Shooting Lands Man In KF Jail

An airman stationed at the Klamath Falls air base was held by Klamath Falls police on charges of disorderly conduct after a shooting fray Saturday evening at the Plaza Tavern on East Main Street.

A civilian involved in the scrape is being held as a material witness.

Police said that the investigation of the affair by city officers and the district attorney's office is continuing, and that the disorderly conduct charge might be changed to a more serious offense.

Held on the disorderly conduct charge is airman second class Phillip Gardiner, 20, who lives at 521 Commercial Street. His companion, Chester McDaniels, 545 Lakeport, a construction worker, is held as a material witness.

According to investigating officers, witnesses' accounts of the affair vary so greatly that they have been unable to determine exactly what happened. Interrogation of witnesses in continuing today.

According to officers Victor Murdock and Vaughn Whitmore, who answered the first call to the tavern, a witness identified McDaniels as one of the persons involved.

Other witnesses said that Gardiner, whom they identified after he was picked up by officers, pulled a gun after an argument with a third party and threatened to shoot anybody who followed them.

Witnesses' stories varied as to what Gardiner shot at when he fired. One man said he fired a shot into a building and three others into a nearby furniture store.

Another said that he fired at a man who led a group of witnesses out of the bar when the men left.

No one was injured as the result of the shooting.

According to Sergeant Charles Howard and Officer James Perkins, who apprehended Gardiner on a nearby street corner, witnesses identified Gardiner as the man who had the gun.

Howard and Perkins later picked up McDaniels.

They said that he said he had taken Leo Johnson to the tavern, and left for another tavern, where he met Gardiner. The two then returned to the Plaza to rejoin Johnson, McDaniels told police.

McDaniels said he and the man threatened by Gardiner had a short argument. He said Gardiner joined the argument and then both left the bar. He said that when Gardiner pulled the gun, he asked him to put it away.

When Gardiner refused to put away the gun, McDaniels left the front of the tavern and went in a different direction from Gardiner, he told police.

Lumber Pay Agreement Terms Told

McCLOUD—The McCloud River Lumber Company and Local 6-64 of the CIO came to terms Thursday on a slightly revised version of the Seattle formula for wage increases in the lumber industry. Members of Local 6-64, International Woodworkers of America, accepted by more than 2-1 majority the firm's offer of pay raises ranging from 5 to 14 cents an hour. One thousand members of the local will receive the wage increase.

Wage hikes for the most skilled employes will be 1 cent less than the increase gained last month by Washington and Oregon AFL workers and recommended for Northern California. In lieu of the 1 cent, the McCloud union picked up additional vacation benefit. These according to Harold McKean, IWA local business agent, more than offset the pay differential.

Under the new agreement the workers will qualify for vacation benefits with 200 fewer hours of service than under earlier contracts.

The Seattle formula provides for an average hourly wage increase of slightly less than 9 cents. McKean says his local's agreement with the vacation gains figured in will come to nearly 10 cents.

The McCloud contract will remain intact until June 1957, with the exception of pay, which may be reopened after December 1, 1956, after 60 days notice by either side.

McKean says all McCloud River Lumber Company employes will benefit, not only those in the woods and mills, but also the employes working in various sales and other capacities in stores and offices throughout the company - owned town.

ing done for them. I'm afraid that a majority of them would come to look upon the establishment with a certain amount of contempt.

Let's close with this thought:

For nearly a decade, the United States of America has been shelling out money in large sums for what it calls foreign aid. It has demanded little, if anything, in the way of payment, merely hoping that the good will it would gain throughout the world would repay it for the money it has given away.

Is that hope being realized?

I wonder.

There are times when I doubt it.
