Huskies Frighten Bruin '11'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The amazing Huskies of Washington almost sidetracked the UCLA Rose Bowl express Saturday by the Bruins came from behind to kick a field goal in the last 18 seconds of the game to edge out a 19-17 Pacific Coast Conference triumph.

Right halfback Jim Decker was the hero in this dramatic finale to a game that had 47,319 fans in a state of hysteria throughout the fourth quarter.

The triumph gave UCLA its fifth conference victory against no defeats and virtually clinched the bid to represent the coast in the big bowl Jan. 2.

Washington, which had lost three and tied one in its last four games, appeared to have added another dramatic chapter to a dizzy football season as they went into the final three minutes with a 17-14 lead.

The Huskies presented UCLA with two points on a safety to prevent the danger of a blocked punt. There were 2 minutes and 51 seconds left in the game and that left the Huskies in front 17-16.

The Bruins drove from midfield to the Washington 19 to set up the winning field goal kick. The ball actually travelled 35 yards through the air off Decker's foot.

The Huskies, 4-touchdown underdog, had the Bruins and their backers dumfounded as they led 14-7 at the end of the first half, knocking the Bruins down for two touchdowns in the second quarter.

Washington made 17-7 on a 34-yard field goal by Dean Derby in the third period and an upset was well in the making.

The Bruins' air attack was destroyed the first time they had the ball when their star passer, Ronnie Knox, was hurt and forced out of the game.

They tried two passes in the second quarter and the Huskies turned the first into an interception and a spectacular 61-yard scoring run by halfback Jim Jones of Seattle.

Arnett, Witte Tabbed For A-A Grid Honors

NEW YORK (AP)—The Associated Press All-America football team will not be announced until Dec. 2 but based on performances up to now AP regional boards feel that following players are at least good bets.

Ron Beagle, Navy's great end, a first team All-America last year, who is having as good a season as in 1954.

Hopalong Cassidy, the big ground gainer in Ohio State's high powered offense, who also made the first team last year.

Bill Walker, Maryland end, a second team choice in 1954, and key man on the undefeated Maryland team.

Bo Bolinger, guard on Oklahoma's top ranked, undefeated team.

Bruce Bosley, tackle on the big West Virginia forward wall.

Earl Morrill, quarterback credited with leading Michigan State out of the doldrums.

Scott Suber, guard for Mississippi State.

Joe Childress, ace back on Auburn's amazing team.

Hardiman Cureton, UCLA guard.

Jim Swink, the top ground gainer in the Southwest.

Jim Mense, center for Notre Dame and a stubborn linebacker, who has averaged 51 minutes in every game.

Two or even three more big games remain for most of the teams on which these men play and much can happen between now and the end of the season.

Close behind them come such stalwarts as Bill Meigs, Harvard guard; Hugh Pitts, TCU center; Ron Kramer, Michigan end; John Witte, Oregon State tackle; Frank Tamburello, Maryland quarterback; Freddy Wyant, West Virginia quarterback; Paul Hornung, Notre Dame quarterback; and Tommy McDonald, Oklahoma halfback.

The Associated Press All-America is selected on the basis of recommendations by boards of prominent newspapermen and newscasters in each major region or conference. The final decision is made after the last regular season game is played.

Inter'l Turf Win Said Upset

By OSCAR FRALEY United Press Staff Writer LAUREL, Md. (UP)—The well-deserved victory of the Venezuelan longshot, El Chama, in the $65,000 Washington D. C. International goes into the books today as one of the major upsets of the sports year.

It also raises the question of what happened to the turf champions of the United States when they can't win in their own backyard.

Before the fourth annual running of this mile and a half turf classic, nobody even mentioned El Chama or his Venezuelan rival, Prandese. Few even realized that they were settling a private vendetta as they surprised the racing world by running a head apart in beating eleven other steeds from six other nations.

Washington Football Picture Has Problems

By JACK HEWINS Associated Press Sports Writer SEATTLE (AP)—Today's big question in the region of tall girls and beautiful trees goes about like this: "What's wrong with football?" And you can fill in the blank with "Washington State" or "Washington," according to where you reside in the state named for George.

In Oregon the question is less pressing and of times asked with a chuckle. Nothing is wrong with football in Oregon. Fans of Oregon State and the U. of O. expected sad seasons and their teams have surprised everybody, probably even including themselves.

Washington State Collegians were surprised, too, but in a somewhat different fashion. This was to have been a stellar year. A big, experienced team loomed as the Pacific Coast Conference dark horse which quickly became a nightmare.

It was apparent right from the opening game that WSC was agonizingly slow footed and the serum hasn't been invented that will put speed in football players. The Cougar line opens holes that close before the backs arrive. The Cougars tackle grimly, but grimly never has the ball.

It's easy and natural to blame the coach, so Al Kircher is on the pan.

Up and down the Sound call'd Puget teams are being writhed about the Washington enigma. The Huskies, who started with a good line and average backs, have suffered a relapse from an overdose of early success. Their victories over Minnesota and Southern California fogged up the spectators of the Loyal Supporters with a rosy smog.

The Huskies were somewhat on the slow side and lacked quarterbacking and pass receivers. This is no attempt to disparage individual players, who get a grade of 100 per cent for effort. An all-out performance by all hands, coupled with tremendous desire, carried Washington to its early triumphs.

The team was playing better than it could. And the players felt they still were going 100 per cent in the tie with Stanford and the losses to Oregon State and California.

But the team was not at 100 per cent strength. Center Bert Watson was lost in the Baylor game. Sophomore Guard Dick Day was hurt in practice and an injury slowed Guard Nat Davis. Fullback Bob McNamee was on the shelf and Halfback Mike Monroe, although he played Saturdays, had little heavy work in practice because of a bruised shoulder. Reserve strength was shallow.

Watson was a team leader as well as an outstanding center and his loss took away some of the team's spark. He was back for the California tilt but far from top condition.

Day is 245 pounds of rugged power. In the USC game the opposing center asked Dick to roll up his sleeve to see if he was hiding horseshoes or other weapons. Day bared his arm with a grin. But the Washington victory in that game may have played a part in the later slacking off.

USC players went home and told the people Washington played rough. It sounded funny, coming from a team which was accused of the same and more only a few seasons back. But it may have had a psychological effect on the Huskies, who were encouraged to go all out on every play but never use dirty tactics.

"They're clean men," says Coach Johnny Cherberg. "This charge of unnecessary roughness may have affected their play without them realizing it."

Cherberg, incidentally, is strongly entrenched at Washington as of this writing. If you know what's wrong with Washington football he'd be happy to hear about it—but he'd much rather you sent along a halfback like Hugh McElheny.

Kircher would settle for the same.

Bevos Name Tom Holmes New Manager

PORTLAND (AP)—Tommy Holmes, former Boston (now Milwaukee) Braves manager, was named manager of the Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast Baseball League Saturday.

Holmes, manager of the Braves in 1951-52, comes to the Beavers from Fort Worth, where his team finished fifth in the Texas League this year.

He succeeds Clay Hopper, who resigned recently.

Holmes, 37, was an outfielder through 19 seasons, although he played only part time in the years of 1951-52, when he also was managing. Last year at Fort Worth was his first as a non-playing manager.

He was with the Braves as a player through nine seasons before being named manager. In 1953 he became manager of Toledo of the American Assn. and in 1954 was manager at Elmira of the Eastern League.

Through Portland officials, Holmes announced he would remain Bill Fleming as coach. He is expected to come to Portland from his Long Island home for a conference with Beaver officials next week.

Pittsburgh Tops WV Mountaineers

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pittsburgh's magnificent 235 pound ends, "Mean John" Paluck and Joe Walton, jarred previously unbeaten West Virginia into fumbling Saturday and shattered the Mountaineers' bowl ambition—26-7 before 57,996 at Pitt Stadium.

Pendleton Pulls Prep Upset, Medford Falls

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Pendleton, No. 3 in the Associated Press high school football poll, was upset by unranked Washington of Portland Friday, but the other favorites won their opening games in the class A-1 playoffs.

Marshallfield, Mo. 1, rolled over eighth-ranked Medford, 30-0. Gresham, No. 2, edged ninth-rised McMinnville 7-6 and Jefferson of Portland, No. 4, crushed seventh place Corvallis, 30-6.

Underrated Washington played the game of the day in 40 degree weather at Pendleton. The Colonials scored once in the first quarter and twice more in the final period to beat the Buckaroos, 19-0. Pendleton had won nine straight games in the regular season while Washington, the runnerup in the Portland league, had a 5-2-1 record.

Vale, the only A-2 team among the top 10 in the final AP poll, whipped Primeville, 40-14, as it opened its defense of the state championship. Vale was No. 6 in the poll.

In another quarterfinal Junction City tied Coquille, 0-0, but gained the semifinals on yardage. Dallas already had beaten Central of Monmouth-Independence in their quarterfinal game. Newport plays at Tillamook Saturday in the remaining contest.

In class B quarterfinals, Monroe overpowered Powers, 41-19, and Siletz beat Nehalem 20-7. Moro plays at Malin and Union at Echo in quarterfinals Saturday. Union and Monroe were co-champions in 1954.

The A-1 semifinals next week will pit Marshallfield against Washington and Gresham against Jefferson.

A-2 semifinals will send the winner of the Newport-Tillamook game against Dallas, and Junction City against Vale.

HOUSTON (AP)—The amazing Texas Aggies, No. 9 in the nation used the running and pass catching of sophomore halfback Lloyd Taylor to ignite a three-touchdown comeback in the last five minutes Saturday and thrill a crowd of 68,000 with a 20-12 victory over Rice Institute.

Trailing 12-0 with just four minutes and 15 seconds to play, the Aggies exploded with two touchdowns by Taylor and another by halfback Don Watson.

Taylor scored the first from the two after taking a pitchout and scampering 58 yards to the Rice three. Just 46 seconds later, after a successful short kickoff by the Aggies, he took a 43-yard pass from quarterback Jimmy Wright and put A&M ahead, 13-12.

Watson scored from the three after fullback Jack Pardee had returned an intercepted pass 37 yards to the Rice eight.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Texas Christian quarterback Charles Curtis broke Texas' back with two quick touchdown passes, and sensational Jim Swink added a lavish icing with four scoring bursts Saturday to swamp Texas, 47-20.

Victory for the hard-hitting Horned Frogs, No. 8 team in The Associated Press rankings, boosted TCU to second place behind Texas A&M in the Southwest Conference.

With A&M on probation, TCU's wild scoring spree thrust the Horned Frogs into the role of favorite to become Cotton Bowl host on Jan. 2.

Swink put on the greatest one-man scoring exhibition ever witnessed in Memorial Stadium. His four touchdowns, on a one-yard plunge and runs of 62, 27 and 34 yards, plus two conversions, gave him 26 points for the day and ran his season's total in eight games to 107—probably tops in the nation.

Swink carried 15 times for 235 yards. In addition, he returned one punt for 13 yards, two kickoffs for 33 yards and intercepted one pass for no return.

Bylines from the Sidelines

Junior College at Redding, California. Seems Jack was minus a credit or two in language to enter Washington with brother Don, so he enrolled at the Redding JC to make up the difference.

According to sources from the Northern California city, Jack might possibly break into the first five or six for the Knights this year. Shaista lost guard Stan Wilhelmson to Oregon, and the Knights need a running-mate for Ron Mancasola, a sharpie from Redding High's class of 1954.

TWO SOUTHERN OREGON high school products are doing their hometowns up in fine fashion with their showings on Pacific Coast Conference football fields this fall.

Klamath Falls' John Witte, a 1951 graduate of KUHS, now at Oregon State College, and Grants Pass' Dick James, a member of the Cavemen '52 graduating class now at Oregon, are both serving notices to members of the press and radio that they will have to be reckoned with when it comes time to select all-conference and possibly all-American honors at the close of the season.

Witte is regarded by almost all PCC scribes as the best tackle on the coast and it is beyond our reach just how either is selecting the all-Pacific Coast Conference team can bypass the 216-pound junior. According to Oregon State coach Tommy Prothro they come no better than "Big John."

James is collecting a long list of press clippings for his showings with the "green and lemon" at Eugene. The pint-size halfback has broken into the limelight for the first time in his college days, and just getting around to recognizing James' talents is the fact he had to play in the background of George Shaw's name his first two seasons.

It is quite possible that Southern Oregon will have its first all-coast conference football selections in some time if Witte and James finish the season in the same manner they have been rambling up to this point.

IF FOOTBALL COACHES ALL OVER the country had backing like Oregon Tech's Rex Husaker, KU's John McGinnis and Sacred Heart's Dino Obizzo, you would have to go a long way before finding a dummy strong to a lamp post such as has been the fate this season.

Ronnie Knox May Have Broken Bone

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Halfback Ronnie Knox of UCLA may have broken a bone in his right ankle against Washington Saturday and could be lost for the rest of the season.

Coach Red Sanders said that a preliminary examination indicated a break and added, "This will be a tough break."

Knox was hurt
