

Six Hunters Presumed Dead Following Michigan Blizzard

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan listed four deer hunters and two duck hunters as "presumed dead" today in the wake of a blizzard which raked the state Wednesday night and yesterday, taking a known toll of four lives.

The four "presumed dead" deer hunters were feared drowned in Gratiot Lake high in the Keweenaw Peninsula that juts into Lake Superior. The duck hunters were missing in Lake Erie off extreme southeastern Michigan.

The deer season, which opened Tuesday, has claimed two deaths by gunfire. The deer hunters lost include three Michigan professional golfers and the host of an Illinois golf club. They were last seen Wednesday crossing the two-mile square lake in a motorboat from their camp to deer lands on the other side.

They are Daniel Nowack, 39, and Edward Van Popering, 50, both of Grand Rapids; Ted Lemanski, 36, Spring Lake, Mich.; and Leonard Gillette, 50, host at the Homewood (Ill.) Golf Club.

Their 14-foot boat, upside down and its outboard motor gone, was found floating in the lake yesterday. Nowack's hat and the oars also were in the water.

An all-day boat and helicopter search of Lake Erie yesterday failed to turn up any trace of duck hunters Otto Radebach, 35, and Frank Holton, 30, both Detroiters. Their boat disappeared off Sugar Island, near Erie, Mich., in gale winds Wednesday.

Duck hunters Fred LaPointe, 51, of Dearborn, and Edward Koehler, 18, of Toledo, Ohio, froze Wednesday night when caught in quick sand and mud trying to walk ashore from Lake Erie. Winds had forced the water back 300 feet from shore, making it impossible to reach firm land by boat.

Two Detroit construction workers also were killed in the storm. In addition, two deer hunters were lost in rough, snowbound Upper Peninsula forests. They are Walter Kline of Benton Harbor, last seen an hour after the season began Tuesday, and Elmer Dahlman, 55, of Plymouth, last seen just above the Straits of Mackinac.

Skindiver Fights 13-Foot Shark

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—A veteran skindiver encountered a 13-foot, 3-inch shark near the shore yesterday and after a 1 1/2-hour battle landed his quarry.

The basking shark—a mauler in this case, it appears—weighed in at 1,400 pounds, the skindiver, Bob Lorenz, 36, of Venice, Calif., reported. Here's his tale:

Swimming underwater, Lorenz met the shark, tired two darts, striking the creature fore and aft. The diver brought steel cables attached to the darts to the surface and played the shark from a friend's boat.

The shark took the boat a mile and a half to sea before Lorenz was able to loop a tow line around him, halt his mad dash and bring him back to port.

Christmas Tree Crisis Looms

EUREKA, Mont. (AP)—Montana's million-dollar Christmas tree industry is approaching a crisis due to the state's worse November cold wave in history.

The state produces about a seventh of the nation's Christmas trees. The Weather Bureau said there was little indication of better weather conditions in the next five days. Temperatures have dropped to as low as 5 degrees below zero the past week.

Thousands of trees have been cut but they cannot be bled for shipment out of state due to the cold. They become so brittle that any pressure breaks the twigs off.

Officials said this could mean a shortage of trees for Americans this year.

Jet Transport Said Cheaper

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Jet airplanes now in production will cost less to ride than buses and cut air freight rates by two-thirds, an aircraft executive said today.

Carl B. Squier, vice president of Lockheed Aircraft Corp., said two types of jet planes, turboprops and turboprops, were fast approaching mass production for civilian use.

These propjet planes will carry at rates about one-third of those necessary now. Squier said, "The aircraft planes will have passenger-seat mile costs lower than anything we have today, lower even than present bus fares."

He said orders for 190 jet and propjet civilian planes, at a total cost of $80 million dollars have been placed this year. He estimated sales would pass the one billion dollar mark by the end of the year.

Squier told the local Chamber of Commerce meeting the planes under order were the Boeing 707 turboprop, the Douglas DC8 turboprop and the Lockheed Electra propjet.

He said the Boeing and Douglas planes would carry from 100 to 140 passengers at 550 to 575 miles an hour and have a range of 3000 miles. The Lockheed propjet would carry 80 to 85 passengers at 410 miles an hour for range between 200 and 2500 miles.

Slipping Chimney Causes Blaze SOUTH ROCK — A stovepipe which slipped out of the chimney in the living room at the Howard McGee ranch home Monday burned a hole in the wallboard and casing before the fire was brought under control.

Mrs. McGee smelled the overheated pipe and wall while doing the family laundry. Her husband was in Klamath Falls on business, so she drove their pickup three miles to get her father-in-law, F. E. McGee. Getting stuck in the snow delayed them and by the time she returned the wall was in flames around the pipe.

The McGees lost their home by fire in 1950 and their new home is equipped with ceiling-mounted automatic fire extinguishers.
