We Give and Redeem G&W BROWN STAMPS

IN VIENNA, veal cutlet is Wiener Schnitzel. Veal cutlets are lightly breaded, sauteed and then topped with an anchovy or sour cream sauce for this Viennese specialty. Beer and buttered egg noodles are the appropriate accompaniments.

Wiener Schnitzel

with the entree and a baked fruit tart for dessert.

WIENER SCHNITZEL

8 veal cutlets, cut 1/2-inch thick

1 egg, beaten

1 tablespoon water

1 cup dry bread crumbs

1/4 cup flour

1 teaspoon minced parsley

1 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon pepper

1/2 cup (1 bar) butter or margarine

1/2 cup tomato juice, water, milk, or sour cream

6 anchovy fillets (optional)

Juice of 1 lemon (optional)

Have butcher pound meat with cleaver to make it very thin. Dip each cutlet in egg beaten with water and then in a mixture of bread crumbs, flour, parsley, salt and pepper. Place the breaded cutlets on wax paper and allow to stand about 30 minutes. Melt 1/2 of the butter or margarine in a large skillet and saute the cutlets, a few at a time, until golden brown on both sides. Return browned cutlets to skillet and add tomato or other liquid. Cover and cook slowly until tender (about 30 minutes). Transfer cutlets to a serving platter and place in warm oven. Heat the remaining butter with mashed anchovies and lemon juice. Pour over cutlets and serve with a garnish of parsley and lemon slices. If preferred, heat sour cream with the fat in the pan for a sour cream sauce.

Modern Cooking Gadget Style

Kitchen gadgets don't make a cook any more than clothes make the man, but they surely help to make cooking easier and more fun. For instance, those individual measuring cups. It's so easy to fill them with flour, sugar or shortening in the amount called for by your recipe, whisk a spatula across the top, and know your measurement is level.

In grandma's day level measurements weren't as important as they are today. Recipes called for a heaping measure of this, and a scant measure of that. And the results were just as indefinite as the measurements, sometimes good, and sometimes bad. Nowadays we're more scientific, says Crisco Kitchens. All recipes call for definite level measurements, exact oven temperatures and baking times, and modern cooking equipment makes it easy to follow these rules, so you can be sure of good results each time.

Unit measuring spoons are a kitchen necessity, too, and a rubber spatula for keeping the sides of your mixing bowl clean while your electric mixer does the work of mixing a cake, or a pudding. Use it, too, when emptying sauces or gravies into a serving dish. Then there'll be no waste. Housewares departments are getting more and more exciting with newly designed cooking aids in colors to match almost any kitchen decor, and pretty enough to leave out in plain sight. Many of them make you wonder how you ever lived without them in the years before they were invented.

But if you are a serious cook, one who likes to try old recipes, you've probably found that many of these oldies call for weighing ingredients, instead of measuring them. This doesn't mean that you have to rush out to buy kitchen scales. You can translate the weights into amounts that can be measured with your modern equipment.

For instance, one pound of confectioner's sugar measures approximately 3 1/2 cups; one pound of raisins measures about 2 1/2 cups.

SWEET TREAT

These cookies are of the soft, moist type that are so good served with coffee. Pineapple gives them a sweet piquancy. Sugar coated corn flakes, crushed just slightly, are used for the outer coating which stays crisp during baking.

PINEAPPLE COOKIES

2 cups sifted flour

1 teaspoon baking powder

1 teaspoon baking soda

1/4 teaspoon salt

1/2 cup butter or margarine

1/2 cup brown sugar

1/2 cup granulated sugar

2 eggs

1/2 teaspoon vanilla

1/2 cup drained crushed pineapple

3 1/2 cups sugar coated corn flakes

1/2 cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Blend butter and sugar. Add eggs and vanilla and beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with pineapple, mixing well after each addition. Crush corn flakes slightly; combine with nutsmeats. Roll tablespoonful of dough in Frosted Flakes mixture; place a little apart from each other on greased baking sheets. Bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees, about 12 minutes. Makes about 4 dozen cookies.
