

DUBARRY Color Glide Lipstick, based on a continental formula, is designed to stay on around the clock. Once over lightly and you're set for the day and the evening. It is "self-setting" so you never blot it, yet it never smears and is never greasy. It just glides on and stays on. It is the lipstick that named itself. You'll love the new fall colors.

MAKE YOUR OWN Christmas candles this year with Parowax. Pictures are two completed candles made by Charlotte Joy Riley, daughter of Bill Riley who is Southern Oregon representative for Mailliard & Schmiedell, food brokers who distribute Parowax, Dromedary Mixes and innumerable other food items on your grocer's shelves. Don Kettler took the picture.

Make Your Own Xmas Candles

Here are easy instructions for making a one-pound Parowax Christmas Candle. Variations of this candle are possible by increasing the height, width, etc. First, remove the four quarter-bound-sections of Parowax from the carton. Seal two of them together by dipping the flat surface in a shallow pan of melted Parowax and pressing one on top of the other. Repeat this process with the remaining two blocks. Score one section down the middle lengthwise with an ordinary beverage can opener to provide space for a piece of candle wicking which should be dipped in the melted Parowax and laid in the groove, leaving about 1 inch at the top of the candle. The wicking can be bought in a novelty or hardware shop. Dip the flat surface of one of the sections in the melted Parowax and press on top of the other half to put the wick in the center of the candle. Then quickly turn the entire candle in the melted wax, including the protruding end of wick. Now the candle is ready for decorating.

up about a half inch above the top of the candle on all four sides. This forms a retainer for the wax as the candle burns. Do not smooth the frosting as it will lose a great deal of its effectiveness if you do.

Now shake on sparkle and dot with sequins or any trimming of your choice. The shorter candle pictured is decorated with a little Christmas bell topped with a bow of red ribbon. The sparkle used was green. The other candle was decorated with blue and silver. This foamy frosting made with Parowax can be used for other decorations, such as tipping pine cones and Christmas tree boughs as it will adhere to any surface.

Maybe The Hot-Water Heater Needs Muscles

Your water heater may not be able to keep up with the load as you add new appliances for home use. As U.S. homes become more modern, they put in two or more bathrooms, big washing machines, dishwashers and other appliances that use hot water. One study of home water use showed that 80 per cent of the water a modern family uses is hot. It learned that many families frequently find themselves out of hot water. They have to wait until more heats, use cold water or use emergency methods to heat it.

Some experts suggest a rule of thumb. Multiply 25 or 30 gallons a day by the number of people in your family. Then make sure your heater will produce that amount. They also suggest it is wise to expect larger needs in future years. In many cases this will mean an even larger hot-water capacity for your home. Heaters last for many years, and changing over to a larger size can be an annoyance. It also costs money to rip out one heater and put in another. Here are some of the reasons you need a lot of hot water.

A tub bath takes about 15 gallons of water, a shower about three gallons a minute. The regular type of washer takes 12 gallons per load, an automatic washer 18 gallons per load. Handwashed dishes require three gallons per meal, a dishwasher seven gallons a load. Typical use cited by the experts: Two showers, one shave and breakfast dishes use 22 gallons. One load of clothes, two showers, a shave and breakfast dishes use 34 gallons. One shower, one tub bath, a shave and breakfast dishes use 28 gallons. Washing three loads of clothes in an automatic washer can take up to 60 gallons of hot water in two hours. And there are other uses for hot water in the home at the same time. The experts say that, besides bathing, dishes and laundry, there are 136 uses for hot water in a home. There are many types of heaters. Some manufacturers seek to supply adequate hot water by suggesting larger tanks. Others offer faster heating.
