"

"Then he jumped off the crane. The cars and trucks had just started up after being stopped by the crane at the construction site. They were going slowly. The crane and the other vehicles were all going west. The crane just ran over them."

Siskiyou Reporter Delves Into Lost Lemurian Legend In Mt. Shasta Area

By DICK HUBBELL

A Siskiyou County newspaper reporter last weekend began explorations of Mount Shasta in an effort to locate what he hopes are the remnants of a lost civilization which at one time existed on the high slopes of the snow-capped peak.

John W. Chamberlin, reporter on the Siskiyou Daily News, said that last weekend's trip was above the 7,000 foot level on the peak, which tops 14,000 feet above sea level. The names of persons accompanying him were not announced.

Before leaving, he said that he hoped "to come upon some evidence — maybe some old ruins — to substantiate the many reports of scientists and other persons, that a race called the Lemurians, or some other ancient people, did live on or in the mountain."

"Of course, if any survivors of what many have surmised are descendants of the oldest race in the history of the earth, still live in the region, which I personally doubt very much, all the better."

German Jazz 'Sends' Fans

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — Seven thousand outraged hot jazz fans rioted at a Louis Armstrong concert here Monday night because they couldn't hear. They caused $1,800 damage before police could subdue them.

The trouble began when the amplifying system at the Ernst-Moritz-Hall went dead. Many in the sell-out crowd found some of the phrases offered by "Saludos" and his band had become inaudible.

Screaming "We want our money back," they began breaking up the furnishings, chairs and cushions were hurled at the stage. The American musicians scurried in the wings.

In all, 150 chairs were destroyed. A grand piano and other musical instruments were damaged. After a police squad cleared the hall, thousands gathered in the street. They dispersed when police threatened to use fire hoses against them. Twenty-three were hauled off to jail.

Armstrong, a popular performer in Germany, shook his head sadly. "I am sorry it ended that way," he said. "That defective loud-speaker system spoiled my own pleasure too."

Mrs. Clara Gunderlack, head of the concert agency which sponsored Armstrong, blamed "undisciplined elements" for the disorder. "But to show our good will, we have scheduled another concert here Tuesday night," she said.

Defense Exercise Plans Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Canada Tuesday announced simultaneous plans to conduct joint air defense exercises this winter.

The Department of Defense designated the operation as "Cracker Jack" and said the exercises would involve the air defense systems in both Canada and the United States, presumably including the Distant Early Warning radar line now under construction near the Arctic Circle.

Purpose of the exercise is to provide radar tracking and intercept practice for defense forces during winter weather. The U.S. Strategic Air Command will be used to test the defenses.

No date for the beginning of the exercise has been announced.

EXCITING FOOD NEWS SEE WED. NIGHTS PAPER

Dan arrived in Portland Monday to visit the Pacific International Livestock Exposition. He also expects to stop in Corvallis to visit his sister, Joyce, a student there, and to talk with his former professors. Dunham was a student there until the illness of his father forced him to drop out of school to take over management of the family's 875-acre ranch in the Goose Lake Valley near Lakeview.

Young Dunham will be traveling over the country in the coming year, visiting local and regional offices of the FFA and speaking at numerous meetings.

His father now is able to resume management of the ranch.

Marines Get New Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Gen. Raymond McCall Pate, a 35-year-old South Carolinian, will take over as commander of the Marine Corps.

He will succeed Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, under whom he has served as deputy commander. Shepherd is retiring. Pate will be the corps' first commander.

The announcement of Pate's elevation was made by secretary of Defense Wilson after a call on President Eisenhower at Denver. Pate said it came as a surprise to him, and he was "very much excited and quite humble."

A native of Port Royal, S. C., Pate entered the Marine Corps after his 1931 graduation from the Virginia Military Institute.

A major at the outbreak of World War II, he gained distinction in helping plan such Pacific amphibious operations as Guadalcanal, Peleliu, Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

Toward the end of the Korean War, Pate led the 1st Marine Division in some bitter fighting.

of the mysterious mist that would rise during forest fires and turn them back from certain areas and leave areas of trees unburned. All of these things, Chamberlin says, could be attributed to the Lemurians.

On the other hand, most scientists and other experts have tended to scoff at the Lemurian legend, which has been repeated both by Indians and white men. Who is right? Chamberlin says he intends to find out.
