

Sugar Bowl Decision Irks Griffin

ATLANTA (AP)—The governor of Georgia and the president of Georgia Tech were at odds today after a decision by Georgia's Board of Regents to permit Tech to play Pittsburgh in the Sugar Bowl.

Pitt has a Negro player on its squad.

The office of Gov. Marvin Griffin charged President Blake Van Leer of Tech failed to consult the governor before accepting the Sugar Bowl bid for Jan. 2.

Ben Wiggins, executive secretary to Griffin, also said the governor felt Van Leer failed "properly" to handle students who staged a riot early Saturday in protest against Griffin's request that Tech be pulled from the Sugar Bowl.

Van Leer replied that he had informed Griffin Nov. 26 that Tech intended to accept a Sugar Bowl invitation if it was offered. He declared the governor said that was "fine."

Concerning the student demonstration, Van Leer said: "I suppose I get paid for being the goat on things like that."

The Tech president promised to investigate the demonstration and expressed "deep regret" at the action of Tech students who participated.

The verbal tiff came only a few hours after the Board of Regents yesterday rejected the governor's request to remove Tech from the Sugar Bowl on the racial issue.

The board at the same time set up a racial policy for athletic teams that are members of the university system of Georgia. It provided:

1. That in out-of-state games Tech, Georgia and other units of the university system can play racially mixed teams in those states which permit integration. In states where laws require segregation, Georgia teams will play on a segregated basis.
2. That in the state of Georgia itself there will be no mixed teams or mixed audiences.

3. That "no contract or agreement shall be entered into for an athletic contest in any state where the circumstances under which it is fulfilled are repugnant to the laws, customs and traditions of the host state."

Charles J. Bloch of Macon, Ga., head of the regents' Education Committee, which prepared the policy resolution, said no team of the university system could take part in a nonsegregated game in the Sugar Bowl after Jan. 2, 1956, because Louisiana laws and customs call for segregation.

Griffin said the regents decided to permit Tech to play next month in the Sugar Bowl because of a "prior contract." He commended the board for a strong resolution which he said "will prevent breaches in Georgia's traditions in the future."

"See what I mean? He uses just enough soap and water to make the dirt come off on the towel!"

PARIS (UP)—The powerful French Socialist Party today called a National Council meeting that could determine to a great extent the outcome of the French parliamentary elections.

Corvallis Gets Bottled Booze

CORVALLIS (AP)—The "moist" era of Corvallis has ended.

For the first time since long before prohibition, bottled liquor is available to the public.

The Oregon Liquor Control Commission opened its first agency in this college town Saturday.

That ends what has at times been a bitter fight between the wets and dries. For years the dries predominated and hard liquor was banned entirely from the city.

After prohibition was lifted in 1934, the City Council asked in a letter that no store or agency be established here. The request was granted by the Liquor Commission and those who wanted a nip now and then had to drive 10 miles to Albany, or, in more recent years, five miles to Philomath.

The wets, always irked by the dries, finally prevailed when the voters approved liquor by the drink in November, 1954. Spurred by the result, they have overcome objections to the establishment of a state controlled agency, taking the city out of the dry category.

Another Cold Day Predicted

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Another cold day was the outlook for most of the nation today. The coldest weather was in most of the upper Mississippi Valley and the higher elevations of the Rockies. It was 16 degrees below zero in Fraser, Colo., and -15 at Grantsburg and Wausau, Wis.

Temperatures were below freezing through eastern Kentucky, across northern Arkansas into southern New Mexico and northward around most of Nevada and the eastern sections of Oregon and Washington.

It was chilly in much of the Southland with readings in the 40s in most areas except for 50s along the Gulf Coast and near 70 in central and southern Florida.

Snow fell over scattered areas, with heaviest amounts in the West.

Quality control helps forest products meet competition of other materials

Advertising and sales promotion stimulates the demand for forest products

Development and research create new products to meet customer requirements

Brand name products build customer-confidence through dependable quality

Planned sales programs keep forest products moving to market

Steady sales mean steady paychecks

The forest industry of Oregon and Washington directly accounts for over 133,000 jobs, with an annual payroll of about $600 million. Thousands of others are employed in manufacturing wood into an increasing variety of products.

Steady employment in the forest industry is a result of the steady sale of its products. Successful marketing brings a constant flow of money into this area that reaches out in ever-expanding circles... money spent for services, food, clothing, homes, automobiles, and taxes which support schools and government functions. All told, the forest industry is the foundation for more than half of the economy of Oregon and Washington.

The forest industry leaves nothing to chance in its constant effort to meet increasing competition from other building materials. Markets for the wood products of this region are being won and held because the industry carefully plans each step leading to the ultimate sale.

Selling begins in the mill itself. It is here that quality control and good manufacturing techniques result in products that can deliver full satisfaction. By brand-naming such products, many manufacturers develop a reputation for dependable quality and ability, thereby encouraging a flow of repeat orders and steady customers.

The industry keeps the merits of wood before millions of prospective users through widespread advertising and sales promotion. In addition, it employs thousands of people to sell forest products to dealers, architects and builders. Finally, the industry builds sales volume through research that develops new and better products as well as new markets.

The successful sale of forest products is important to all of us in the Pacific Northwest for it helps stabilize the economy of the region.

Done In Africa
Geo. N. Taylor

Dr. Clark, an English M. D. slipped up to the African chief to whisper — "God had a Son who died for your sins." But the chief went on with his dance around the pyramid of skulls, still dripping with fresh blood. Later the chief came to Dr. Clark to hear more as to God's Son who died for his sins. They two visited often and many a moon passed, says the doctor. Then the chief went back to the village where he used to capture men whom he was to behead. Now he went to win souls. He showed Dr. Clark his necklaces with many knots and every knot a soul won for God. Also he brought back converts. So the chief came into new birth and that part of Africa into peace. And it all began with these nine words — "God had a Son who died for your sins."

And when your heart grows heavy, repeat over and over — "God had a Son who died for my sins."
