

ELSIE JURASEVICH, press chairman for Area No. 2, Rebekah Lodge of California, entertained a group of officers and members of Prosperity Lodge No. 104, at a 1:30 p.m. luncheon, January 14, at the Willard Hotel. Mrs. Jurasevich, also a member of Rebekah Lodge No. 208, Alturas, was interviewed by the local Rebekahs and she gave them an interesting account of her press work in California. She is also a business woman — she and her husband,

Mitchell Jurasevich, own and operate the Niles Hotel in Alturas. In the picture, seated, from the left, Elsie Jurasevich, Irene Rickman, Bernice McCracken, Vera Fritsch, Helen McCornack, Jennie Hurn and May Phinney. Standing, same order, Kate Hogue, Louise O'Brien, Anna Bean and Edith Barleen.

THE FIRST FAMILY REUNION since 1944 for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lewis, 4644 Cannon Avenue, was the recent one, when the picture was taken 12 years later. In 1944, there were three sons in uniform. There are still two, today.

In the front row, grandchildren are, from the left, Kathleen Shaffer (all the others have the surname, Lewis), Dauna LeNae, Linda Louise, Glenna Lee, Marsha Ann and Ronald Doran. In the second row, same order, Velta Shaffer, daughter; daughters-in-law, Alice (holding baby, Deon Paul), Mary, holding Teressa Lee; Joyce Lewis, mother; Mrs. Fred (Vesta) Lewis, Fred Lewis, father; and daughter-in-law, holding Michael Earl Lewis.

Back row, son-in-law, Royce G. Shaffer, and Lewis sons, Doran C., Oren C., Keith F., grandson, Dorall Keith Lewis; and son, Earl C. Lewis. Two older granddaughters, living in Salt

Lake City, unable to be here for the family picture, are Kay Darlene and Karen Margean Lewis.

During World War II, Keith was in the Marines; and Oren and Doran were both in the Air Force. In fact, they flew on the same B-29 in Saipan — and completed 33 missions together. They were the only two of the entire crew to come home . . . and the story was of national interest at that time.

Oren has served twice — and Doran is now on his second term of service — and Earl, in the U.S. Army, served 15 months in Korea.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith F. Lewis and son, live in Seattle; and all the other sons, their wives and children live in Sacramento — Oren, three children; Doran, four; and Earl, one. Their sister, Velta, her husband, Royce, and their daughter, live in Klamath Falls.

Cascade Crest Chapter 159 OES, Installs New Officers

Light blue and silver was the color scheme chosen for decorations at the recent installation ceremonies of Cascade Crest Chapter No. 159, Order of the Eastern Star, in the Chiloquin Masonic Hall. The opening ceremony for the installation of new officers was under the direction of retiring matron and patron, Ethel Mathis and Layton Hoback. Escorted and introduced were Reno Oldham, grand representative of Colorado in Oregon; and worthy matron and patron, Georgianna Clark and Gus Vlahos, Manzanita Chapter, Klamath Falls; and master of Chiloquin Lodge No. 197, Mel Fitzpatrick. Installing officers included Hazel Staiger, installing matron; Doris Kircher, honorary installing matron; Guy Staiger, installing patron; Elizabeth Zeller, chaplain; Myrtle Myers, marshal; and Alma Cofer, organist. 1956 officers installed were worthy and associate matrons, Georgia Page and Gleta Wampler; associate matron, William Wampler; secretary, Elizabeth Zeller; treasurer, Myrtle Myers; conductress and associate conductress, Cordelia Hoback and Virginia Zumbun; chaplain, Ethel Zimmerman; marshal, Sadye Page; and organist, Athel Roser. Pearl Adamo, Adah; Dorothy O'Neill, Ruth; Lorna Heilbronner, Esther; Ethel Mathis, Martha; Hazel Staiger, Electa; Layton Hoback, warder; and Dwight Kircher, sentinel. Worthy patron-elect, Gene Page, not installed because of illness, will be installed later. The retiring matron and patron were honored with an addenda and each was presented with a past officer's jewel. Gail Ridenour, Les Hoback and Ruphane Mannering assisted the retiring WM and WP officers with the addenda. The retiring WM and PM presented their 1955 officers with tokens of appreciation. New worthy matron, Georgia Page was honored with an addenda by her officers; and she received a bouquet of blue and white carnations from the chapter. A gift from her family was presented by her small daughter, Gayle. She also was presented with a gift from her installing matron at this time. She interpreted her chosen theme for the year, "Friendship and Fellowship" — and thanked her installing officers and others who assisted with the installation. Blue and silver corsages presented by the new WM to her officers were made by Reitha Marshall of Porterville, California. Solos were sung by Sharon Powell and Ruphane Mannering. The latter also led the closing ode. Donas Ridenour, Rosalie Hoback, Dwight Kircher and Lawrence Myers, past matrons and patrons, were hosts for the evening.

Ideas IN PAINT and WALLPAPER

DO THE UNEXPECTED!

Whether your home is large or small, new or old, casual or formal, you can give it added charm and distinction by doing the "unexpected." Remember, the way you choose and combine colors, the manner in which you use wallpaper, the original little touches you give your rooms are what makes them an expression of your own personality.

Color invites you to be inventive . . . especially our new jewel box paint colors. Come in and see them today! Give your home fresh sparkle and protection with paint! Let us share in your color scheming, won't you. We'd enjoy it.

The bedroom in the accompanying sketch might well have been just another run-of-the-mill attic room. But it has been given an unexpected touch by using a small-plaid wallpaper (blossom pink and sage green) on the sloping ceiling and around the dormer window. Flat finish paint in pink-picked up from the wallpaper—has been used on walls. Sage green (painted) floor completes the effective and unusual color scheme.
