Ancient East-West Customs Meet At Philippine Xmas

MANILA — Contrasting customs of the ancient East and Christian West meet at Christmas-time in the Philippines.

Americans, Spanish, English, Indonesians, Malaysians, Indians and Chinese have left their imprint on yuletide celebrations in this young Asian republic. There's a blend of plum pudding and stuffed suckling pigs, pine trees and banana plants, egg-nogs and coconut liquor, carolers and predawn dancing, firecrackers and solemn Midnight Mass processions.

The Philippines is the only Roman Catholic country in Asia. It has drawn heavily from the Spanish and Americans in its Christmas festivities. But in remote barrios (villages) throughout the 7,100 islands, strange and sometimes pagan customs still form part of this season's activities.

Christmas food has shifted mainly to the favorite Filipino dishes—chicken and pork heavily seasoned with garlic and rice. These feasts usually include lechon, roast suckling pig. Dessert may be an English plum pudding or an American-type pie.

Pine trees from the mountains are trimmed by Western standards in large cities. The banana plant is the official Christmas tree in most villages.

Caroling is popular, but has become a nuisance in some communities. They tax caroling groups. Other towns prohibit them.
