

Girl Scouts Observe Founder's Day

OVER 100 LOCAL FRIENDS OF SCOUTING called at the R. P. Ellingson residence, 1500 Pacific Terrace, during the tea hours, October 29, in observance of the birthday anniversary of Juliette Gordon Lowe, founder of Girl Scouts of United States of America.

Character building, outdoor activities and interest in good citizenship, were stressed in 1912 when she started the GSA movement in Savannah, Georgia, as they are now.

Mrs. Ellingson, who opened her new home for the event, is 2nd vice president of Region 11 Committee.

Representatives of Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls and other local civic organizations were special guests in attendance.

standing, Sherry Farley, Jane Carlson and Janet Fowler, intermediate Girl Scouts; Katherine Robinson, Brownie; Mary Ellen Miller, Blue Bird; Katherine Ellingson, IGS; and Joanne Miller, Camp Fire.

Pouring, Ella Redkey, former executive director of GS; and standing, from the left, Mrs. Ivan Eccles, Mrs. D. F. McDowell, Mrs. Clara Ballantyne and Mrs. William Wales Jr., 2nd vice president of the local council.

Also pouring were Mrs. Elmer Harnden, Mrs. Lawrence French, executive secretary Camp Fire Girls; Mrs. John Fowler, treasurer GS council; Mrs. Art Moore, 1st vice president GS; Mrs. Phil Schroeder, Mrs. Glen Evans, leader; and Mrs. A. C. Beckes.

Proceeds from the tea will be sent to the fund for restoration of Mrs. Lowe's home in Savannah.

Reames Annual Halloween Party was Gloomy..Gruesome..Gory..and GAY

SOCIETY

By Milly Ramsby

IT CERTAINLY WAS A COSTUME PARTY!!... Committee members and guests all showed up representing everything from antipathy and awful to zest and zombie — alpha-BAT-ically speaking.

In the above picture, from the left, are the four committee couples, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Molatore, chairmen, as the Vampire Woman and one of her victims—who is wearing a hatchet buried in his well-split skull, a noose around his neck and a dagger in his back.

Next to them, Dr. Robert Payne, dressed for bird hunting, seems to have caught himself a "jail-bird"—his wife—who went as "A prisoner of Love." The "Robot," Dr. James Noel, stands back of Mrs. Noel, who came as a Space Gal; and "Highway 101" is rakish, death-defyin' James Ray back of his "Sailor" spouse.

The Indian maiden pictured with the clown with the built-in parasol may be a clue as to why she was known at the party as "Minne-ha-ha." Their 1955 role at Reames has been as social chairmen.

The dining room was centered with an interesting arrangement of grayish roses atop a slightly "erstwhile" gentleman of extinction.

At the door members and their guests were met by a macabre mobile—"Dangling Dan" or "Swivel Sam."

The stage was set with Halloween props of spiders with webs, bats, tombstone murals on the windows, etc., for the October 29th soiree at the club.
