

Tarheel Game Booms Southern Basketball

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—The South is booming in basketball and you can take it from Frank McGuire, the Yankee coach at North Carolina, in that state alone it has produced a great variety of "Tarheels."

UO, OSC Host Big Ten Teams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pacific Coast Conference looks to Oregon and Oregon State Tuesday night to try to improve on what has been a so-so record in pre-season games against "foreign" basketball competition.

The "foreigners," in this case, are Michigan and Northwestern of the Big Ten, slated to open a two-night stand in Oregon.

Michigan, led by junior forward Ron Kramer, one of the Big Ten's top scorers last season, plays Oregon State in one-half of a double-header at Corvallis, and Northwestern faces Oregon.

Wednesday night, the teams move to Eugene where Michigan will play Oregon and Northwestern will square off against Oregon State.

In other games involving major Northwest colleges Tuesday night, the touring Washington Huskies tackle St. Louis at St. Louis, and independent Seattle University winds up a two-game series at home with St. Mary's of California.

The Chieftains dumped the visitors 73-54 in the opener Monday night.

LUCKLESS
Luckless Idaho, beaten successively by Dayton University, Kentucky and Monday night, 81-78 by Missouri, takes Tuesday night off, then moves to St. Louis to play Washington University Wednesday.

Besides Kramer, Michigan is expected to open against Oregon State Tuesday night with forward Jerry Stern, center Pete Tillotson, Ralston, OSC's starters will be Larry Paul and Dick Wilson, forwards; Dave Gambee, center, and Jerry Crimme and Ken Nanson, guards.

Northwestern is led by Don Mast, who had a 400 shooting average in the Big Ten, Mast will sit at guard along with Jay Hook, Glen Loe and Jack Stillwell will open at forwards and Bill Schulz at center. Oregon's starters are Bill Moore and Ray Bell, forwards; Max Anderson, center, and Phil McHugh and Jerry Ross, guards.

In Monday night's games, Seattle had little trouble with St. Mary's Gaels and Missouri ditto with Idaho.

The Chieftains-Gaels' game was close in the first half, when the lead changed six times, but Seattle found the range in the second period and pulled easily away. Seattle's Cal Bauer topped the scoring with 20 points. The Chieftains led 31-26 at the intermission.

At Columbia, Mo., Norm Stewart dropped in 30 points as the Missourians rolled to an easy conquest over the green Idahoans. Missouri led 42-27 at the half and was 30 points in front at one point of the second period. Jay Buhler scored 22 for the Vandals' 57 points.

NIP-AND-TUCK
Preston State College, another tourist, wound up a three-game visit to the Northwest Monday night with a 72-62 win over Eastern Washington College of Education. The visiting Bulldogs pulled away after a nip-and-tuck first half, which ended with EWCE trailing, 32-43. Ron Baines of Eastern took scoring honors with 21 points.

At Tucson, California forged in to the lead in the final 10 minutes and went on to put down Arizona 84-74. For a time in the second half the lead was changing hands with almost every basket. Bob Mueller, Arizona forward, took individual scoring honors with 22 points.

Dartmouth staged off a second half rally by Southern California in Los Angeles to win 61-57. Dartmouth had led 33-17 at the half and nine minutes later held a 49-29 bulge. Then Trojans Jack Dunne, forward, and Danny Rogers, guard, began netting buckets from long range and Southern California drew within four points of Dartmouth with 13 seconds to go but were held there.

clink glasses to the North, southern basketball players, that is!

"We at North Carolina are known as the 'Flatbush Tarheels,'" McGuire grins as he contemplates the influx of Northern players to Southern colleges. "Duke is known as the 'Pennsylvania Tarheels,' and North Carolina State as the 'All-American Tarheels.'"

The reason, if you run down their rosters, is fairly obvious. North Carolina is represented on the court by six New York City boys and a total of nine players from the New York area.

"We're going to expand next year and take in Staten Island, too," McGuire laughs.

Duke, the "Pennsylvania Tarheels," has five fine players from the Keystone State as well as two from New Jersey and one from New York. North Carolina State has four players from New Jersey, three each from Indiana and Pennsylvania and one each from Ohio, Colorado and New York State. Indiana, doesn't have a single Carolinian on its squad.

These carpet-bagging collegians are paying off in spades, too. North Carolina State currently is ranked third in the nation by the United Press Board of Coaches while McGuire's team has moved all the way to eighth place in the nation.

It's the same story wherever you go in the South. While the high schools gradually are building to a point where Southern boys in the future will be able to give Southern colleges more home grown talent, most of those colleges now are taking up the slack with Northerners to make them competitive.

RULED SOUTH
In the pre-war era, Kentucky ruled the South—and national—roost. North Carolina State moved into contention after the war, mostly with Indiana-bred talent. Now they're all in the player market while waiting for Southern high school basketball to catch fire and provide the polished players of the future.

Clemson has three New Jersey boys; Maryland three from New Jersey, two from Pennsylvania and one from New York; Furman two Pennsylvanians and one from New York. "When we played Alabama recently I asked Johnny Dee why he was playing three New York schools in a row," McGuire quipped.

The schools were: St. John's of New York, Holy Cross with eight from Pennsylvania, New York area and North Carolina.

"The alumni has adopted our guys," McGuire relates happily. "And after all, Lennie Rosenbluth, one of our best men, is from Greenville, Tenn."

At Columbia, Mo., Norm Stewart dropped in 30 points as the Missourians rolled to an easy conquest over the green Idahoans. Missouri led 42-27 at the half and was 30 points in front at one point of the second period. Jay Buhler scored 22 for the Vandals' 57 points.

Trabert Out To Even Net Score
OAKLAND, Calif., (UP)—Tony Trabert will be out to even the score with Pancho Gonzales tonight when the two men meet for the sixth match of Jack Kramer's all-star professional tennis tour.

Tonight's contests will be a benefit performance for the Northern California Tennis Association's junior development program.

Last night Trabert, U.S. national singles champion in 1953, gained ground on Gonzales with a 6-3, 6-4, 6-2, 7-5 victory at the San Francisco Civic Auditorium.

Gonzales leads in the series, 3-2, but Trabert has won two of three West Coast matches. The Cincinnati flash is battling Gonzales for a $25,000 bonus at the end of their 100-city tour.

In the first match last night, Pancho Segura continued his mastery over Australian Davis Cup star Rex Hartwig with an 8-6 "pro-set" victory. Segura leads 5-0.

'54 UCLA Club Tops, But '55 Said Better

By ALEX KAHN
United Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (UP)—UCLA's national championship football team of 1954 was the best in the school's history but Coach Henry "Red" Sanders today said "this year's Rose Bowl squad in some respects is even better."

"Call it will, faith, spirit—this team has a desire that is magnificent," Sanders said. "Aside from the one game we lost to Maryland, our squad has been able to cope with the odds when they were against us."

Strader Fired By SF 49ers

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The San Francisco 49ers were in the market for a new coach Tuesday after firing one a year ago for failure to win a National Football League title and his successor, Monday on grounds of "incompatibility" after a 4-8 season.

Coach Norman (Red) Strader, hired on a three-year contract last Dec. 23 to replace La wrence (Buck) Shaw, was "relieved of his coaching duties," effective immediately, by owner Tony Morabito.

"There was a little discussion, some resentment," Morabito said. "In a nutshell, the players were playing under Red and not for him. It was a case of incompatibility."

Morabito, admitting that "We have some cry babies on the club," said that "a lot of little things, like ordering meals and setting a bed time, kept building up."

"In the overall picture," he continued, "I don't think you can treat grown men like children. I'm not saying Red was wrong, because he was right; it's a matter of opinion. But it's easier to replace one man than 33, you'll have to admit."

Although Morabito passed off questions on the 49ers' contract with Strader, the 50-year-old coach said that he had a three-year agreement.

"I was told that the 49ers will respect that contract," said Strader.

Strader, who said he learned of his dismissal only a few minutes after an announcement was made by Morabito, indicated he was hurt by the incompatibility charge.

"I've been coaching for 25 years and one of my strong points always has been to get the most out of my players," he said.

Morabito said he had no one in mind as Strader's successor but hoped to make a choice by the time of the NFL draft Jan. 17. He said the contracts of Strader's four assistants—Phil Bengtson, Red Hickey, Mark Duncan and Frankie Albert—expire Dec. 31, and that the new head coach will be permitted to choose his own staff.

LA Meets Browns Without Younger

LOS ANGELES (UP)—The Los Angeles Rams will go against Cleveland in next Monday's National Football League championship game minus Paul (Tank) Younger, their first string fullback.

Younger was declared out of the game yesterday because of a hairline crack of a neck vertebra. Younger had been complaining of a sore neck since the Rams' final game with Green Bay, but X-rays failed to show the cause of the injury until yesterday.

The fracture itself was minor, but if Younger suffered serious injury it hit in the same place and

And that's the situation UCLA probably will face when it meets favored Michigan State in the Rose Bowl. The team will have to rise to a greater peak than ever before if it hopes to score an upset.

UCLA will be making its fourth appearance in the Rose Bowl without having won the New Year's classic once. The last time the Bruins went to nearby Pasadena for the post-season appearance was two years ago.

Although UCLA shot into an early lead, the Spartans of Michigan State overcame the lead in the second half as they refused to let themselves get beat. It was a game the Spartans wanted to win for Biggie Munn who was retiring as head coach.

FATE VICTIM
The West generally felt that UCLA was a victim of fate last year when the one appearance in two years rule kept the strongest team ever fielded by the Bruins from going to the Rose Bowl.

The strength of the 1954 squad was in its line which was at least two deep at every position with men of All-America or All-Coast caliber. This year's line was mainly the second string of last year. But the current squad isn't backed up by a second line almost as good as the starters.

Sanders, however, says his backfield this year is superior to last year's although the personnel isn't much different. The same players have improved until they were almost not recognizable.

Tailback Sam Brown is the rushing leader of the Pacific Coast Conference with a net of 829 yards and an average of 6.4 yards per carry.

BEST RUNNER
Sanders calls Brown the best runner he ever had at the key tailback spot in his single-wing offense. But Brown credits fullback Bob Davenport with clearing the way. Joining these two is wingback Jim Decker whose reverses have averaged almost five yards a play. The fourth member is blocking quarterback Bob Bergdahl.

Should Ronnie Knox be able to play even to a limited degree, his passing would add just the touch of deception Sanders needs if he hopes to beat the Spartans. Knox has recovered from an ankle break but is far behind in work and may be off form when the teams meet.

The 1954 team won by grinding opponents to bits and didn't need a superior backfield. This year's team has been forced to depend more on backfield brilliance but, barring injuries in the line, it could come up to a single game performance that may be enough to match the Spartans in strength.

TIME OUT

"Yeah, but we're winning... Wait'll you see his pep talks when we're LOSING at the half!"

Layne Says W. Pastrano Future Champ

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—A badly battered Rex Layne, once regarded as the most promising heavyweight in a decade, today predicted nothing can stop Willie Pastrano from going all the way to the championship "if he takes his time."

But wily Willie, the New Orleans middleweight turned light heavyweight, turned heavyweight, showed little inclination last night to take his time as he breezed to a unanimous 10-round decision over the mauler from Lewiston, Utah.

Pastrano, who weighed in at a well-packed 185 pounds, danced jabbed his way into serious contention for Rocky Marciano's heavyweight crown and all but eliminated the fast-fading Layne from the picture.

"I can't see anybody stopping Pastrano if he only takes his time," sighed the 208-pound Layne, bathing a deep, raw gash over his left eye. Willie's target for last night. "He's the fastest I've ever seen."

"Everybody wants me to meet Speiser again," he said with a look at manager Whitney Esnealt. "I'd like to go wherever there's the most money."

Pastrano brought the crowd to its feet several times by abandoning his left foot work to swap slugs with Layne. And at one point, he even sent the big boy into full retreat with a fifth round volley that opened the cut. The wounded eye bled every round thereafter.

Alan Ameche Select Season's Top Rookie

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Alan Ameche, former Wisconsin All-America fullback whom some coaches and scouts rated "too slow" for National Football League play, today was named the pro circuit's Rookie of the Year in the annual United Press poll.

Ameche galloped 79 yards for a touchdown the first time he carried the ball in a regular season NFL game for the Baltimore Colts. He went on to become the first rookie to win the league's ball-carrying title since 1947, gaining 961 yards on 213 tries.

That showing in the rugged play-for-pay competition enabled Ameche to win rookie of the Year honors easily in voting by 30 sportswriters who covered the 1955 NFL campaign.

The 21-year-old Ameche received 17 votes. His closest competition was furnished by his teammate, quarterback George Shaw. Shaw, a first-year pro from Oregon, received five votes.

Ron Waller, rookie halfback from Maryland who starred for the Los Angeles Rams, was next in the balloting with four votes. Rick Casares, Chicago Bears halfback from the University of Florida, received two.

Two Washington Redskins rookies, tackle J. D. Kimmel and halfback Bert Zagers, split the other two votes. Kimmel played college football for Army and Houston, while Zagers played for Michigan State.

Ameche, who averaged 4.5 yards per rush, scored nine touchdowns. His 54 points enabled him to tie end Harlon Hill of the Chicago Bears for 10th in individual scoring.

The 217-pound Ameche also caught 29 passes for a total of 152 yards. Jim Mutscheller, a second-year pro from Notre Dame, was the only Baltimore player who caught more passes than Ameche. Mutscheller caught 34.

Ameche rounded out his first pro campaign by running back four kickoffs 60 yards for a 15-yard average in that department.
