"DENNIS THE MENACE"

"HEY, THE TELEVISION ISN'T BROKE! IT ISN'T PLUGGED IN!"

Use Of Mexican Lands For Bombing Ranges, Defense Practice, Asked By Cooper

LAKEVIEW — A suggestion to open negotiations with the Republic of Mexico to have U.S. defense agencies move their exclusive training reservations south of the border to tracts of wasteland available in Mexico was sent this week to Washington where the house committee on interior and insular affairs is conducting hearings on public land withdrawals in 11 western states. The suggestion was made by Forrest Cooper, Lakeview, attorney for the counties and numerous landowners who are protesting the current attempt of the navy to withdraw upwards of two million acres of public domain in northwest Nevada for its exclusive use.

According to research recently done by the congressional committee staff, the exclusive defense agency reservations throughout the west have taken from the public use the equivalent of a corridor 11 miles wide stretching from New York City to San Francisco. If pending requests for more public lands are allowed by the Secretary of Interior, the new total will be equivalent to a corridor 14 miles wide. Fishing and hunting and all natural resource utilization permits are forbidden in such areas.

Cooper stated the Dominion of Canada, U.S. and Mexico are linked in a hemisphere defense program with Canada and U.S. contributing practically all the manpower, electrical and atomic energy and large sums of cash for a wide variety of purposes including radar installation. The Republic of Mexico ought to be asked to contribute large blocks of acreage along our southern borders, where natural resource values are low, for training of our military personnel and for the testing of weapons, he said. Canadian forces have trained at Ft. Lewis and elsewhere in the U.S. There appears to be no reason why arrangements can not be made for our military forces to shift southward to a better climate for their training and testing activities.

Cooper stated the department of defense has made a recent investigation of the public domain in central Oregon and it would not surprise him if in the next few years an application is made for an exclusive corridor extending from the Valley Falls to Prineville, a distance of 200 miles and 100 miles wide, as this is the largest tract of its kind adjacent to Pacific northwest defense installations.

Women To Be More Active In Politics Says GOP Leader

By RUTH KING

"Signs of the times point to the fact that women are taking a more active part in politics than ever before," said Mrs. Marshall E. Cornett, Republican National Committeewoman from Oregon who has announced that she will not file for reelection for another term.

Mrs. Cornett will complete eight years in that important position with the selection of her successor at the May primaries. She will continue in her official capacity until the close of the 1956 Republican convention to be held in San Francisco next August.

That women no longer shrink from being called politicians, is indicated by the increased interest of women in good government and their active participation in pre-election work that is credited, the committeewoman said, with sweeping President Eisenhower into office with a record vote.

"There are more women in public office, state and national today," Mrs. Cornett said, "than at any time in history. Which is as it should be."

son between state and national levels. Mrs. Cornett, during her terms of office, has visited all but two of the 36 counties in the state in the interest of promoting political activity among women.

It was the Republican party which led the way in granting women the right to vote. Twelve states, all Republican, had given women full suffrage in state affairs before the federal amendment was ratified. A Democrat-controlled Congress had twice defeated the amendment and it was a Republican-controlled Congress that passed the suffrage amendment in 1919, she said.

Oregon has had its share of women prominent in political affairs, including Abigail Scott Duniway, who devoted her life to women's suffrage in this state and was the first woman to register to vote in Multnomah County. Many outstanding women now serve on important committees and in various bureaus from the county to federal levels and the number will increase, Mrs. Cornett predicted.

Mrs. Cornett's election to the highest office in the Republican Party organization in 1948 was by a vote equal to that given to United States Senator Cordon of Oregon. In December of that year she was appointed on the executive committee of the national committee.

While duties of national committee members are defined as a liaison between state and national levels, Mrs. Cornett, during her terms of office, has visited all but two of the 36 counties in the state in the interest of promoting political activity among women.

She has traveled 15,000 miles in the past year, has attended meetings of the national committee as a whole, of the executive committee and Western states conferences in Washington, D.C., Chicago, Cincinnati, Tulsa, Oklahoma, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, Seattle and Portland. She was reelected for her second four-year term in 1952.

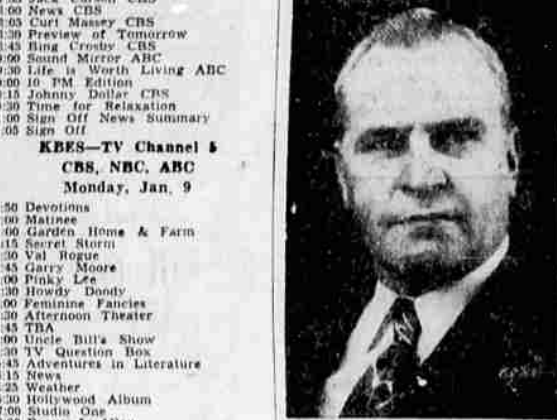

In her official capacity, Mrs. Cornett has devoted many hours to public appearances, speaking before numerous civic and social groups.

She went actively into politics upon the death of her husband, the late Senator Marshall E. Cornett of Oregon. She is actively campaigning for President Eisenhower, was with the President and Mrs. Eisenhower in the presidential suite at the Brown Palace in Denver in August of 1952, when the Eisenhower campaign was being mapped; was aboard the campaign train across Oregon and induced the prominent couple to make a brief stop in the early morning hours in Klamath Falls.

Since that time she has met the President on numerous occasions and was privileged to escort him from his car to the private dining room at the Sulgrave Club in Washington for breakfast with 18 women from all walks in business and professions.

Since the death of her husband in 1953, Mrs. Cornett has taken on active part in managing the affairs of Inland Radio, Inc., with headquarters at Ontario, Oregon. Affiliated stations are KSRV, Ontario; KLMB, La Grande; KBR at Baker; was sold to the Lee Jacob's family some time ago.

MISTAKE

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Two masked gunmen made the mistake of shoving William Stranger into a room with a shotgun and some shells at the Richmond Boat Club. Moments later, the club's assistant manager stepped from the basement locker room—the door wasn't locked—and fired a 12-gauge blast from the hip. The bandits dropped $20 in loot and fled.
