Aid For California Flood Boosted By President

WASHINGTON (UP) — Federal spending on flood control and other water projects in California, hit by disastrous floods last month, would be boosted by more than $22 million next fiscal year under President Eisenhower's budget.

The President asked that more than $75 million be spent in the state in the year beginning July 1, compared with less than $53 million in the present fiscal year.

Additional money would be spent on water regulation in the state if the present Congress authorizes the Ventura County Reclamation Project. The President included $20 million in the budget for that and four other reclamation starts in the West. No specific amount was given for any of the five.

Much of the increased spending in the state would result from stepped up construction on seven projects.

For the Central Valley Project, $20 million was asked, a $5.4 million increase over this year's spending. A big factor was a request for $8,350,000 for the Trinity unit, authorized last year.

Of the Trinity request, $7,125,000 would be spent on Trinity Dam, $1,000,000 on Lewiston Power House Tunnel, $50,000 on Tower House Dam studies, $50,000 on Tower House-Matheson Tunnel studies, and $75,000 on Trinity Power House and switchyard studies.

In the Central Valley total there also was $6,627,000 for Friant-Kern area distribution systems, $294,000 for work on the Friant-Kern canal, $110,000 for Contra Costa area distribution systems, and $219,000 for Delta fish protection facilities.

There also was $1,077,000 for a start on the Red Bluff diversion dam, $1,958,000 for the Corning Canal, and $131,000 for the Tehama Colusa Canal. All are in the Sacramento canals divisions. Other Central Valley items included $323,000 for the Folsom Dam transmission system and $340,000 for work on the Delta Mendota canal.

The other projects scheduled for major increases were the Los Angeles drainage area, with $16.5 million sought for a $3 million increase; San Antonio and Chino Creek flood control, $2 million asked for a $1.3 million increase; Coyote Dam, $3,150,000 sought compared with a $500,000 current grant; the Santa Maria Reclamation Project, $6,171,000 sought as compared with $1 million, and the Palo Verde Project, $4,677,000 asked as compared with $1,985,000.

Appropriations for fiscal 1956 and proposed for fiscal 1957, for projects included:

Flood Control and Navigation San Francisco Bay Area (surveys) $250,000, $410,000; Crescent City Harbor 800,000, 1,000,000; Playa Del Ray Harbor 25,000, 355,000; Redondo Beach 450,000, 1,500,000; Richmond Harbor, 500,000, 1,000,000; Sacramento Ship Channel 500,000, 2,000,000; Devil, East Twin, Warm and Lytle Creek, 600,000, 1,500,000; Los Angeles Drainage Area 13,500,000, 16,500,000; Riverside Levees 250,000, 750,000; Sacramento River 3,000,000; San Antonio and Chino Creeks 700,000, 2,000,000; Lower San Joaquin River 250,000, 1,000,000; Russian River (Coyote Dam) 500,000, 2,150,000;.

Reclamation:

Santa Margarita Project (plans) 30,000, 30,000; Central Valley 14,600,000, 20,000,000; Santa Maria 1,000,000, 6,171,000; Solano 13,400,000, 12,200,000; Palo Verde 4,677,000, 1,985,000.

BUDGET

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A budget of 22½ million dollars for 11 films to be produced the first six months of this year was announced today by RKO Radio Pictures.

The studio is returning to full production after a long slack period.

Gas Producer Bill Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first major legislative battle of the Senate's present session gets under way today on a House-passed bill to exempt natural gas producers from direct federal regulation.

The big argument is over whether the measure would jump the price paid by gas consumers. Opponents of the bill say it would; supporters say it wouldn't.

Both Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Republican Leader Knowland of California are numbered among the bill's supporters and they predicted its enactment.

But Sen. Monroney (D-Okla), floor manager of the measure, said the senators appeared to be so closely divided that the fight "could be won or lost" in the floor debate. Sen. Douglas (D-Ill), a leader of the opposition, said the lineup seemed to be "about even."

The House passed the measure last year by a narrow 209 - 203 margin.

Northwest Projects' Funds Asked By Ike

By FRANK W. VAILLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Monday asked Congress for money to start six new Pacific Northwest programs, including construction of the Talent Division of the Rogue River reclamation project in Oregon.

The requests were included in his budget recommendations for the year starting July 1. A total of $149,164,390 in new appropriations was earmarked for projects in Oregon and Washington.

The President asked $2,400,000 to start the $19,260,000 Talent project and proposed $100,000 each for the Amazon and Johnson Creek flood control projects to protect Eugene and Gresham, Ore.

Three proposed undertakings are small projects costing less than $150,000. They are listed as Malheur improvement district, Ore., $55,000; channeling on the Umpqua and Scholfield rivers at Reedsport, Ore., $54,000 and Harbor Work at Anacortes, Wash., $149,000.

In addition to these new works, the President recommended appropriation of $400,000 to start work on the Juniper division of the Wapinitia reclamation project in Oregon if and when Congress approves pending legislation to authorize its construction.

Also subject to congressional approval of pending and controversial legislation is his proposal to spend 10 million dollars to provide the federal share—in cooperation with states, local governments or private groups—of development of partnership resources projects such as John Day Dam on the Columbia, Green Peterwhite Bridge Dams on Oregon's Santiam and Brucks Eddy dam in Idaho.

More than a third of the money earmarked for the two-state program is tied to a single project—The Dalles lock and dam on the Columbia River. The President asked 50 million dollars for this project.

For other multi-purpose dams he asked: Cougar, 1½ million dollars; Hills Creek, 2 million; McNary, 6 million; Chief Joseph 12½ million and Ice Harbor, 5 million.

Eagle Gorge Dam, a strictly flood control project in Western Washington, was included for $6,300,000.

The President said "work on the Cougar multi-purpose project in Oregon, begun as a federal project in the fiscal year 1956, will continue in 1957 on a basis which, under pending partnership legislation, will permit local interests to install power facilities and assure adaption of the power features to requirements of the city of Eugene."

Money was asked also for three navigation projects—$1,300,000 each for work on the mouth of the Columbia River and at Tillamook Bay, Ore., and $439,000 for the Coos Bay, Ore., project.

In addition to starting work on the Talent division, funds were proposed for continuing work on five reclamation projects in the two states.

These are the Columbia Basin, for which $13,850,000 was asked; North Unit, Deschutes project, Ore. $1,035,000; Foster Creek unit, Chief Joseph project, $1,531,000; Kennewick division, Yakima project, $1,288,000, and Roza division, Yakima project, $1,720,000.

Operation and maintenance funds sought for existing reclamation works include $3,997,000 for the Columbia Basin, $535,650 for the Yakima project, and $450,740 for the Kalmath project.

Another $585,000 was asked for rehabilitation and betterment work on Oregon's Rogue River Basin project.

A Bureau of Reclamation breakdown disclosed that $1,310,000 asked by the President would be used to make 29 investigations in the Columbia Basin, including studies of the proposed Cold Springs, Cottage Grove, Mollala, Salem, Squaw Creek, Upper Owyhee and West Long Tom projects in Oregon, and the Chief Joseph Dam, Eureka Flats and McNary projects in Washington.

Another $115,000 would provide for substantial completion of the Umpqua River Basin survey and continued work on the Rogue River Basin feasibility studies, both in Oregon.

The President called for appropriation of $18,700,000 to finance construction by the Bonneville Power Administration, and asked $7,400,000 for the agency's operation and maintenance.

He said Bonneville "will continue construction of transmission lines based on power generation schedules for federal dams under construction in the Pacific Northwest."

Other expenditures budgeted by the President include: Oregon & California railroad grant land access road construction, 4½ million (to be repaid from the counties' share of timber sale receipts; Willamette River bank stabilization, $300,000; and Lower Columbia River fish sanctuary, $1,400,000 construction, and $1,250,000 operation and maintenance.
