

Here Comes The Bride With A Colored Bouquet And Lipstick To Match

The "something new" the holiday bride will wear to the altar is a bouquet of color, as modern as a Modigliani rose.

Introduced for the holidays by the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association are bouquet arrangements sounding these fresh color notes: yellow button pompons; roses as yellow as that rose of Texas; lavender hearted orchids. Fujimums, purple hearted orchids.

Noting this development with a trained color eye, Max Factor Jr., suggests these lipstick matches for the bride's brighter bouquet!

Suppose, says the Hollywood expert, your flowers are lime-colored Fujimums — Japanese beauties as shabby as your pet Kerry Blue — your best choice of lipstick shade is a rich ruby red.

If the Fujimums are lavender, or your bouquet is a snowfall of purple hearted orchids, wear a true party pink shade of lipstick. Color-keyed to either the pale lavender flowers or to the hearts of orchids, it will make as sensational a match at the altar, says Factor, as yours and the groom's!

If your bouquet is a round nosegay of yellow button pompons or a spray of yellow roses, wear a golden flame shade of lipstick.

For pink roses, of course, a match between bouquet and lipstick shade can be made that looks as though cosmetician and florist had turned match-maker. Or you can make your mouth more of a magnet than your flowers by wearing a deeper lipstick shade, say, a crushed rose pink.

Before your lipstick goes on, of course, Factor suggests using a make-up foundation in what he calls a "pick-up pink shade," meaning a pink that accentuates your own flesh tones. A foundation, he says, will do for your make-up that's to come what a primer does for a painting.

Make-up that's to come? Lipstick, of course. Also eyeshadow in a nice clear shade, such as blue or green. Also eyelash make-up. It can be used freely for a winter wedding when it's dark in the daytime or the church is dimly lit. In applying lash make-up, see that every lash does its bit to make you a starry-eyed bride! Here are more tips from the Hollywood expert to girls for whom the Big Day will fall during the holiday:

If your wedding gown is petticoated in ice blue, flesh pink or pale yellow, choose a colored bouquet to accent that under-layer hint of color.

Keep your bouquet small. A wedding gown is much too pretty to play second fiddle to a big mass of flowers.

Remember that the design of your bouquet must conform to the style of your gown. No matter how chic a modern arrangement looks, if your gown is a "Gone-With-the-Wind" style, it'll demand — and should get — an old-fashioned, lace-trimmed nosegay.

SLEIGH BELLES are easy-to-make angel food cookies. Cinnamon spiced cocoa goes along with the "Belles" in the sleigh — and a merry time is had by all. Photo and recipe courtesy Baker's Semi-Sweet Chocolate Chips.

Angel Cookies

If you're all for dispensing light refreshments to drop-in holiday guests, we have a suggestion for you. Since hot cocoa is a favorite winter beverage, do arrange to have a cocoa and cookie bar on your living room table — and give it a Christmas-y setting. You'll find plenty of props, we're sure, right in the house. As pictured, we harnessed small china reindeer to a china sleigh dish — then filled it with "Sleigh Belles."

Sleigh Belles are wonderfully toothsome little cookies that are easy to make. Angel food mix is the base for a 3-way assortment. For instance, to make just one kind of Belle — you add to 1 1/2 cups of the angel food batter 1/2 cup of the angel food batter chopped nuts and semi-sweet chocolate chips. There are two other suggested cookie combinations — but if your crowd has a Chocolate Tooth — use up all of the batter to make Chocolate Chip Sleigh Belles.

On the cocoa service we suggest you have ready plenty of cocoa made deliciously rich and hot — and add to each cup the fragrant spiciness of a cinnamon stick. Then the winds outside can blow but everybody inside your house will be warm and happy standing around the Cocoa Bar.

SLEIGH BELLES
1 package angel food mix (17 oz. package)
1 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips
1 1/2 cups chopped nuts
1 1/2 cups shredded coconut, finely cut
3/4 cup finely chopped dates

Prepare angel food mix as directed on package. Divide batter into 3 parts.
Into one part of the batter, fold chocolate chips and 1 cup of the nuts. Into second part, fold coconut. Into remaining batter, fold dates and remaining nuts.
Drop mixtures by tablespoons onto greased and floured baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 12 minutes. When done, remove at once from baking sheet. Makes about 6 dozen cookies.

Quill and Scroll Luncheon Party

Here's a Christmas Card Party where everyone's the winner.

It is designed to be fun, without wasting one of those precious hustle-bustle days before Christmas.

This party has nothing to do with bridge—but it's guaranteed to get all your greeting cards signed — and those of your guests, too.

So invite your friends to bring over their Christmas notes and cards for the "quill and scroll" treatment. This way, you can return a few invitations while you eliminate one more holiday task. Make it a "coffee" or a dessert party or a luncheon—but do make it easy on yourself. Serve your favorite easy-to-prepare dish with a few "extras" as possible and then you and your guests will all enjoy the party.

HAIR GROWTH

Brunettes, did you know that your hair grows about 6 1/2 feet an hour? According to The Toni Company Research Bureau, your head averages about 108,000 hairs, each growing half an inch a month. Blonde hair, numbering about 140,000 separate strands, grows even faster—over eight feet an hour. This rapid growth is one reason that home permanents need occasional renewing.

COFFEE CAPPUCCINO

For a delightful snack any time, serve steaming Coffee Cappuccino and rich golden or dark fruit cake. For the drink, just make 4 cups double-strength coffee (2 standard measures or 4 tablespoons to each cup water). Pour into cups. Top with 1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped and dust generously with cinnamon. If it's a family gathering, add hot chocolate for the children's drink.

Temperature Is Measured To Precision

Rival merchants dispute about whose appliance will serve you best, but on one thing they agree. Modern appliances are designed to give you more accurate regulation of heat and cold.

Stove burners, ovens, broilers, dryers, washers, water heaters and other heated devices deliver the precise amount of heat you want when you want it.

The amount of heat needed is sometimes vague at all. Again, you may require large amounts in a hurry. Inventors have equipped most appliances with regulating devices and heat indicators, and heat-making parts have been refined to improve performance.

The same reports come from sponsors of refrigerators and freezers. Some refrigerators have carefully defined zones of cold for various types of food. Freezing compartments and freezers are so arranged that you can obtain the exact amount of cold you need.

Some of the freezers have compartments that can be operated separately and used as overflow refrigerators with temperatures reduced to the refrigerator level.

Home-front changes in living habits are coming by segments. Some of the appliances that can become a part of your White Christmas are of general types that have been on the market for a long time. There have been important improvements in these, shown by the number of people who are replacing old units with new.

For example 70 per cent of the refrigerators and 67 per cent of the washers are going into homes where old units are being replaced by modern improved machines. This contrasts with some of the newer kinds of equipment.

Only 5 per cent of the dishwashers now being sold are replacements, about 7 per cent of the ironers, 9 per cent of the freezers and 13 per cent of the clothes dryers.

Some Of Dishwashers Move With Family
Even if you rent your home you can get a dishwasher. It is possible to have one which is not attached to the building. You can take it with you when you move.

Water and drain facilities are provided by attachments which can be connected with the sink temporarily.

The free standing washers are preferred by some homemakers because some of them can be wheeled about easily. They wheel them into the dining area, stack the dishes in them and wheel them back to the sink for the washing job.

What Is Hot Water?
Hot water means different things for different jobs. For washing white clothes and dye-fast cottons, hot water should be from 120 to 150 degrees Fahrenheit. For your bath, that would be scalding water and would be very uncomfortable. Your bath water is hot if it is about 95 degrees. Washing delicate woolsens or stockings requires water of 90 to 105 degrees. Dishes are best washed in a mechanical washer at temperatures that can run higher than 160 degrees, although you can't stand such temperatures when you hand wash them.
