Garrett-Howard Nuptial Rites In First Presbyterian Church

Marlene Jo Howard, November bride of Gerald Lee (Gerry) Garrett, was diminutive and dainty as a bride in her full skirted gown of crisp tulle accented with lace. Bouffant lines were emphasized in the yards of gathered tulle over satin—and airy touches of lace applique leaves and flowers were sprinkled over the tulle over-skirt from the dropped waistline of the fitted bodice to the bell hemline.

Plumed tulle encrusted with iridescent sequins and tiny seed pearls covered the flat hat which held her fingertip veil. An all-white bouquet of six phalaenopsis orchids surrounded with the contrasting lushness of stephanotis flowers was draped from her white Jobs' Daughters' Bible—a gift from Aloha Chapter, Order of Eastern Star—when "Jo" was installed as honored queen of Bethel No. 6.

AT THE FAIRGROUNDS, November 26, Bethel No. 6, International Order Job's Daughters, staged its annual fall formal in the Exhibit Building, elaborately decorated in keeping with this year's "Coral Sea" theme. Above, some of the crowd is pictured dancing to music by the Starlighters.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Howard, 2336 Home Street, and her father gave her in marriage, Gerry is the son of Mrs. Stanley Rogers, 1832 Last Street, and Paul E. Garrett, Spokane.

Over 100 local and out of town friends and relatives were guests at the wedding in First Presbyterian Church, November 27, when the Rev. Dale E. Hewitt, read the 2 p.m. candlelight service.

Maid of honor was Ruby Gehring, from Eureka, to attend the bride. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Harold Howard, bride's sister-in-law; Mrs. Donald D. Thompson and Mrs. William (Bill) Brandness. All wore frocks of turquoise crystalite designed with vee necklines, three-quarter sleeves and full skirts. Their headpieces were white feather bandeaus with tiny rhinestones, trimmed veils; and each wore a rhinestone necklace—her gift from the bride.

The maid of honor carried a shower bouquet of white pompon chrysanthemums centered with a bow of white satin ribbon. Bridesmaids' cascade arrangements were of the same flowers backed with white satin ribbon.

The bridegroom's attendants were all in his KUHS graduating class in 1950. Best man was Richard Petzold, Eugene; and ushering were Harold Howard, bride's brother; Jim Thornton, Corvallis; and Tom Thornton, Eugene. Jim and Tom, twin brothers, also served as candlelighters.

Organist for the wedding, Mrs. Albert Herringshaw, accompanied soloist, Terry Hannon, who sang "I Love Thee," by Grieg; and "The Lord's Prayer," by Mallott. All white was chosen by Jo for the floral decorations. Two large beauty vases of white Turner chrysanthemums and white pompons
