Many Polio Carriers Have Anti-Paralysis Antibodies

By HART E. VAN RIPER, M.D.
 (Editor's note: This is the second of a series of five articles on what parents should know about the Salk polio vaccine. Under Dr. Van Riper's direction the National Foundation sponsored the research development of the vaccine and he is in charge of the foundation's program for vaccinating children in the first and second grades of school. The March of Dimes drive begins in Klamath County January 3.)

Why did my child get polio? None of his playmates had it. Many a parent, suddenly confronted with the dreaded diagnosis of paralytic polio, has asked this.

The answer is that one of the child's playmates, or some other person who was not ill himself, did indeed have the polio virus and did communicate it. The unwitting carrier was protected from paralysis by polio antibodies in his blood. The child who came down with paralytic polio was not.

Had that child been given the vaccine that Dr. Jonas E. Salk developed with support from the March of Dimes, he might have been spared paralysis. His parents could not have been sure of this — no vaccine protects everybody — but the chances would have been somewhere between 60 and 90 per cent that the child would have

Most Republicans Say Ike Will Run

By ARTHUR EDSON
 WASHINGTON (AP)—A big majority of Republican leaders now seem to be convinced President Eisenhower will run again.

The Associated Press today completed a poll of 134 Republican governors, state chairmen, national committeemen or national committeewomen.

They were asked: "Do you believe Eisenhower will run again?" This is their answer:

Yes, if _____ 77
 No _____ 19
 Don't know or no comment _____ 4

The "yes, if" classification is for those who said yes, if he has recovered sufficiently from his heart attack of last September.

A follow-up question also was asked: "If not, whom do you consider most likely to win the GOP nomination?"

Since most of the politicians already had said they thought the President would run again, not many cared to speculate on what will happen if he doesn't.

Ten said they think Vice President Richard Nixon has the best chance if Eisenhower drops out.

Other suggestions included: Sen. William F. Knowland (Calif.), Chief Justice Earl Warren, Secretary of the Treasury George H. Murphy, Rep. Joe Martin (Mass.), Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (Mass.), Sen. Everett Dirksen (Ill.), Gov. Christian Herter (Mass.), Gov. William O. Stratton (Ill.), former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey (N.Y.), United Nations representative Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., and Harold Stassen, a special assistant to the President.

But, mostly, the Republicans pinned their hopes on Eisenhower running again.

Some sample quotes:

Mrs. Kathryn K. Meloney, Wyoming national committeewoman: "I'm confident he'll run again. He won't let the nation down."

Perry Compton, Missouri state chairman: He will run and "will

Actress Gets Suspended Term

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Blonde actress Barbara Payton, 28, has been given a 60-day suspended jail sentence for issuing $129 in worthless checks.

She also was fined $100 and placed on three years probation by Superior Judge David Coleman yesterday after she pleaded guilty to bad check charges.

Miss Payton's probation report disclosed she received $30,000 last year from unnamed sources but that her automobile was repossessed and her furniture and clothing are under attachment.

The actress, ex-wife of actor Franchot Tone, explained the overdrafts occurred when a $200 advance for movie work did not arrive. George A. Provas, whom she married last month, said, "This has all been a ghastly mistake."

Wright Decides To Take $16,000

NEW YORK (UP)—Roscoe C. Wright, a New York postman who got an extra week to make up his mind because of the Christmas rush, decided last night to take the $16,000 he had already won instead of shooting for the top in the television quiz show "The $64,000 Question."

Wright had been scheduled to make his decision to try for $32,000 or take his $16,000 last week. But he said he'd been too busy to decide. He was given the extra week.

Mabel Morrill, 74, a former New York school teacher and social worker, ran her winnings to $4000 last night by correctly describing the villain of three characters in Charles Dickens' novels and naming the heroes who brought them retribution.

Walla Walla Plot To Escape Foiled

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—A new plot of Washington State Prison inmates to join the outsiders in a happy New Year was nipped in the early tunneling stage.

Prison officials yesterday reported discovery of a two-foot deep hole under the orchestra pit of the prison auditorium.

The escape effort apparently was carried on during inmate rehearsals in the auditorium for a show.

At least 50 feet of digging would have been required to reach the outside of the wall. Inmates dug a longer tunnel than that in an escape plan that carried 10 to temporary freedom Nov. 3.

'Yuletide Spirit' Claim Backfires

James R. Darrell, 50-year-old construction worker, convinced District Judge D. E. Van Vactor the day before Christmas that he was "full of the yuletide spirit."

Darrell, who was nearing the end of a six-months sentence for drunk driving, was allowed to go home for Christmas. The remainder of his sentence was commuted.

Instead of going to his home, it was reported in district court Tuesday, Darrell got drunk and broke into the home of his ex-wife, Mildred Darrell.

Mrs. Darrell signed a complaint charging vagrancy against her former husband. After hearing details of the case from Deputy District Attorney Robert Nichols Tuesday afternoon, Judge Van Vactor sentenced Darrell to 90 days in the county jail.

Jet Airliner Makes First Atlantic Hop

LONDON (UP)—Britain's Comet III jet airliner flashed from Montreal to London in 6 hours and 18 minutes today in history's first non-stop Atlantic crossing by a jet transport plane.

The crew "breakfasted" in Canada before leaving and lunched in Britain, as it completed the last leg of a round-the-world shake-down flight that covered a total of 30,041 miles in a flying time of 66 hours and 43 minutes.

The average speed on the Montreal to London was announced at 948 miles an hour.

Veteran pilot Group Capt. John (Cat's Eyes) Cunningham said the four-jet Comet hit the near-sonic speed of 600 miles an hour at one point over Shannon, Ireland. He said that was the top speed for the trip, despite favorable 50 to 60 mile tailwinds.

The gleaming four-jet transport braked to a stop at London airport at 10:51 a.m. (5:51 a.m. EST) at end of a transatlantic hop made with a patched up No. 3 engine.

The Comet left Montreal on the last leg of its globe-girdling flight at 4:33 a.m. (11:33 p.m. Est. Tuesday).

The Atlantic crossing was a record for a commercial jet airliner. The sleek aircraft, however, carried only a crew of 11 technicians and specialists.

Oxygen masks were worn for part of the flight at altitudes above 40,000 feet as the plane is not yet fully pressurized.

Only one minor incident marred the show on the "Flag" tour across four continents and two oceans. It forced the plane to turn back on its first attempt to span the Atlantic.

The trouble developed in No. 3 engine. The plane turned back to Montreal last Dec. 22 when the sub-zero cold caused a bracket holding a jet tailpipe to snap and loosen the tail pipe.

The pipe stiffened sufficiently to direct hot gases to more sensitive parts of the engine, causing an automatic fire warning. The Comet turned back to Montreal 62 minutes after its take off and then was flown to the Toronto plant of the De Havilland Aircraft Company for repairs. A spare engine was flown to Toronto but was not installed.
