

Klamath Falls Park Board Studies Wading Pool Plans

The possibility of constructing a wading pool at Moore Park will be investigated by three members of the Klamath Falls Park Board. It was announced at a meeting of the board Tuesday.

Mayor Paul Landry appointed Glen Bowen, T. J. O'Hara and John Van Doren to study a plan for redesigning the play area at the park which would include additional equipment and a wading pool.

Park and Recreation Director Robert E. Bonney was asked to study the feasibility of a park and recreation council which would consist of representatives of the organizations operating within, or closely associated with, the park and recreation department.

Bonney also will begin work on his department's budget for next fiscal year. He will be assisted by Martin Brunner, John Van Doren and Mrs. Robert Abbey, newly appointed board member.

November Report Told

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Employment of wage and salary workers, other than agricultural and domestics, declined seasonally in the states of California, Oregon and Washington to 5,360,000 in mid-November, the U. S. Department of Labor reported today.

The figure was down about 20,000 from the previous month, but it was still 241,300 over November, 1954.

California had 4,123,500 on payrolls in November, 5400 more than in October and 211,900 above November, 1954.

Washington had 764,500 employed, down 11,900 from October but above 1954 level by nearly 20,000. Oregon's November employment of 472,100 was lower than in mid-October by 13,700, but was about 10,000 over that of last year at this time.

THE WARMING HUT at Warner Canyon Ski Area near Lakeview is a busy place these weekends with an average of more than 150 skiers on the slopes each Sunday. Last Sunday 40 members of the Klamath Union High School Ski Club drove to Warner Canyon to ski. They were accompanied by Howard Bailey, club director, and LeRoy Aserland, instructor.

National Guard Activity Said To Be Lifelong Career

"Operation Manpower," a drive being staged this week for 52 new guardsmen by the two Klamath Falls batteries of the Oregon National Guard, can be the gateway to a lifelong civilian-military career, announced Capt. Forrest Alter, commander of Battery D, today.

The new recruits are needed to bring the two units up to full strength of 255 officers and men. The additional guardsmen will be used to man the new 75mm "sky-sweeper" anti-aircraft gun which soon will be assigned to the Klamath batteries.

In addition to these new weapons, the Klamath units will soon have the exclusive use of a new armory to be built at the corner of Shasta and Washburn ways. The cost of floor space and will cost about $205,000. Construction is expected to begin this spring.

Training for leadership is emphasized in the guard. The new recruit has an opportunity to work for non-commissioned rank and the army offers 450 service schools he may attend by application. A guardsman may apply for extended active duty with the Army and maintain his rating and draw pay and allowances accordingly.

For young men between the ages of 17½ and 18, joining the guard means that they can serve their whole military obligation with their hometown unit if they choose. They can finish high school, or maintain their civilian jobs while fulfilling their military obligation to their country, Capt. Alter, pointed out.

The guard officer said that most of the higher commanders of the National Guard and some of the general officers of the regular Army and Air Force began their careers by enlisting as privates in the National Guard.

Any interested recruit, or veteran on any of the armed services, may contact the National Guard office at the Klamath Falls Airport.

'Love Lack' Charge Rapped

LONDON (AP)—A complaint by French movie maker Rene Clair that the high cost of living is ruining love—even in France—brought a flood of feminine objections today.

Clair, who has made millions out of his films about love, mused over the state of the art during a recent interview here.

"When I was 17," sighed the 57-year-old movie maker, "I had a little bachelor's attic up under a Paris roof. Here I could allow myself a love life, but today no young man could afford such a place."

It was suggested that no young Frenchman would be stopped by such a thing as not having a roof over his love affair.

"Ah, my friend," said Clair, "you are wrong. You forget the French love of comfort. The young man would not mind, but his lover would usually be a woman of 35. She would never like to be loved outdoors. When they are 35 and over they just don't like it."

That did it. The girls leveled their sights on Clair.

"Nonsense," said 29-year-old Shiril Conway, an actress. "Indoors or outdoors—it makes no difference at any age provided the woman is in love."

"Truth is that before 35 a woman is shy about necking. But, I think it's much more romantic in the open air when the stars are shining and the night is warm."

Said novelist Daphne du Maurier, 48:

"Put the age up to 45 and I might agree with him—but not at 35."

Polygamy Plan Set By State

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—State child welfare officials are returning to the courts in efforts to make a Short Creek, Utah, couple either give up their children or sign affidavits saying they won't teach them to practice polygamy.

A party of welfare workers, led by Lamar Andrus, went into the isolated Utah-Arizona border town yesterday to take custody of the eight children of Leonard and Vera Black. They gave up the attempt when townspeople barred their way.

Last night, Director John Farr Larson of the state's Bureau of Services for Children, said he was instructing Andrus, a child welfare consultant, to:

1. Secure complaints against the people who barred the way, charging them with "interfering with an officer in performance of duty."
2. Ask Cedar City, Utah, juvenile court to start contempt proceedings against the Blacks.
3. Utah's attempt to take custody of the Black children started after Arizona raided the settlement 1 July 1953 and jailed several townsmen in efforts to stamp out the practice of plural marriage there. The Blacks live on the Utah side of Short Creek.

Many residents of the hamlet are "fundamentalists" who believe that plural marriage is the law of God. Though they insist this is the true doctrine of the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) Church, the church outlawed polygamy in 1890 and excommunicates members who won't observe the ban.

Esther Circle Elects Annual Officers

The Esther Circle of the Immanuel Baptist Church held their annual election of officers last night with the following results:

President, Mrs. Orval Smith; vice president, Mrs. Ronnie Walters; secretary, Mrs. Garry Johnston; treasurer, Jerry Pierce; advertising chairman, Mrs. Bill Russell.

The group meets twice monthly for Bible study with Mrs. Charles Myers as leader. All young married women have been invited to attend.

TIMBER MEETING

LAKEVIEW—Forrest Jones and Lloyd Gillmer are in Portland this week attending a meeting for foresters in charge of timber management from all the forests of the Pacific Northwest. Methods of cruising timber and new techniques recently developed will be presented at the conference. Also, the new timber sale contract which went into effect the first of the year will be reviewed.
