Senator Seeks School Remedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) declared today Congress should "plug the loopholes" through which he said Communist-tainted schools have received millions of tax dollars for training veterans.

McClellan heads the Senate Investigations subcommittee, which heard three school officials refuse to say yesterday whether they ever had been Communists. All three said they are not now.

McClellan announced he has ordered a bill drafted to bar Communist-owned private schools from receiving tuition payments or other financial benefits from federal agencies in connection with the GI Bill of Rights training program.

He said that when hearings resume next week the subcommittee will try to find out whether the Veterans Administration, as it contends, lacks authority to refuse to let veterans enroll at the government's expense in schools owned by Reds.

Three witnesses invoked the Fifth Amendment's guarantee against possible self-incrimination yesterday in refusing to say whether they had been Communists in the past. They were M. Michael Freedland, part owner of the Radio Television Technical School in Allentown, Pa., and Burne Hogarth and Silas Rhodes, owners of the Cartoonists and Illustrators School, Inc., of New York City. All testified they are not Communists now.

Book Publishers See Bright Future Despite Television

By CHARLES MERCER
 NEW YORK (AP)—The room in our house known as the library contains several hundred books, a typewriter and some comfortable chairs. It also contains a television set.

The other evening a friend who dropped in glanced at the books and remarked, "I'll bet you don't have much chance to read any more."

It's true that my job requires that I view a lot of television programs. Yet I also read a lot. I don't read as much as I did before but I read more intensively.

This, incidentally, is one of the conclusions reached some time ago in a New York study of television and reading habits.

A couple of years ago book publishers were quite concerned over the effects of television on the book trade. Today they are not. For the book trade has just completed what appears to be its most successful year since World War II.

Many good books were published and widely read. No major publishing house closed its doors and most have had satisfactory profits.

The happy year of 1955 in the book trade, remember, occurred at the same time as a happy year in the television industry when sales reached an all-time high.

Let me talk about myself for a moment and so possibly explain what happens to many people. Last weekend, when I was in a reading mood, my wife and I spent about six hours looking at television. About half of this time was pleasurable. The rest was duty. Much of the remainder of the weekend I spent reading.

Television has made me jealous of reading hours. Increasingly I want to read something specific instead of "anything."

Ridgeway Willing To Testify

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Matthew Ridgeway is willing to tell Congress—as he told magazine readers—about his budgetary problems as Army chief of staff.

Rep. Sikes (D-Fla.), announcing Ridgeway's acceptance yesterday of an invitation to appear before an Appropriations subcommittee Sikes heads, said a mutually agreeable date will be fixed later.

The former Army head wrote in a Saturday Evening Post article this week that the Defense Department has tried to pressure him to fit his views to a "pre-conceived politico-military party line," based on budget needs.

Secretary of Defense Wilson has said he doesn't recall putting pressure on Ridgeway, but conceded the general had not agreed with some department decisions.

Gale Storm Storms Into Vocals After TV Show Folds

By ALINE MOSBY
 United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—After years in movies and TV series, a pint-sized brunette named Gale Storm finally became "hot"—all because of a 10-inch rhythm-and-blues record.

'Dead Men' Film Planned

"I hope with the grace of God to help in this fight against Communism," said Richard Loo, who plays the part of Pastor Choi in "Dead Men on Purlough," a missionary film just released by World Vision, Inc., to be shown January 29 at 8 p.m. in the Immanuel Baptist Church.

A veteran of many Hollywood films and also a regular on many television programs, Mr. Loo was not always an actor. Born in Hawaii and a graduate of high school in San Francisco, he attended the University of California where he majored in foreign trade.

"The reason Key Luke and I are successful as actors is because we do it the natural way... we have no mental blocks. Neither of us studied to be actors," said Loo, referring to Key Luke, who plays the "heavy" in the film.

Versatility describes actor Key Luke, who portrays a ruthless Communist officer in "Dead Men on Purlough." Originally he started as an artist designing film advertising. He also did sports cartoons and is an accomplished singer besides.

"Dead Men on Purlough," which depicts the true story of Korea's suffering under Communism, is the sixth motion picture produced by World Vision, Inc. to provide emergency aid to missionary agencies in the Orient. It is in black and white and approximately forty minutes in length.

Farrington Gets Promoted

J. D. Farrington, chief executive officer of the Rock Island Lines since July 15, 1942, and president since January, 1948, became chairman of the board, a newly created post, on January 1, 1956, the road's directors announced following their meeting today.

D. B. Jenks, Rock Island's executive vice president, was elected to succeed Farrington in the presidency. Jenks assumed his new duties on January 1.

Farrington brought Jenks to the Rock Island in December, 1950, as assistant operating vice president. In July, 1951, Jenks was elected vice president—operations, and was further elevated to the position of executive vice president in June, 1953. He was elected a director in October of that year.

Jenks was born in Portland, Oregon, August 16, 1915. He was graduated from Yale University in 1937 with a B.S. degree in industrial engineering.

During the pursuit of his education Jenks, among other assignments, worked on the Pennsylvania Railroad's New York Division with the engineering corps. He moved to the Great Northern where he became successively roadmaster, division engineer and trainmaster on the Klamath Division. A few further service on other divisions, Jenks entered World War II as a first lieutenant with the 704th Railway Grand Division, Military Railway Service and rose to the rank of lieutenant colonel. His overseas assignments included Africa, Italy, France and Germany.

At the close of the war Jenks returned to the Great Northern, and became superintendent of the Spokane Division. In October, 1948, he went to the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad as general manager, and later was elected vice president, the post he held until joining the Rock Island.
