... LOOKING TOWARD THE HOLIDAYS ...

JUDY ANN (left) and FAYRENE, right, are sisters—and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Fay Hall, 5526 Miller Avenue. Opposites in complexion and shade of hair, the two are both enrolled at Shasta School, Judy, 8, is in the 2nd grade; and Fayrene, 6, is in the 1st grade.

Their maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Qualls, 1504 Homedale; and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kucera, live in Meadow Grove, Nebraska. The young misses also have a great-grandmother, Mrs. Susie Gillen, Howard, South Dakota. Photo by Miller-Williams.

Afternoon Rites In St. Michael's For Conte-Billington Wedding

DUNSMUIR—St. Michael's Catholic Church in Weed was the setting for the rites uniting Joan Billington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Billington of Dunsmuir, and Angelo Conte, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Conte of Weed.

The Rev. Joseph Carlson officiated at the ceremony.

For the afternoon nuptials the bride selected a white lace over satin gown with a full-length skirt. The low neckline of the bodice was overlaid with sequins. Tapered sleeves were pointed at the wrists.

Her fingertip veil fell from a tiara of pearls and sequins and she carried a bouquet of pink roses with a cascade of white satin ribbon and rosebuds.

White cloth and candles were used for altar decorations. Helen Chiment sang "Ave Maria" and "On This Day, Oh, Beautiful Mother." Eva Carlquist served as organist.

Attendants, Valdeen Stanley as maid of honor and Vicky Barcasilla as bridesmaid, wore ballerina length dresses in pastel shades and matching halos of sweetpeas.

Quintela Conte was best man for his brother; and Joe Accotto was the usher.

Mrs. Billington wore a dusty rose suit with navy accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Conte Sr. wore a floral print silk afternoon dress. Both wore pink rosebud corsages.

Luncheon refreshments were served the wedding guests at a reception in the parish hall following the ceremony and dancing continued through the afternoon and evening. A four-tiered, lavishly decorated cake was cut by the newlyweds. Joan Irvine carried the guest book.

The bride attended local schools and is affiliated with Rainbow Girls. The bridegroom is employed by the Long Bell Lumber Company. The young couple will make their home in Weed.

TL Nile Club Hotel Luncheon

TULELAKE—Daughters of the Nile lunched at the Sportsmen's Hotel November 10 with places set for 19 members. A letter from the princess royal, Mrs. Leona Bryant, Coquille, was read which gave instructions on shipping Christmas and Thanksgiving boxes to the Shriners' Hospital in Portland.

President Mrs. C. C. Coulson reported on the progress of sewing for Mrs. W. S. Edwards, sewing chairman who was unable to be present. All articles are to be in by November 30, which are to be sent to Shrine hospitals.

Plans were made for the annual dinner and entertainment for husbands on December 8. Hostesses will be Mrs. W. S. Edwards, Mrs. Betty Kelly, Mrs. C. C. Coulson and Mrs. Richard McDougal.

During the luncheon, Mrs. Elmer Kappan and Mrs. Carl Olney sang, "Whispering Hope," with Mrs. Olney playing the accompaniment.

Surprising Cinda Lu were Susan Ekwall, Becky Downey, Linne Scribner, Jeanne Leporini, Kathy Talbott, Janis Wilmarth, Christy Kersey, Georganna Scribner and Cinda Lu's sister, Lani Gaynor.

WEED—A surprise birthday party was given for Cinda Lu Gaynor Sunday, November 6, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Gaynor. The occasion celebrated the event of Cinda's 10th birthday, which was November 6.

A TV luncheon with birthday cake and ice cream was served and was followed by all attending the Sunday afternoon matinee at the Weed Theater.

you know, of course, we're talking about the turkeys at Pig 'n' Steer market in Carter's Fine Foods, 1420 Esplanade. These are local birds that Hutch picked out himself. Hens run from eleven to fifteen pounds in weight and toms from nineteen to twenty-five. They are absolutely ready for the roaster. Hutch is a fan of turkey oysters for cocktails to what your turkey appetite, and larger oysters if you prefer an oyster stuffing. Martha makes sausage dressing and can recommend Pig 'n' Steer pure, lean pork sausage. Call tomorrow and let Hutch or Frank pick out a royal bird for your Thanksgiving dinner at

The hand-made Tom and Jerry set at Rick's Jewellers is not only a show piece and a thing of beauty. It could be a joy forever to anyone fortunate enough to own it. Of semi-porcelain, it's made in Italy. The Christmas design is set in relief and is hand-painted by Filippucci. The large sail bowl is decorated with holly all around the edge, and the gracefully-shaped ladle has a good pouring lip. This 15-piece set includes an extra-fine eighteen-inch tray with "Merry Christmas" in old English lettering around part of its circumference. There's a big Christmas tree, modeled in relief, in the center of the tray, done in traditional Christmas colors. A dozen cups bear the green leaves and red berries of the holly, each, of course, colored by hand. Some lucky family could hand this down through the generations. Other equally lovely treasures can be seen at 700 Main.

the sophisticated new fragrance by Revlon, has just been received at Houston's Beauty Salon. This new "personal" scent is an eau de parfum—an enriched version of toilet water—and is said to acquire a different quality for each woman who wears it. Revlon recommends its use by the mature woman for late afternoon or evening. "Cherries à la Mode," the new Revlon lipstick and nail polish shade, has arrived at this upstairs shop at 500 Main. This luscious color is available in Living Lipstick and Lanolite non-smear. If you're over 20 you really should try "Intimate," at

is not gold at La Pointe's shoe department, for blazing into fashion here are glitter-scoffs in green or pink, as well as gold or silver. You can walk with velvet tread in leisure footwear from 507 Main—red or black velvet with gold kid or black velvet with gold leaf design or gold and pearl medallion. Pretty under new long nightdresses would be the nylon fleece scoffs in sweetheart motif of pink, white or light blue. These leisure lovelies are Nite-Aires; are priced from four to 6.95. Oomphies in decorated red, royal blue or black velvet, or of brocade, would be good for the home stretch, and you could keep pace in Joyce's velveteen "fox-farm" scoffs. English lambskin slippers of pink or blue with matching shearing silver—in fact most any kind of foot-pampering fashion for relaxing in style—can be found here. It's a wonderful store—whether you imbibe or not, late day dresses are news at the Town Shop. Champagne-colored is the Susan Thomas "sweater and skirt" dress. The hip-flaring skirt is decorated with beige and black butterflies, and the wool jersey covered top may be worn in or out. The same motif is repeated in the top with the addition of jet beads. Susan Thomas dresses come in sizes 10 to 16. Dinner or any late day occasion could find you beautifully outfitted in pale or dark one-piece sweater dresses by Marinette or Brittany. These combine ribbon and boucle in one, of the handsomest collections Martha's seen this winter. A gold knit sheath in lacy pattern with V-neck could be the dinner denouement of the knitting situation. Jonathan Logan's in the 7 to 15 size range include pure silk in flame and gold oriental silk, and oyster-colored embroidered damask in sheath with longer mandarin-type jacket. You owe it to yourself to see them at 500 Main.

in any size or style available can be found at Leo's Camera Shop. The new M-2 Browne Holiday Flash outfit which uses the new smaller flash bulb is one of the headliners here and would make a wonderful gift for 9.75. The camera, flash attachment, two rolls of film, batteries and book of instructions are included. There are eight pictures on each roll of No. 127 film. This outfit takes a smaller picture—3½ by 5 inches. All Kodak kits include a book of instructions, invaluable to the beginning photographer. The Browne Hawkeye set at 14.95 is the "old standby" at this shop. The Duoflex Deluxe III will take a lot of pictures, and in addition to the usual inclusions, this kit has a carrying case. It's a real value at 31.95. Ansco Camera kits are 14.95 to 24.95. The Argus 75 is a portrait kit in the medium price range—22.50. So for budding photographers, or old hands, 836 Main is the place to go.

is necessary to make flowers "grow" at Florence's Flower and Fibre Shop. The art of making these natural-looking fibre flowers is taught here gratis. Any flower that grows can be duplicated at 805 Division street, where all materials and supplies necessary are stocked. Even sweet peas, which are most difficult to duplicate, can be created here. These flowers never wilt, and if they get dirty, can be cleaned. Martha saw a corsage of white "gardenias" which had been dropped in mud cleaned to their original velvety paleness. Beginners learn to make eight different basic flowers first in the classes now in session. These are wild rose, violet, geranium, apple blossom, carnation, camellia, gardenia and rose. In addition, flower arrangement principles and assembling of corsages are learned. Interested persons may get details of this floral craft by calling 7628.

we can't all be French cooks, but cutlery by Ancienne Maison, the oldest known cutlery manufacturer in the world, would help a lot. Roberts Hardware has eight beautiful knives and a long-lined fork of this line, made in France, and now owned by Ekco, makers of Flintware. These knives have one-piece hand-forged blades of stainless steel. They are equipped with French ebony handles that are beautifully balanced and carved to fit the hand. When you consider that French craftsmen have been making, and improving, this line in the same old brick building since about 1400, it's no wonder that they are comfortable to use, unbelievably sharp and good to look at. The fork has two lines and costs 6.95. The knives range from the long, slender-bladed steak slicer to paring knife—the way by the way is only 1.75 and well worth every penny. The vegetable or fruit knife has the same good shape as the paring knife and is a little longer, there is a utility knife, there are six and eight-inch Sabatier knives—or French cook's knife—nine-inch roast slicer and 14-inch butcher knife. Of course, all kinds of Flintware, which has a 15-year guarantee, is available for gifts at 3890 South Sixth. A set of stainless Vanadium cutlery with Pakkawood handles is particularly good-looking, and steak knives with serrated blades, in sixes or eights, would be welcome in any home.

you'll find gifts for them at Shaw Stationery Company where the Christmas room is open for the duration of the holiday shopping season. Shaw's never forgets the men and a dandy present for anyone who owns a car is a kit which clips on the car visor. For men this "visette" includes a place for glasses, maps, scratch pad and pencil and a zipper pocket. (There's a matching one for the lady's side of the car, too.) Leather desk accessories are handsome than ever this year. A cute catch-all for odds and ends, or letter basket, is new this year, as is a leather-covered desk size pencil sharpener. Another traveler's item is a set with tools in a case not much larger than a fountain pen, small flashlight, windshield scraper and clothes or upholstery brush. It's later than you think so don't put off choosing personalized Christmas cards from the large selection in the Christmas room at a purse-size atomizer by Carven, a name that spells high fashion in fragrance, is something new under the fluorescent at Currin's for Drugs. This atomizer, which is no bigger than a lipstick, has a patented lock device that defies leakage, and a gold metal case that keeps its golden sheen. You may have it in black, gold and red, there's no tax and the price tag is only 2.50. A perfect tuck-in gift, if you can keep it that long. There are boudoir atomizers here of flawless clear plastic that look for all the world like crystal. Roses of different shades are imbedded in the plastic which has ebony accents, and gold metal parts attach the bulb which matches the flowers in each atomizer. Black Diamond, Princess, Margaret Rose, Junior Deb and Starlet are styles available with embedded flowers of rose, pink, white, green and gold. Starlet is tiny for your most precious perfume. Prices start at 1.95 on these atomizers which look like they cost so much more. There's no tax. You should see them at Ninth and Main.

can be elegant or informal according to your whim if you choose your centerpiece or other floral decorations at Klamath Flower Shop. If you're invited out to dinner a gift of flowers for your hostess would be an appreciated "thank you" in advance. If you send an arrangement from 1211 Main you can be sure it will be designed with artistry and imagination. Two dollars and up will obtain your choice there this week. Containers of pompons, arranged and in water, will be available, or lavish compositions of harvest fruits, fall flowers and dried leaves and grasses which are out of the ordinary. A free form wrought-iron basket here is filled with simulated fruit and would be just the needed accent in a modern setting. Ceramic turkeys, which include candle container and candle, would provide a perfect foil for the cooked bird. These can be used year after year until they become family keepsakes. authentic milk glass; handmade by Fenton, in the old patterns is in ample stock at Bon Bazaar for hostess gifts next Thursday, to add accent to your own dinner table, or for Christmas giving later on. The old hen-on-nest covered dish, and large footed cake or pie plates may be seen in white. New shades have been added to the old and interesting varieties of blue, a shading of clear glass to milk lip deep rose to white and a new pinky beige tone may be seen. Covered candy dishes are popular in this ware, footed compotes in all sizes and vases of all styles and shapes. Vinegar cruets may now be had like the one grandma used. Among other pieces are mayonnaise dishes, mustard pots, jam pots, cream and sugar sets, and the popular old slippers. Royalite by Queen's Lustreware is featured at 4480 South Sixth. Though all glass, this ware has the appearance of silver and will never tarnish, stain or burn. It's inexpensive, too. Ash trays, coasters, relish and bon bon dishes are available, as well as several sizes of tumblers. Glasses and coasters in a wrought iron rack make an attractive set in this ware which is hand crafted from specially treated glass, yet is safe from your dishwasher.

that old formal that you thought too shabby to wear again. Send it to Howard's Cleaners where it will be refurbished, cleaned and pressed to look like new. They've figured out a way at 925 East Main to give new body to many fabrics which have become flimsy, so it's possible to re-size materials. Howard's can do it. If you spilled on that lovely new satin evening frock call 9889 quick-like, for the fresher the stain the more easily it can be removed. Another tip—avoid the holiday rush and get those pretty party dresses—and poppa's or brother's evening jackets—cleaned and pressed up now. colorful tablecloth, or place mats with matching napkins are available at Miller's downstairs store for the Thanksgiving dinner and all the party times to come. By Reed Hand-crafts, the cloths come in 48 by 63 inches in size, or 48 by 50 inches with six or four napkins, respectively. The place mats are of the same interestingly textured cloth, gold flecked with classic or provincial patterns. The napkins pick up one color of the cloth. Fieldcrest cloths in combinations of white with silver or gold lurex thread, with matching napkins, are available in sizes up to banquet cloths, and of course, Quaker lace in orlon, cotton, or rayon and cotton needs no introduction to Klamath women. Linen double damask from Ireland is the choice of many for any festive table and these are in all sizes with matching napkins at 512 Main. While you're choosing linen, don't forget the nice big, deep Staffordshire platters, or Italian platters, for the royal bird, the piece de resistance, the turkey.
