CYRIL L. (CY) PALMER

Then . . .

Now . . .

Anyone who examined the record of Cyril L. (Cy) Palmer, Klamath Falls manager for the United Air Lines, would certainly agree that some of his experiences lend convincing proof to Lord Byron's contention that "truth is stranger than fiction."

For instance, Palmer attended 13 grade schools in four years. He matriculated in such places as Havana, Cuba and in various schools in Florida, Texas and Georgia. However, he started high school in Kansas City and was graduated there.

Palmer's ambulatory educational routine resulted from the fact that his father was traveling salesman covering a wide territory and the family moved around with him.

While Palmer was in his senior year in high school, he became a member of the Auditorium Theater Stock Company in Kansas City and played juvenile roles in such productions as "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," "Turn to the Right" and "The Servant in the House."

SKATING INSTRUCTOR
During the same period, he worked as a skate boy in the Coliseum Skating Rink in Kansas City and later spent a couple of years as a skating instructor.

In 1918, Palmer enrolled in the University of Kansas but his education was interrupted by a call to service in World War I.

At the conclusion of the European hostilities, Palmer went back to show business. He organized an orchestra known as "Coloradoans" and toured the Middle West. He played the violin.
In 1924, Palmer was engaged by Paramount-Public Theaters to act as master of ceremonies for stage shows presented in various theaters throughout the Middle West. He still played the violin and often crossed the path of another famous fiddler—Jack Benny. Movie star Ginger Rogers sang one season with his band.

FIDDLER AROUND
"I fiddled around about as long as Benny," Palmer said. "But in 1928, I got out of show business. I believe I can still play the violin as good as Benny from what I have heard in recent years on the radio."

After deserting the footlights, Palmer turned to the business end of aviation for a new career. In 1928, he was employed as field agent at Oklahoma City for National Air Transport. He stayed with that firm until 1931 when it became a part of the newly-organized United Air Lines.

Palmer has been with United Air Lines ever since. He has acted as manager in Toledo, Ohio, Youngstown, Ohio, Fresno, California, Twin Falls, Idaho, Salinas, California and Klamath Falls. In keeping with his pattern of life, Palmer soon will be on the move again. In a couple of weeks he is slated to return to Salinas as United field manager.

Thompson's pickup struck the southeast end of the bridge and rolling over several times before it bounced on top of the truck, catching fire as it lay on the top of the cab-over freight truck-tractor. As soon as Cosler could bring the truck to a stop he attempted to pull Thompson from the cab of his pickup but was unable to rescue him. The Siskiyou County coroner said that Thompson died from spinal injuries. Cosler suffered a broken hand and is being treated in the Siskiyou General Hospital, Yreka.
