

THIS BOTTLE-SMITTEN KITTEN couldn't see, walk or eat just a short month ago. Puddin' was then only three days old. And weaker than a cat. Now, after a month of bed and board with the Glenn Down family, 4220 Frieda (Mrs. Down in picture) . . . he can see that bottle around corners and rushes whoever holds it. Dancing around on his hind feet — the orange striped little demon grabs for the bottle with his front paws. Continuing with his present diet he will be in fine feline fettle by the first day of Cat Week, November 6. Every month is Dairy Month to Puddin' the milk producer's dream cat . . . and his milk-mad meowing is "Grade A" music to the dairymen's ears. —Photo by Milly Ramsby.

Automation Idea Blasted

WASHINGTON (AP) — James E. Carey, president of the CIO Electrical Workers Union, Monday declared it's "a lot of nonsense to say automation will create new jobs."

"It's a deliberate way of fooling the public," he told a Senate House subcommittee studying the impact of the growing use of automatic devices in factories and offices.

Chevrolet Price Tag Gets Boost

DETROIT (AP) — A price increase averaging 4.4 per cent on 1956 model Chevrolets was announced Monday by General Motors Chevrolet division.

The new cars go on dealer display Nov. 4.

The suggested factory list price increase ranges from $49.25 to $84.35.

Directional signals became standard equipment. They were sold at extra cost in 1955.

Chevrolet also announced a $125 reduction in price of its air conditioning unit to $400. The optional power package which, when applied to the V-8 furnishes top horsepower in the line, was reduced from $55 to $30.

Prize Cattle On "Stolen" List

EUGENE (AP) — Sen. Morse (D-Ore) has moved some of his prize Devon cattle here from his Maryland farm.

There was a mixup when the cattle arrived, though. A neighbor thought some of the senator's cattle were being stolen and called police.

One of the three men who brought the cattle to the Morse farm here identified himself as Edward Lury, a District of Columbia police lieutenant who made the trip while on leave.

Carey, who also is secretary-treasurer of the CIO, said output and sales in the electrical and related industries were soaring "but employment goes down." As automation increases, he contended, more money must find its way into workers' pockets or the nation faces "inevitable depression."

Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) said the introduction of mass-or continuous-production about 50 years ago resulted in shorter hours and higher wages. He said he wouldn't be "disturbed" if automation also contributed to short hours and higher wages at no higher prices.

"I agree," Carey said, "and prices should go down."

Another witness, William W. Barton, president of W. F. and John Barnes Co., a machine tool manufacturing plant in Rockford, Ill., said "automation always has been with us and is the backbone of our economic progress."

French To Accept Viet Nam Vote

PARIS (AP) — A Foreign Office spokesman said Monday the French government will accept the results of Sunday's referendum in South Viet Nam and recognize Premier Ngo Dinh Diem as new chief of state.

The decision represents a sharp turn in policy for France, which has supported former Emperor Bao Dai, who was installed as chief of state by the French in 1949. Since then he has spent most of his time in this country.
