Teenage Gang Beats Teacher

CHICAGO (UP)—The "Blackboard Jungle" came to life in a Chicago school corridor yesterday when two teenage toughs pounced on a teacher and beat him into unconsciousness.

Their victim was Anthony Grotz, 32, a Purple Heart World War II veteran who found a new kind of warfare outside his eighth grade classroom.

He was in Henroth Hospital today, a gash in his head held together by 14 stitches. Doctors planned to take X-rays to determine the full extent of his injuries.

The attack on Grotz followed the pattern of "The Blackboard Jungle," a brutally realistic novel and motion picture about the warfare between teachers and pupils at a New York City school.

Grotz knew that two ex-students, aged 16 and 17, had been hanging around the yard of the Schiller Elementary School attempting to molest girls.

He heard them outside his classroom yesterday and took action. Tossing open the door, he snapped "Stand aside" and began to walk towards the two young hoodlums.

"Where you going?" one of the boys demanded. "I'm going to the principal's office," Grotz said.

He tried to walk past the boys and felt his arms pinioned from behind. Then there was a blinding, stabbing pain in his head.

"The next thing I knew I was at Henroth Hospital," he said. "The boys must have struck me with some kind of weapon."

The boys escaped, but the Schiller principal and teachers said they had been recognized as ex-pupils at the school. One of them is a former reformatory inmate and the other is on probation, they said.

Dunsmuir Recreation Board Cites Expansion Program

DUNSMUIR—Possibilities for program expansion and a summary of accomplishments has been issued in a report from the Dunsmuir Recreation Commission Board.

Plans of the Dunsmuir recreation district are obtained from a special tax levy on property within the bounds of the Dunsmuir elementary school district. Swimming pool receipts and 10 per cent of gate receipts at events at the Dunsmuir ball park also go into the recreation district treasury.

The commission is working at present on repairing the bleachers, grand stand and fence at the ball park. A major portion of this year's funds will be used to pay off the remaining debt on the ball park lights installed in 1954 at a cost of $16,000.

In consideration that most of the recreational planning during the past few years has been with children in mind, expansion into adult recreation is planned, according to Jack Samuelson, recreation board chairman.

A ski school for both children and adults was started last week. Forty ski students can be accommodated in the bus leaving the Dunsmuir elementary school at noon each Saturday during the remainder of the skiing season. Bus fare is 25 cents and the lessons are free.

Among the proposed activities are new tennis courts, roller skating and craft classes for adults.

Major expenditures in the past were summarized as follows: Purchase of the swimming pool in 1946 for $3,500 with the final payment made in 1948, purchase of filter tanks for pool in 1952 for $15,000 with final payments in 1954, rebuilding of bath houses in 1954 for $1,800, purchase of ball park lights in 1954 for $16,000 with final payment due in 1956.

Supervised play after school and on Saturdays at the elementary school, an annual basketball tournament and a 50-yo tournament are also under recreation commission supervision.

For the past three years the payroll has averaged $5,000 annually, materials and supplies, $3,900; lights and water, $1,500 and insurance $750 annually.

The swimming pool has been self-supporting for several years. It is financed by family season memberships and daily fees.
