Chambers Hear Guest Talkers

MOUNT SHASTA—Guest speakers at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Inter-County Chamber of Commerce of Northern California included Jerry Carpenter, director of travel and recreation for the state chamber; Senator Randolph Collier, chairman of the Mount Shasta Chair Lift Development Committee; Paul Statham of the Shasta Trinity National Forest, and Chapman Wentworth, vice chairman of the chair lift committee. Members of Siskiyou County board of supervisors Arthur Barry, Clint Jackson and Don Avery were invited guests.

Carpenter stressed the necessity for publicizing the Mount Shasta Ski Bowl on a national basis. With him on the trip was Melville E. Wank of Wank-Lougee-McDonald & Lee advertising agency.

Collier reiterated his personal interest in the development of the recreational resources of the area and his belief that it has the biggest development potential of any place in the West.

Supervisor Statham stated that, as he was leaving his office in Redding, he had received notice of the actual appropriation of $280,000 for the John Everitt Memorial Highway.

Wentworth gave a detailed report on the accomplishments to date of the chair lift committee.

STANFORD (UP) — Some 400 California high school journalism students and their advisers met here yesterday in the 32nd annual convention of the Central California Scholastic Press Association.

Deputies Hunting Two Juveniles

ALTURAS — Sheriff's deputies were searching last week for two boys who broke out of the juvenile ward of the county jail and are believed to have stolen a 1954 station wagon belonging to Alvin Powers of Alturas.

The car was recovered the following day at Susanville.

The Lassen County authorities reported a burglary and car theft in that county which is believed to have been the work of the same 16 and 17-year-old youths. These are the boys who were arrested as Newell a few days previously on a burglary charge.
