

Fair Share Leader Shifts To UF Clean-Up Campaign

With a total of $120,597, Operation Fair Share has shifted to an all-out clean-up campaign. Wing Commander Bob Beach told United Fund directors Thursday night at a meeting at the chamber of commerce office.

Beach said he would continue efforts to raise the $2,000 needed to blast this year's $120,597 target and make the campaign a complete success. He indicated the amount could be raised with one hundred per cent contact of some business divisions which are still organizing, and certain county communities, which have reported little or no efforts to date.

Renewed efforts will be made, the campaign commander added, to acquaint county communities with the benefits they derive from the fund.

"As an illustration," Beach said, "several cases from one community were committed by the courts to a children's aid agency which is a participant of the United Fund."

Board members voted to plan a joint meeting with local Red Cross executives to discuss mutual contract problems, and deferred action on disbursements of the 1956 funds until a later meeting.

Rex Dye, executive secretary, told directors that there are enough collectible pledges from last year's drive to pay agencies their anticipated $3.5 per cent of the $117,000 goal.

Beach presented the following breakdown of the final total to date, which includes the division's chairman, quota, amount collected and percentage of goal reported, in that order:

Murray Lists Bomb Secret

NEW YORK — The New York Times said today that Atomic Energy Commissioner Thomas E. Murray, who urged in a speech last night a "show of force" H-bomb explosion, has revealed one of the major secrets in making the bomb.

In a story by-lined by William L. Laurence, the Times said Murray "made it clear that the so-called hydrogen fusion bomb is actually a very large fission bomb."

The newspaper added: "This marked the first time that anyone with intimate knowledge of the secrets of the hydrogen bomb has revealed one of its major secrets, the principal source from which the... weapon draws its explosive power."

The story said Murray disclosed that uranium 238—plentiful and nonfissionable—now can be used in the H-bomb "in its natural form."

Prior to this development, the newspaper said, U-238 "had to be converted at great expense into the man-made element plutonium."

The story said Murray disclosed that uranium 238—plentiful and nonfissionable—now can be used in the H-bomb "in its natural form."

On the other hand, a hydrogen explosion occurs when atoms (of heavy hydrogen) fuse together, releasing tremendous amounts of energy. Scientists say such a hydrogen explosion must be triggered by an ordinary atomic or fission explosion.

Now, according to the Times story, it appears that a third step has been added. The hydrogen explosion, once set off, triggers a third process—this time the fission of a large quantity of uranium 238.

The story said some physicists had already speculated that such was the case on the basis of radioactive particles scattered by the hydrogen test blasts in the Pacific.

AEC Commissioner Urges H-Bomb 'Show Of Force'

WASHINGTON — Four atomic energy commissioners were lined up today against a colleague's plan for a dramatic H-bomb "show of force" to impress on world leaders the urgent need for peace.

The proposal, made by AEC Commissioner Thomas E. Murray in a New York speech last night, also met some outright opposition in the Senate. But some senators said the idea was worth considering.

Murray's idea — outlined at the Golden Jubilee Dinner of the Fordham University Law School — was to call representatives of all the nations to what he termed a "meeting at the atomic summit." Such a meeting, he said, would be held at Eniwetok in the Pacific Proving Grounds used by the AEC.

There, he said, these leaders — particularly the Russians and Communist China — should witness an H-bomb explosion in what he envisioned as a "show of force, a declaration of American power, and a demonstration of the strategy of deterrence."

Shortly after Murray's speech was released, the AEC colleagues issued a joint statement declaring that "commission tests in the Pacific have never been designed as a 'show of force' but are solely for the development of weapons necessary for defense of the free world."

They said the AEC several months ago formally rejected Murray's motion to invite foreign observers, including Communists, to nuclear tests in the Pacific.

"The commission has never changed its position on this matter," they said. "Mr. Murray's proposal, therefore, is contrary to the judgment of the Atomic Energy Commission."

Joining in this statement were Chairman Lewis L. Strauss, and Commissioners Willard F. Libby, John von Neumann and Harold S. Vane — all appointees of President Eisenhower. Earlier, government spokesmen said Murray's plan had not been adopted as an administration policy.

Murray, a holdover from the Truman administration, said he had no immediate comment on the statement of his colleagues.
