Murder Plea Changed Here

Marcellus Norwest, 26-year-old Chiloquin logger, suddenly withdrew a not guilty plea to second degree murder in Circuit Judge David R. Vandenberg's court Monday morning and pleaded guilty to manslaughter.

Norwest was accused of the killing last August of Jackie Jones, 25-year-old ex-convict, during a dispute over a case of beef. Jones was shot in the chest with a 30-30 rifle in a Chiloquin street during the argument.

The defendant appeared in court with his attorneys, George C. Reinmiller and Joseph Stearns of Portland. They requested Judge Vandenberg to order a pre-sentence investigation. The judge complied with their request.

District Attorney Richard Beasley told the court he was willing to allow the defendant to withdraw the not guilty plea to second degree murder and plead guilty to manslaughter.

Beasley said that Norwest, who had been released from military service a few days before the Chiloquin shooting, had no prior criminal record. Pending the outcome of the pre-sentence investigation, Judge Vandenberg remanded Norwest to the county jail.
