Snow Falling . . .

Winter Olympics Set To Open

CORTINA D'AMPEZO, Italy (AP)—A light snow began falling Wednesday on Cortina's craggy, snow-starved slopes, raising hopes for successful Winter Olympic Games, which open Thursday.

It was the first snow in 15 days.

Officials already had planned to go ahead with skiing events on mountain slopes surrounding the village but skiers reported the snow thin and dangerously fast.

But, as the snow, fell, officials found themselves with another headache—a threatened walkout of hockey referees.

The 15 Olympic hockey referees, representing each of the ten countries in the tournament, held an angry meeting and issued a protest over living accommodations.

Some said unless the situation is remedied and unless they are reimbursed for personal expenses they will head home Thursday.

Two hockey games are on Thursday's opening program, Italy vs. Austria and Canada vs. Germany.

"Our rooms are terrible, the worst I've seen in 15 years of handling international matches," complained the veteran Swiss referee, Kurt Khausser.

The whistle - blowers also said they hadn't been paid for money spent in getting to Cortina and had not been reiumbursed for other expenses, such as tips.

Meanwhile, alpine skiers from a dozen nations turned out to check the slopes where the downhill, giant slalom and special slalom races will be held.

These slopes, turned into "suicide" highways by craggy rocks and lack of snow, have been responsible for a growing list of accidents. Thirty competitors have been injured so far, most of them skiers.

The women's giant slalom, scheduled Friday, has been shifted from Faloria Mountain to the Tofana downhill track.

There was one bright spot in the American picture. Tenley Albright, the world champion figure skater who gashed her leg in practice last week, skated through her most rigorous routines and found herself in top form.

The symbolic Olympic flame was due to arrive in the Cortina area late today on the last leg of its journey from Rome — but the Italian officials would almost rather settle for snow.

Nearly three weeks have gone by since the last real snowfall. And there was no hint of approaching snow in the clear skies that looked down today on ice-glazed, rock-littered downhill ski runs that already have claimed 15 casualties in pre-game practice.

French ski Manager Maurice Mariel warned that the downhill event next week will be "a race of death if it doesn't snow soon." U. S. Coach Bob Sheehan issued crash helmets to his skiers. And women's Olympic ski champ Andrea Mead Lawrence of Parshall, Colo., who usually likes to ski on ice, admitted, "This ice is too rough even for me."

Italian Olympic officials switched the women's giant slalom event to a fresh site and hoped for snow. Just in case, more than 100 Italian ski troopers were up at dawn today shoveling snow onto the downhill run.

While the athletes go through their final workouts today before Thursday's opening parade and ceremonies, the center of action in this village in the Dolomite Alps was the Congress of the International Olympic Committee.

On today's slate was a full hearing of an attempt by Innsbruck, Austria, to have the 1960 Winter Olympics taken away from Squaw Valley, Calif. Squaw Valley was awarded the games at the Olympic Congress in Paris last summer.

Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the IOC, says that summer decision will stand—provided Squaw Valley can prove beyond the slightest doubt it can raise the $5 million necessary to stage the games.

And Brundage said today that the Californians will have to prove this within a certain time limit.

The Squaw Valley group headed into today's conclave loaded down with pages of records that will be submitted as "proof" of their ability to hold the 1960 carnival.

Jefferson Tops Poll, Then Falls

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jefferson of Portland again was voted the No. 1 high school basketball team in the state Tuesday, and just as promptly was knocked into defeat in an overtime game, 60-59.

Franklin of Portland was the team that did it, a feat that brought huge delight to the Franklins, for just two weeks ago they found themselves in the same position—voted No. 1 in the state only to be defeated a few hours later.

Jefferson has ruled the roost since then with Franklin No. 4 in this week's Associated Press poll. Of 17 sportswriters and broadcasters taking part in the poll, 14 had named Jefferson the top team.

Eugene, the No. 2 team, and Medford, the No. 3 squad, were idle Tuesday. So was Marshfield, the No. 5 team.

South Salem, voted into the No. 6 spot, up a notch from last week, proved the accuracy of that selection by downing seventh-place Milwaukie, 65-59. Milwaukie had been dropped from its fifth-place rating of last week.

Milton-Freewater and Beaverton wound up in a tie for eighth place this week.

One newcomer appeargd as Albany, No. 10 last week, dropped from the select list. Lincoln of Portland moved into the spot.

Lincoln, which lost to Jefferson by a single point last week, downed Cleveland, 42-34, Tuesday and moved into a three-way tie with Franklin and Jefferson for top spot in the Portland race. Lincoln was the team that upset Franklin two weeks ago.

Franklin's 6-9 Bjarne Jensen was the big reason for Franklin's win over Jefferson. He ran up 27 points, including the winning basket in the overtime period.

In the poll, which was based on games through last week, Franklin got two votes for first place. Eugene got one and Jeff took the rest.

The poll with the season record through Tuesday night:

	Points
1. Jefferson (11-2)	162
2. Eugene (10-2)	149
3. Medford (12-2)	128
4. Franklin (11-2)	101
5. Marshfield (8-2)	81
6. South Salem (11-3)	73
7. Milwaukie (8-4)	68
8. Milton-Freewater (10-2)	49
8. Beaverton (9-3)	49
9. Beaverton (9-3)	49
10. Lincoln (8-5)	24

Others: North Salem 14, Pendleton 11, Corvallis 6, Bend 4, Grant and Klamath Falls 3, Molalla, St. Helens, Cottage Grove and Albany 2, Dallas and St. Francis of Eugene 1.

Henley Tops Merrill, 65-48

Joe Arant, Ted Blofsky and Dale Searcy provided the Henley Hornets with a solid scoring attack Tuesday night as they dumped the visiting Merrill Huskies in a non-league basketball game, 65-48.

Henley took a 19-9 first period lead, then held a 33-24 halftime margin. The third quarter's final tally favored the Hornets 48-33 as the Henley hoopsters began to hit with regularity.

Arant led the evening's scoring with 22 points, while Blofsky followed with 14 and Searcy added 12. Merrill's John Reed and Perry Laney led the losers with 14 and 12 points.

Shortscore:

SF Dons Stick With Experts, Others Fall

By BEN OLAN
The Associated Press

It would have taken a guy with a sharply focused crystal ball to correctly predict which teams would be at the top of the nation's college basketball heap at the season's midway mark.

The experts who called 'em as they saw 'em before the start of the campaign didn't see 'em too well.

Only San Francisco, which will be shooting for a record 40th straight victory against California Saturday night, has made the boys look good.

The Dons, voted the team most likely to succeed in the preseason Associated Press poll, still enjoyed a whopping plurality in the latest balloting.

But that's as far as it goes. Utah, Brigham Young and Duquesne, each rated a power prior to the season's first basket, are not among the top 20 teams. Iowa, considered the fourth best team behind San Francisco, Kentucky and North Carolina State, was 13th in the latest rankings. And Alabama, put in the No. 6 slot at the start, is now in 12th position.

The surprise teams are Dayton, Illinois, Temple, Vanderbilt, North Carolina, Louisville and Duke. Only Dayton and Illinois from among this group were listed in the top 10 in the preseason experting.

The Flyers of Dayton, currently ranked No. 2, have compiled the nation's best record, 14-0, but something or someone will have to give in their game with Louisville (No. 9) Saturday night. Louisville is 15-1 on the season, having lost only to Western Kentucky.

Name Important Says Fraley; Ask Johnson

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Jack Johnson, not the one grandad remembers but the young Los Angeles heavyweight who recently flattened Ezzard Charles, is proof again of the old saw "what's in a name."

Johnson, the younger, adopted that nom de guerre because it is synonymous with championship fistic ability. Actually, his real name is John Lee Storey.

But the alias is no stranger to sports.

Short cuts or abbreviations such as those effected by Rocco Marchegiano, Stanislaus Kiecal and Anthony Zaleski — Rocky Marciano, Stanley Ketchel and Tony Zale — are easy to understand. But a great many of the muscular marvels make short work of their parents' donation.

Do you remember such lightweight champions as Benjamin Leiner, Verlin Jenks, Elizio Sardinias, Henry Jackson or Louis D'Ambrosio? probably not. But you'll recognize them respectively as Benny Leonard, Lew Jenkins, Kid Chocolate, Henry Armstrong and Lou Ambers.

WELTERWEIGHT

How about welterweight champion Gershon Mendeloff? Okay, then, Ted Kid Lewis. Or light heavyweight champion Giuseppe Antonio Berardinelli? Well, that's Joey Maxim's square handle.

Possibly you didn't know that Noah Brusso, Arnold ream and Joseph Paul Zukauskas were heavyweight champions of the world. That would be Tommy Burns, Jersey Joe Walcott and Jack Sharkey.

Name changing is a custom often looked on as a necessity in ring warfare. For a theatrical playbill, possibly such tags as David Montrose, Leslie D'Arcy, Earl Lovejoy, Edward Van Dusant Albert Pilkington and Edward Smyth might go well. But when they became box fighters, these gents were known by such more belligerent sounding titles as News boy Brown, Les Darcy, Bud Gorman, Eddie McGoorty, Tod Morgan and Gunboat Smith.

TURNED

It happens in all sports. Lou Little, the famed Columbia football coach, was born Luigi Piccolo. In baseball, Peter Wyshner became Pete Gray, Aloysius Szymanski turned into Al Simmons and Franceto Pizzola became Ping Bodie. Umpire Babe Pinelli started out as Rinaldo Paolinelli.

Many names were shortened to fit the box scores. Cornelius McGillicuddy became Connie Mack; Edmund Lopatynski chopped down to Ed Lopat; Ladislaw Wittkowski melted to Whitey Witt and Edward Mayoski faded to Eddie Mayo.

One player, however, lengthened his name. Emil Verban, once with the Cardinals, added the "E" after starting as Verban. Dizzy Dean never could make up his mind and the argument still rages as to whether he was named Jerome Herman or Jay Hannah Dean.

Reminds you of the fellow who changed his name from Henry Pietranpopolous to George Pietranpopolous.

"I just didn't like the name Henry," he told the judge.

WSC Boss Uses New Formation

SEATTLE (AP) — Ask Jim Sutherland what system he intends to install at Washington State College and the school's new head coach will give you one you never heard of:

The 12th man system.

"I want the student body at Washington State to be a part of the athletic program," the big, soft-spoken head man said Wednesday.

"The student body will be the 12th man on the Cougar football team. Its support and enthusiasm and encouragement can win us one or two close decisions each season. I'm going to talk it over with student representatives Friday. From what I have learned of the student representatives Friday. From what I have learned of the students at WSC I am sure they will be eager to get the system operating."

As for his players, Sutherland says he "wants kids who intend to graduate. We want the type of boy who is after an education. Any player who comes out for the team, reports regularly for practice and keeps up his grades will never be cut from the squad. We want our players to go out after graduation and be good-will ambassadors for us."

Pinned down, Sutherland said his physical ideal would be a player who "stands about 6-2, looks like he weighs 175 but actually weighs 210."

Along with his 12th man system Sutherland will install the T-formation. The Cougars last fall operated from the split-T and previously had employed the multiple offense, a combination of T and single wing.

"I think the straight T will give us a better opportunity to make use of the available material," the new coach says. "Our attack will be about 52 per cent run, 48 per cent pass. We'll hope to keep the opposition loose with our passing threat and hurt them with our running."

Although he does not plan to give his assistants titles such as "line coach" and "backfield coach," Sutherland indicated Leon McLaughlin would handle much of the squad's defensive preparation. He regards the former Los Angeles Rams center as an outstanding man on defense.

"Another thing," Sutherland added. "We are not going to concentrate on beating other Northwest teams. We are a part of the Pacific Coast Conference and our objective will be to win in all company."

Ziegler To Lead KF Hardtop Club

Charlie Ziegler will direct the 1956 Klamath Racing Association fortunes after being elected president of the local hardtop club last Friday night. Ziegler succeeds Benny Morrison.

Other officers elected to serve the coming year were Ken Kime, vice president, Jim Ferguson, secretary, Ray Brackman, treasurer, Gene Hawkins, sergeant at arms, and directors Benny Morrison, Don Harris and Wes Bishop.

The racing season will open the last of April or the first of May depending upon the weather.

Malin Wins Kings-X Fray

Malin spotted Chiloquin a 10-9 first quarter lead Tuesday night at Malin, but roared back in the final three periods to wrap up a 49-41 non-league basketball victory.

A second quarter spurt by the Mustangs pushed Malin ahead 21-18 at half, and the third quarter closed with the defending county champions on top, 36-30, as Chiloquin continued to make a game try.

Dick Siemens of Chiloquin led the scoring column with 12, while Malin's Glenn Steyskal and Allen Myers and Chiloquin's Manny Ochoa each potted 10.

In the preliminary game, the Malin Bs whipped Chiloquin 51-28.

KF Creamery, Cokes Victors

Coca Cola and the Klamath Falls Creamery registered victories in the two City League basketball games played last night at Altamont Junior High. The Cokes whipped the Eagle 68-54 and the Creamery hoopsters stopped the Joslen Ramblers 57-42.

The Creamery quintet jumped off to a 30-22 halftime lead, then coasted to the victory. Larry Willis led the winners with 14 points, while Bob Kelly tallied 11 and George Kilen 10. Bill Pickett led the Ramblers with 10.

Fred Fietke picked up 19 points for game honors, but the Eagle was unable to cope with the double-barreled attack thrown at them by the Cokes. Wayne uebert led the winners with 18, while Dick Young and Bob Howard followed with 17 apiece. Modesto Jimenez of the Eagles tallied 11. The halftime score gave Coca Cola a 38-30 lead.

In the only Victory League game played last night at Mills, the Gun Store walloped the DeMolay Golds 86-22. Jim Hines scorched the nets with a blistering 38-point scoring effort. Brent Caldwell added 15. Mike Dixon topped the losers with six.

YMCA Church League

Intermediate basketball action in last night's YMCA Church League play found Church of the Brethren, Malin Presbyterian and Peace Memorial recording victories.

Peach Memorial topped Chiloquin Methodist 30-20 with Allen hitting for nine. Chiloquin's Ohlea had 12 for game honors. Malin Presbyterian whipped Mt. Laki 35-17 as Richie dumped through 17 points. Vertries scored five to lead Brethren to a low-scoring 11-8 win over Sacred Heart.
