Twin-Pak Cartons Make Debut Here

The Klamath Falls Creamery last week commenced general distribution of its new Grater Lake Twin-Pak milk cartons.

Marking another great step toward convenience packaging, the local creamery has installed one of the latest and most modern machines which wraps two single quarts of milk together and at the same time inserts a handle for easy carrying.

According to Percy Murray, manager of the Klamath Falls Creamery, this machine was developed in San Francisco and in less than two years is one of the most talked of new developments in the marketing of milk in the country. It makes possible the purchase of milk at the grocery store or supermarket in multiple units and yet retains all the home convenience of the individual quart containers.

According to Murray, this type of milk packaging has proved tremendously successful in every market where it has been introduced. Personnel from the Klamath Falls Creamery carefully surveyed many markets where all types of milk containers were available to the public and found that where the Twin-Pak milk cartons were sold, they were preferred by shoppers in every instance by wide margins.

Murray pointed out that Klamath Falls Creamery has been distributing dairy products on this market for nearly 40 years and this marks the fourth major change in the milk containers used. First were the large round glass milk bottles. Then followed the square glass bottle that took so much less space in refrigerators. Later, the revolutionary paper containers replaced all glass bottles on the local market and now the Twin-Pak multiple unit for greater consumer convenience.

Klamath Falls Creamery markets all its dairy products under the Grater Lake trade mark and is wholly locally owned with all owners actively engaged in the creamery operation. While the Klamath County has never been recognized as a major dairy producing area, the Klamath Falls Creamery has grown to be one of the most diversified dairy manufacturers in the state of Oregon. All Grater Lake dairy products are processed and manufactured locally.

The products now being manufactured include Grater Lake butter, milk, cream, buttermilk, ice cream, sherbets and other frozen desserts, cheddar cheese, Monterey cheese and cottage cheese.

The Klamath Falls Creamery has now become the largest distributor of Golden Guernsey milk in the state, receiving the milk direct from the local Guernsey producers. The local creamery owners are Earl Kent, Robert Kent, Rodney Murray and Percy Murray.

COFFEE BREAK

Tired writing up your Christmas card list for next year? A handful of fresh California dates or seedless raisins will give you a quick, spur-of-the-moment pick-up and are good accompaniments for your mid-morning cup of coffee.

ANGELIQUE

Angelique — the perfume wardrobe of angels — is available in Klamath Falls.

Angelique asks: What kind of Angel are you?

The answer, of course, will depend upon the time, the place and your mood — very important in choosing just which Angelique perfume you will wear.

Gold Satin is for regal splendor. While Satin is for gay innocents. Red Satin is for exciting mystery.

Black Satin, but naturally, is for sophistication.

The aura in which an earthly angel moves may well be the delicate fragrance of the Angelique perfume that so perfectly reflects her temperament.

Features in the line include the Angelique Cologne Quartette which contains the four fragrances, the Angelique Gift Set, complete with atomizer, cologne and matching bath powder in your choice of Angelique's four fragrances, or Angelique Cologne Spray which is convenient for dressing table, hand bag or travel.

SWEET CHERRY FRUIT MEDLEY

Simple to prepare, this is elegant enough for a fruit cup to precede a formal dinner.

- 1 pound can dark sweet cherries
- 1 13½ oz. can pineapple cubes
- 1 ripe banana, peeled and sliced
- ½ cup grenadine syrup or fruit juice

Drain and pit cherries. Drain pineapple cubes. Peel and slice banana and dip into pineapple juice. Arrange fruit in sherbet or fruit glasses. Pour grenadine or juice over fruit and chill before serving. Makes four or five servings.

A STately DECORATION for buffet table or mantel for the holiday and post-holiday entertaining is this reindeer head made of leather-grain embossed aluminum sheet made by Reynolds Metals Company. Reynolds Metals Company's Do-It-Yourself plans are available by writing the company, 2500 South Third Street, Louisville, Kentucky. Every homemaker is familiar with the standard weight and heavy duty Reynolds Metals Company foil, but other weights and patterns in easy-to-handle sheets are the perfect material for making all sorts of ornaments and decorations.

S & W Fine Foods Annual Carnival

Once again it is time for S & W's annual carnival promotion which will be conducted throughout the area during the month of January and into early February.

This marketing event coincides with the lowest point of supply of fresh vegetables.

Watch for the special displays in your favorite grocery store or supermarket and in the advertising pages of the Herald and News.

This timely, annual promotion accents the year-round availability of canned foods.

Meal planners are now working into their daily menus larger quantities of canned vegetables than at any time of the year.

S & W quality builds satisfied customers and makes the job a lot easier for the homemaker at this time of year.

ONIONS

Bolled onions, dressed up with a thin sauce (which may be accented with a little Sherry wine if you wish) and silvered toasted almonds, go well with wintertime menus.
