Hodiak Death Stuns Filmland

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Actor John Hodiak's fatal heart attack stunned today Hollywood's film colony, already saddened by the recent deaths of four other movie stars.

Hodiak, 41, a Pittsburgh coal miner's son, pushed his way to theatrical stardom in a career that began at the age of 11, when he acted in Russian and Ukrainian plays in a parish. He was shaving Wednesday morning when he collapsed suddenly and died of coronary thrombosis.

Death came as the tall, handsome actor headed for new screen stardom after his movie career temporarily stalled. Critics were praising him for his performance as a prosecuting attorney in a new film, "Trial," which opened recently throughout the country.

Other deaths which have rocked Hollywood since late summer were those of Carmen Miranda, Susan Ball, Robert Francis and James Dean.

The careers of Miss Ball, who died of cancer, and Francis and Dean, killed in plane and auto crashes, respectively, were among the most promising in Hollywood. Miss Miranda, the fiery Latin-American entertainer, was re-establishing herself as a top Hollywood performer when she died suddenly — like Hodiak — of a heart attack.

Although Hodiak's friends and family said he was healthy, and had no record of heart trouble, doctors explained that the actor had high blood pressure and there was "a bad family heart history." Hodiak lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hodiak, a sister, Mrs. Anne Silvia, and a brother, Walter Jr., in a suburban San Fernando Valley home. His sister heard him fall and found him dead on the bathroom floor.

Hodiak, rejected for World War II service because of hypertension, reached film stardom in such pictures as "Lifeboat" and "A Bell for Adano."

Reds Report Henkel Freed

GENEVA, Switzerland (UP)—Communist China today announced the release of two more American "nationals" but United States officials said they are not on the list of detained Americans whose freedom is being negotiated here.

U.S. Envoy U. Alexis Johnson is expected to ask for information on the two Americans during the 22nd session of the Sino-American ambassadorial talks. The session opened shortly after Peiping Radio announced that two "American" civilians had been granted permission to leave Communist China.

The broadcast, monitored in London, identified the couple as "Louis Henkel and his wife, Mrs. L. A. Henkel . . . two nationals of the United States living in Shanghai."

An American spokesman here said the Henkels were not among the 41 American civilians known to be detained on the Communist-held China mainland. Of these 41, 16 have been released since the talks began some months ago.

Trucker Cited For Deaths

CUMBERLAND, Md. (UP)—Authorities said today the driver of a runaway truck which smashed into a dump truck and an automobile, killing five persons, near here Wednesday will be charged with manslaughter.

Paul S. Myers, 25, Dover, Pa., who was the only survivor of the grisly accident in the heavily populated suburb of La Vale, was scheduled to be taken before a trial magistrate this morning to be booked on a charge of manslaughter with a motor vehicle.

Police said they were investigating reports that a damaged airline repaired with friction tape caused the brakes on Myers' tractor-trailer, loaded with sheet aluminum, to fail as he descended Big Savage Mountain on U.S. Route 46 near Frostburg, five miles west of here.

Myers said he "prayed to God . . . that someone would blink to call state police" and have them try to get the road cleared" as the rig roared down a long grade through Frostburg's main street at 90 miles an hour. He said he battled for control of the runaway but when a fire blew the truck smashed into the rear of an automobile carrying four persons and then careened into a dump truck.

The driver of the dump truck, Samuel A. Breneman, 29, Spingass, Pa., was decapitated in the collision, apparently by a sheet of aluminum from the truck load. The other four victims died in their flaming car. Myers walked away from the tangled wreckage of the three vehicles with only minor injuries.

Waterfowl, Upland Bird Gunning Begins Saturday

Scattergun devotees will have their day on October 22, for on that date waterfowl and upland bird gunning will get underway throughout the state of Oregon.

Gunners can look for another good season with surveys indicating population increases with most species of waterfowl and a stable population of pheasants, quail, and partridge throughout the upland game bird habitat.

In eastern Oregon, the season will be open for pheasants, quail and Hungarian partridge extending through November 13. In Western Oregon, the season will be open for pheasants, valley and bobwhite quail extending through November 12 except in Clatsop and Marion counties where the season on quail will remain closed.

Bag limits on pheasants will be 4 cocks per day, 12 in possession. In eastern Oregon, the bag limit on quail and partridge will be 10 per day in the aggregate, 20 in possession. West of the Cascades the bag limit on quail will be five per day in the aggregate, 10 in possession.

The waterfowl season will extend from October 22 through January 9 for all species of ducks and geese except brant where the season will be from December 1 through February 19. The jack-snipe season will extend from November 27 through December 11.

Daily bag limits for ducks remain at 9, 15 in possession, providing such daily bag or possession limit contains not less than three widgeons or pintails. One wood duck and one hooded merganser will be allowed in the daily bag limit.

Bag limit for geese is six daily or in possession, providing not more than three are of the dark species. In Yamhill, Polk, Benton, Lane, and Lane counties no more than two Canada geese may be allowed in the bag limit.

Other bag limits are three brant daily or in possession, eight jack-snipe daily or in possession, and 25 coot daily or in possession.

Hunters are urged to consult the Oregon game synopsis for complete information pertaining to the upland bird regulations and the Oregon migratory waterfowl synopsis for complete waterfowl regulations. Copies of these regulations can be obtained at the game commission's Portland office, regional offices, and at all license agencies.
