

M-SGT. GEORGE MARVIN AVERETT, U. S. Air Force, has returned to the states after serving in Germany for eight years and is expected in Klamath Falls January 6 for a short vacation leave at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Averett, 39 Main Street. Accompanying Averett is his wife, Ernie, who will remain in Klamath Falls while he attends officers' training school at Ft. Sill, Oklahoma. They were married in Germany, and Mrs. Averett came here three years ago for an extended visit with his parents. His brother, A-1c Ronald Averett, U.S. Air Force, was home on leave during the Christmas holidays.

Sheep Contest Rules Given

Closing date for entries in the second annual Oregon sheep production contest has been extended to January 15, it was announced this week by the state contest committee.

Contest chairman C. M. Hubbard, Junction City, said the date was extended beyond the originally announced January 1 deadline to make allowance for the double holiday season. Interested commercial farm flock operators should contact their county extension agent for full details.

The educational-type contest to promote better flock management and marketing is sponsored by the Oregon Purebred Sheep Breeders Association and Oregon State College extension service.

A major function of the program is to provide information exchange among growers on profitable practices recorded on sheep production forms available from county agents. Hubbard said even though flock operators do not enter competition, the forms will provide valuable information on an easy way to keep records. Complicated bookkeeping is not necessary, he said.

stated, to analyze flock production from year to year.

The contest committee has recommended a public tour next spring to visit farms of county winners in the 1955 contest. Secretary S. A. Jackson, Benton County extension agent, said a two-day tour has been suggested, probably in April.

Last year's winners focused attention on the value of marketing lambs early for greatest profits. John Landers and Harry Lindgren, OSC livestock specialists who analyzed the 1955 production forms, noted a 50 per cent spread between the highest and lowest gross income contestants. Much of the difference, they said, hinged on hitting early top markets with prime and choice lambs.

Increased Compensation Delivery Date Announced

Increased compensation checks now being computed for Oregon's currently unemployed will be delivered to claimants during the week beginning January 16. Amended claims under the new schedule in effect for the first week of 1956 will be taken starting next Monday, according to the State Unemployment Compensation Commission, which has completed arrangements for the change-over in 26 local offices and many itinerant points.

Maximum weekly payment will increase to $35 from the former $25, while the average check is expected to be around $29 against the former $22. Allowable partial earnings also have been raised from a flat $2 to a third of the weekly benefit amount. Maximum duration remains the same at 26 weeks in a benefit year. While "seasonality" restrictions have been done away with by the amended law, nearly a sixth of the former claimants will be eliminated entirely by the rise in minimum base year earnings from $400 to $700 and the requirement that such earnings must be at least 37 times the weekly benefit amount. In addition to these changes effective in 1953, the new disqualification and forfeiture clauses that became law last August 3 have resulted in postponing benefits for some claimants. Others have had benefits reduced or denied because of receiving old age insurance or retirement pay. Final effect of these and other amendments probably will not be ascertained until the end of the current benefit year June 30, next. Estimates indicate payments may rise about 15 per cent or two millions this year, while an additional amount may be added when 250,000 employers of newly covered firms become eligible for compensation in 1957 or 1958.

To offset these expenditures, contributions of employers are expected to increase about six millions as a result of higher tax rates, wider coverage and additional taxation of individual earnings. If economic conditions do not change materially, the amended law is expected to halt the downward trend of the unemployment trust fund.
