

NEW SPORT SHIRT has holiday sparkle. Brighten his Christmas by giving him a Wings sport shirt with just that right amount of glitter. Gray shadow stripes are underlined with narrow bands of gold Lurex metallic yard on a background of blue-green, brown, charcoal, light blue, light green, tan or white washable rayon challis. Made with a comfortable Italian collar, this shirt is bound to be a favorite for his leisure hours.

PRACTICAL GIFTS

American males have a legitimate beef about the usual Christmas gifts they receive each year from the women in their lives. Too many gifts just aren't practical or wearable. Many of the clothes from Santa's sled this year promise to be more joyously received. New developments in fabrics for men's clothes are making possible gifts that are needed additions to the all-year-round wardrobes of dads, brothers and sons.

Flacid bathrobes, winter underwear, colorful ties and shirts—traditional holiday gifts for the male population—all look better than ever this Christmas.

The bright wool bathrobe, for instance—something Dad rarely buys himself—is usually happily received on Christmas morning but, up until now, worn out or badly stained long before the next Noel. Chemists at Dyeing Corporation have solved this problem with a silicone treatment that makes a fabric water- and stain-repellent, wrinkle resistant and longer wearing. Coffee, milk and most water-borne soils just roll off a Sylmer—even through repeated dry cleanings—assure Dad of good-looking early morning attire for months to come.

Neckties, another Christmas favorite, no longer need to be unoriginal gifts. Threads of Lurex, the Dobeckmin metallic yarn, in gold, silver, gleaming colors, give ties a special holiday glitter and add a handsome masculine touch, as well. Ties striped with Lurex, as well as Lurex-threaded cufflinks, are certain to be prized accessories to brighten somber suits for a man's most important occasions all year round—and for years to come, since Lurex never tarnishes.

Sport shirts with Lurex in plaid or striped patterns are also ideal holiday gifts and are comfortable, good-looking shirts for wear round the house on holidays, weekends, or evenings whenever people are likely to stop in.

Even the children's sleepers Santa brings to youngest sons have added appeal this year. Sleepers of cotton and Dynel Union Carbide's acrylic fiber, are warm, have a cashmere-like softness and won't scratch, no matter how much they're washed. Mom will be pleased to note that they dry more quickly, won't shrink or stretch out of shape and eliminate storage problems, since they are moth-proof.

Dynel is also being used in soft, warm winter underwear—a good, long-wearing gift for an outgoing man. Dynel's softness and lightweight warmth are also found in the fur-like deep pile coats that the ladies will be finding under the Christmas tree this year.

Remember, girls, your man is a practical soul. Give him Christmas presents that he can use and wear. Otherwise, you may see your gifts stay in the box until next year when he can gently ease them off to Uncle Albert or the milkman.

Holiday Damage Costly To Rugs

Christmas crepe paper and New Year's confetti can permanently stain rugs and carpets, warns the National Institute of Rug Cleaning.

Every year after the holidays, professional rug cleaners receive hundreds of calls to remove dye stains caused by wet Christmas paper. Unfortunately, these stains are almost always indelible.

Party papers are colored with a wide range of cheap dyes. When the paper becomes wet, the dyes run badly. The dyes will transfer permanently to textiles. If crepe paper and confetti get wet accidentally, keep them off rugs and carpets.

Should a rug become marked with a paper stain, immediate first-aid action is necessary. Mix a teaspoonful of neutral soapless detergent (such as those widely advertised for safe washing of fine fabrics) in one-half pint of lukewarm water.

Apply the detergent solution directly to the stain a few drops at a time. Use an eye dropper. Blot the stained area with clean, white, unbleached cloth or cleaning tissue. Do not rub vigorously—blot. Begin at outer edge of stain and work in. Repeat if necessary.

Finish by absorbing any remaining moisture with a clean, damp cloth. Complete absorption is important. Drying may be helped by blowing air over the damp area with a fan or vacuum.
