

BACK IN 1927 Gus Lampropoulos opened the Olympia grocery store on Main Street. In 1931 he moved next door, to a location he occupied until his business was moved to a new store building on Holly Street. Modern equipment has replaced the furnishings of that time in the new store Lampropoulos has opened in Mills Addition. He plans a grand opening when weather conditions improve.

AIR CONDITIONING, hot water heat, glass frontage and enlarged store space are combined to make the Olympia Grocery one of the most modern food stores in Klamath Falls. Owner Gus Lampropoulos, above, added two large apartments to the building. One is now occupied. The new location, moved from 1130 Main Street, is at 2123 Holly Street. Lampropoulos is assisted in his business by a daughter Cleo. The store is now open for business. A formal opening is planned for later in the year.

Dinner Leads Parish Meet

DUNSMUIR — A family dinner preceded the annual parish meeting of members and friends of St. Barnabas Episcopal Church. Major business of the meeting included a financial report and election of a bishop's committee, the governing body of the church.

Names to the committee were: Rod Rasmussen, lay reader; Mrs. Selma Porter, treasurer; Mrs. Peggy Walsh, clerk; Chester Porter, Jack Samuelson and Harry Dodwell. Mrs. Ellen Smith, president of the guild, and Mrs. Betty Kelby, Sunday School superintendent, will serve as ex-officio members.

Bob Berryhill who has served as senior warden for the past two years has resigned and Bishop Noel Porter will be asked to name a successor.

In view of the fact that the church has been without a minister for the past two years, the membership felt encouraged at its financial status. After all bills for upkeep payment for special services and those of the lay reader, and all obligations to the diocese have been paid, over $300 will remain in the treasury to begin the new year.

The church has been assured a minister will be provided this spring.

Indian Students Demonstrate

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Hundreds of students demonstrated against the United Nations today as U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold held a news conference in this Pakistani capital.

The procession assembled outside the U. N. information center here as Hammarskjold talked to newsmen. The crowd shouted "We want Kashmir" and "Death to the United Nations."

Police held back the crowd as Hammarskjold left by a side entrance. He left by plane for Bombay, en route to Bangalore, where he will attend the conference of the U. N. Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East.

ANOTHER CUP OF COFFEE was poured by Bob Perkins, right, for Lyle Kellstrom, left, vice president of the YMCA and Jack Douglas, center, treasurer, at a snack bar in the "Y" while plans were being made for the membership Roundup Breakfast held this morning at the YMCA. New members and renewals will be recruited.

Webfoots Plan Dad's Week

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON — University of Oregon students think "Pops are Tops." That is the theme of the February 3-5 weekend when students' dads arrive on the campus for the annual Dads' Weekend.

Feature event of the weekend will be the traditional father-student luncheon beginning at noon Saturday, February 4, in the Student Union ballroom. Principal speaker will be university President O. Meredith Wilson.

The first event of Dads' Weekend will be a basketball game between Oregon and the University of Southern California Friday, February 3, at 8 p.m. in MacArthur Court.

A barbershop quartet contest will follow the Friday night game. At that time the official weekend hostess will be announced. This position goes annually to a married woman who is or has been a university student.

Registration of the dads will begin Saturday morning at the Student Union. An annual business meeting of the Dads' Club will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon. That evening there will be another game with Southern California. Sunday afternoon fathers will be guests for dinner at the various living organizations.

Mt. Shasta Mill Reopens

MOUNT SHASTA—The sawmill of the Mt. Shasta Pine Manufacturing Company, which has been closed since January 1, was reopened Monday with about 35 men reporting for work. This was announced by Robert Kohn, general manager of the company.

A wage increase, effective February 1, has also been announced by the Mt. Shasta Pine Manufacturing Company. This agreement conforms to wage increases recently granted to other mills in the area. The new agreement closes the workers' contract until April 1, 1957, except that either party may seek a general wage change by 60 days notice prior to January 1, 1957.

The sawmill has been closed for cleanup and repairs. The log pond has been drained and cleaned. The mill is now ready for another year of continuous operation, Kohn said.

Lake Attorney To Testify

LAKEVIEW — Forrest E. Cooper, local attorney, testified in Washington, D.C. today for the Association of Oregon Counties before the House Appropriations committee in support of increased appropriations for the national forest access road program.

The counties seek sufficient funds to provide an access road program which will bring the annual cut of timber from the forests up to the annual allowable cut thereby recovering as much value as possible from the trees and promoting sustained yield forestry by making it possible to remove the annual allowable cut of mature timber to make room for the next crop.

A similar appointment has been requested by Cooper of the Senate Committee.

Navy Explains 'Lost' Missile

PORTERVILLE, Calif. (UP) — The Navy said today bad weather conditions were responsible for severing a guided missile from its control plane in flight and sending it crashing into and orange grove near a farmhouse.

The missile, described by a Navy spokesman as a remote-controlled "drone" aircraft, spun to earth yesterday on a mission from an undisclosed base in Southern California's Mojave Desert, about 85 air line miles south of here.

The pilotless plane plowed a furrow 25 feet long and eight feet deep through the orange grove close to the ranch house of Robert E. Wolfram. Its fragments were scattered over a 100-yard area. There were no reports of injuries or other damage. A Navy missile team rushed to the scene to retrieve the wreckage.

Any explosion that occurred was from the craft's fuel, the Navy said.

According to the spokesman, the "major cause" for the missile getting away from its control plane was bad weather encountered during "a routine training mission or a test." The pilotless control plane, probably a jet, was guiding the drone's flight from "close wing position" at the time of the crash.

The Navy would not release detailed information on the drone, saying it was classified.
