

Coach Red Strader Tells What's Wrong With Forty Niners--No Big Play Push

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)— Coach Red Strader knows what's the trouble with the San Francisco Forty Niners, but whether he can cure it remains to be seen.

Talking to newsmen yesterday before flying to Washington to confer with eastern associates on the Nov. 28 player draft, Strader said he knew why the Forty Niners bowed to the Green Bay Packers. "We've been unable to make the most of the big play," Strader said. "We start fast, but we just don't get the big play off when we have a third down situation."

Breaking off, he turned to the other fellow's game, a subject on which Strader is always generous. "Green Bay played hard, fought all the way, retained its poise and served to win."

The Forty Niners listed several injuries as a result of yesterday's game. Dick Moege, Lou Palatella, Joe Perry and Bob Tonnell all suffered leg injuries and were expected to undergo X-rays today.

Up to the fourth period, it looked like a winning cause for the San Francisco club.

Dick Moege hit paydirt with a three-yard plunge after five minutes of the first period for the Forty Niners' first score. Gordon Soltau converted.

In the second period, veteran

Green Bay quarterback Tobin Rote passed to Billie Howton, who lateraled to Joe Johnson on the 30 for a 41-yard play and the Packers' first score. Then Fred Cone put the Packers ahead with a field goal.

San Francisco stormed back 80 yards in nine plays, climaxed by a 33-yard pass from quarterback Y. A. Tittle to rookie halfback Carroll Hardy in the end zone. Soltau converted.

Cone retalliated by kicking another field goal, his 14th of the season.

Paul Carr intercepted a Rote pass on the Forty Niner 3 in the third period and Tittle hit Hardy with a 48-yard touchdown pass. Soltau converted.

In the final period, Rote hit Gary Knafelc for a 34-yard pass-run touchdown and soon after broke loose for a 49-yard run that set up a touchdown pass from the six. Howie Ferguson plunged over on the next play. Cone converted both times.

Moege accounted for 83 yards in nine rushes before going out with an ankle injury in the second period.

The defeat left the Forty Niners with a season record of three wins and six losses. Next Sunday—the Baltimore Colts.

Pro Football Outlook Bright With Bears-Browns Clash Set

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press Sports Writer
The Chicago Bears and Cleveland Browns appear headed for a clash in the National Football League's championship game, but you'll never believe it if you listen to George Halas and Paul Brown, the pro game's most successful coaches.

Halas' Bears, climaxing a sustained rally, took undisputed first place in the Western Division Sunday by defeating the Detroit Lions, 24-14. It was the sixth straight victory for Halas, who has coached the Bears to all but two of their record seven NFL championships.

"We've got a rough road ahead starting with our bosom buddies, the Chicago Cardinals, next Sunday," Halas said as he shrugged off the triumph that enabled the Bears to snap their first place tie with the Los Angeles Rams. "We aren't congratulating ourselves yet. We could drop two of our last three."

The Bears took a half-game lead over the Los Angeles Rams, who rallied to tie the Baltimore Colts, 17-17.

Brown's Cleveland huskies, rebounding from a 33-17 whipping by the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday by defeating the Detroit Lions, 24-14. It was the sixth straight victory for Halas, who has coached the Bears to all but two of their record seven NFL championships.

Malin football supporters gathered too many strong feelings Saturday afternoon after their team's 27-12 win over Union and several attacked the Herald and News sports writer covering the semi-final grid battle after the game was over.

The altercation, which took place in the middle of the Malin High field, brought about the breaking of the scree's glasses and other roughing up tactics by adult, not student fans.

The scuffle came about when the group of Malin sportsmen charged their team had not been receiving "a fair break." But Coach Jim Conroy stated he and his ballclub have been more than satisfied with their Herald and News coverage of sporting events of Malin teams.

Lause, Fullmer Fight Promises Fistic Color

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—If it's clouting color you seek, take a quick look today at Eduardo Jorge Lause and Gene Fullmer, a youngster from Utah whose family idolized Jack Dempsey and therefore named him after Gene Tunney.

These two exponents of the pugilistic art engage each other at Madison Square Garden on Friday night in a middleweight bout which they hope will lead the victor to a shot at the title. The price is 2 to 1 in favor of Eduardo Jorge.

But as interesting as their pending imbroglio, individually they are two of the most interesting box fighters to come along in quite some time.

Take Fullmer, now, a 23-year old who hopes that in the near future Bobo Olson will try just that. Fullmer is a double for Yogi Berra, the squat catcher of the New York Yankees. It leaves him unimpressed.

"I can," he says modestly, "hit as good as Yogi. The only thing that matters is just that I don't catch like him."

BORN IN UTAH
Fullmer was born in West Jordan, Utah, which is only a drive and a chip shot from Murray, Utah, where Jack Dempsey spent his youthful years. The elder Fullmer, an amateur boxer, thought that Dempsey was the greatest—so after Tunney whipped his idol he figured that Gene was a good name for his offspring.

There is no attempt to be facetious in saying that young Gene punches better than the old one. He has won 32 of 34 pro bouts, 19 of them by knockouts. Known in the cauliflower set as "Cyclone," young Gene is a Mormon who boasts that never has he tasted coffee, alcohol or tobacco.

These sterling attributes have not swayed oddsmakers. Lause, you see, has won 59 of 87 bouts—48 by kayoes.

The 28-year old South American insists that he is the only better from below the border who headed north without claiming that time or another he was a gaucho. The only thing he ever rode was a shoemaker's bench.

Lause, soot tired of making shoes and decided, instead, to wear 'em out. So he became a professional soccer player.

GOOD TANGO DANCER
"I'm a good tango dancer, too," he boasts.

Both can be events which, in various social circles, demand a certain fistic ability. Eduardo became a noted street fighter whose energies finally were directed toward the ring. Soon he was the amateur welterweight champion of Argentina and this, naturally, led him into the more remunerative side of the box fighting business.

Lause has been sensational of late, winning his last 29 consecutive bouts—25 by knockouts. Olson, at the moment, is prepping for a Dec. 8 title defense against Ray Robinson at Chicago. But with that out of the way, should Olson win, Eduardo is right in line for a crack at Bobo.

Currently, Lause is ranked fourth among the welterweights. Fullmer has fought his way up to the eighth spot. So both of them want this one badly. But no matter which of these colorful clouters win, the motif on Friday night would be red.

Marshfield Top Team

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Marshfield, the No. 1 team in the Associated Press prep football poll, advanced to the finals of the A-1 high school playoffs Saturday with a 40-2 victory over Washington of Portland.

Marshfield, defending co-champion, will meet Gresham, the No. 2 team, in next Friday night's championship game at Multnomah Stadium in Portland.

Vale, the defending champion, will meet Dallas in the A-2 title game next weekend.

Malin eliminated co-champion Union, 27-12, in Saturday's class B semifinal. Malin will meet Siletta for the title in that division next weekend.

Culver beat defending champion Glide, 32-14, to take the six-man championship in Saturday's other game.

Roger Johnson started the scoring for undefeated Marshfield with a 31-yard touchdown run from the opening kickoff in the game at Coos Bay. He got two other touchdowns later in the game. Denny Baker also had three touchdowns for the winners.

A pass from Ray Johnson to Roger Dokken in the second quarter provided Malin with its opening touchdown. Malin added another in the third and a pair in the final quarter and beat back Union, who rallied for two touchdowns in the closing minutes.

Whitworth Said "Good Enough"

SPOKANE (UP)—How good is Whitworth? "Good enough to beat any football team in the Rocky Mountain Conference."

So said Montana State Bobcat coach Wally Lemm Saturday after the two-time Evergreen Conference champs, the Whitworth Pilgrims, blanked the Bobcats, 20-0 in mud and cold.

Lemm remarked that the 20-0 score was identical with that by which Montana State lost to the Rocky Mountain titlist, Idaho State. "And Idaho State did it on a good field in good weather."

Canadiens Hold Long Win Streak

By UNITED PRESS
The National Hockey League leading Montreal Canadiens had an unbeaten string of 11 games today but will have to play without star Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffroy for three to five weeks.

The Canadiens, who walloped the second-place New York Rangers, 6-1, Saturday night in Montreal, had to go all out to gain a 1-1 tie with the pesky New Yorkers before a standing-room-only crowd of 15,388 Sunday night.

Geoffroy, who suffered a shoulder separation earlier in the season which kept him on the sidelines for a month, received the same kind of injury Sunday night after slamming into the boards behind the New York cage late in the final period. X-rays taken at a New York hospital revealed the injury.

In another outbreak of the games, the Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings battled to a 1-1 deadlock in Chicago, while the Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs wound up in a similar 1-1 tie at Boston.

Montreal leads New York by eight points, Boston and Chicago are tied for third place, another two points farther back. Detroit is in fifth place, another point back of Detroit in the standings.

Joe Hergesheimer netted New York's goal in the first period, but Doug Harvey gained the equalizer for Montreal in the middle period.

Real Chevretis scored Detroit's goal six minutes after Hec Lalonde had given Chicago a 1-0 lead in the opening period, while Leo Labine got a lucky first period goal for Boston when the disc deflected off his stick. Tod Sloan evened matters, however, by netting Toronto's goal in the middle period.

Providence Leading In Hockey Race

By UNITED PRESS
The Providence Reds, who won only 2 games last year, already have gained 11 triumphs this season and today lead the American Hockey League race by six points.

The Reds, who signed a working agreement with the New York Rangers during the off season, choked off the Pittsburgh Hornets' bid to pick up ground by defeating the Pennsylvania Pipers, 3-2, Sunday night. Led by former Rangers goalie Henry (one goal and two assists), Aldo Guldolin and Bill McCreary, Providence scored three times in the final period.

The Hornets, who had moved up steadily from last to second in the last two weeks, now are tied for the runner-up spot with the Cleveland Barons and Buffalo Bisons.

The Bisons, paced by Ken Wharram (one goal and four assists), Charlie Blair (two goals and three assists) and Pete Gonacher (two goals and one assist) clobbered the Springfield Indians, 8-3, in Sunday's only other game.

Dupas Rated To Outpoint Star Gony

SAN JOSE (UP)—Third-ranking lightweight Ralph Dupas was rated a 3 to 1 favorite over Philippine welterweight champion Star Gony in their scheduled 10-round main event in Civic Auditorium tonight.

Ring experts figured Dupas will be Gony's toughest opponent yet.

The Filipino has a home record of 412 wins and only one loss. In his only U.S. fights he stopped Bobby Sanders in the 10th round here and racked out a win over Leonard Gaines in Honolulu.

Dupas dethroned Mickey Northrup in his last fight three weeks ago and has victories this year over contenders Cisco Andrade, Kenny Lane and Frankie Riff as well as Paddy De Marco.

WINNER
SOUTHERN PINES, N.C. (UP)—Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, won the second annual Pilot's Open golf tournament Sunday by shooting a 73 for a two-round total of 144. Don Selis of Baltimore, Md., won second, seven strokes farther back. While Mrs. Peggy Kirk Bell of Southern Pines won the women's division with a 153 total.
