

Bonanza High School Set To Receive 'Great Books'

BONANZA — The Bonanza High School Library has been selected to receive one of the 1,600 sets of Great Books of the Western World being distributed through a selection committee of the American Library Association under a grant from the Old Dominion Foundation.

Joanna Givan, librarian at Bonanza High School, received word that the school library's application for a set of the Great Books of the Western World was approved and the 4-volume set was on its way. A matching set of Library of Congress catalog cards is being sent to the school separately.

Great Books of the Western World are produced by Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc., in collaboration with the University of Chicago. Included is a unique-idea index, the Syclopedia, edited by Mortimer J. Adler, William Benton is publisher of the set and Robert Maynard Hutchins, editor.

The 4 volumes encompass 443 works by 71 authors, spanning Western thought from Homer and the Bible to the 20th Century. It totals 32,000 pages comprising 25,000,000 words. Editorial preparation of the set occupied 100 scholars for eight years and cost $2 million.

The Old Dominion Foundation was established in 1941 by Paul Mellon. This year's gift sets went to libraries in the following categories: public, college and university, junior college, public and private high schools and to state library agencies. All libraries in the nation were invited to make application for a set if they had not received a form by September 15, 1955. The 1,600 successful applicants were selected from among the several thousand libraries which replied to the invitation.

Richard Jaeckel Heads For Comeback Trail In War Film

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—I went Hollywood. I was immature. I left my wife. I thought I would go farther single. It took me a couple of years to find out I was wrong.

Actor Richard Jaeckel sat in a dreary, grim fox-hole—make-believe movie variety—and talked glumly about "the lesson I've learned."

Three years ago Richard was Terry Moore's handsome boy friend in "Come Back, Little Sheba." He won a Paramount contract and was headed for stardom. Then he dropped out of movies. He also separated from his wife.

Now Jaeckel is back making a fresh start in pictures, in a war film by independent producer Robert Aldrich, "Fragile Fox." What happened to Richard?

"Actors who leave home blame their homes for their career problems, but it's their own problem of insecurity," Jaeckel said as he polished his rifle.

"I went Hollywood to a certain extent. I didn't play around but the fields looked greener on the other side of the fence. I only can speak for myself, but when you've got a good wife and home you don't pass it up for something that's different. Some actors think it's great to be a bachelor. But when you analyze bachelorhood and break it down you're not missing a thing."

Paramount has promised to make another Alan Ladd out of Richard. When the scripts didn't come around, "I loafed at the beach—and not having some work to do didn't help my marriage any," he said.

"After sitting around for a year, I know I had to decide whether to be an actor or a bum," he said. "I left Paramount and went back East for six months to do some live TV shows. Then I toured with 'Desperate Hours' on the stage. You just can't sit around. You have to keep working."

When "Desperate Hours" wound up in a Los Angeles theater, his performance brought him a flood of picture offers. He reconciled with his wife, Tony, and their two children and has settled here again.

"She's a great source of encouragement," he said. "Having a good wife at home gives a person security and solidarity. Being married doesn't have to hinder you."

Red Bluff Bull Sale Grades To Be Presented By Four Men

Western cattlemen who have been named to place University of California Record of Performance grades on 434 service-age native and herd bulls which will be sold at Red Bluff, California Bull Sale on February 2, 3 and 4 were named today by Abner McKenzie, Bull Sale Committeeman and chairman of the grading committee.

McKenzie stated that the group of four would be headed by Don E. Petersen, executive farm adviser from Merced, California. Petersen, McKenzie stated, is considered one of the most experienced and able livestock men with the University of California Extension Service and has had many years' experience in the application of Record of Performance grades to beef cattle.

The state of Washington will be represented by Eddy Francisco, a commercial cattle operator of Pomefay, Washington.

The Red Bluff sale committee, according to McKenzie, has also selected as a grader, Cameron Cliff, a large commercial operator at Burns, Oregon.

The fourth member of the committee is Jake Schneider of Sloughhouse, California.

A specific grade indicating a percentage of perfect conformation will be placed on each animal by the graders. The grade which is used by the University of California in improving registered beef cattle herds will be stenciled on each hip of the bull before he goes through the sale ring.

The grading program is scheduled to start at 9 a.m. on Thursday, February 2 when the officials will start inspecting the 277 Horned Herefords which have been consigned to the sale. Forty-five Polled Herefords, 43 Angus and 69 Shorthorn bulls will be graded on Friday morning and sold that afternoon.

Horned Herefords are slated to sell on Saturday, February 4, starting at 9:30 a.m. with the sale of a Horned Hereford bull, donated by Frank and Margaret Day of Montague, California for the March of Dimes.

Sacred Heart Notebook

By BARBARA YOUNG

The Academy Trojans suffered a valiant defeat to the Malin Mustangs with a score of 81-45 in the fourth league game for the Trojans. This defeat places them in second place in the county ratings with Malin in first position.

Saturday evening the Trojans lost a hard-fought game to the highly rated A-2, St. Francis Academy from Eugene. The game was supervised by the former SHA, Jim Souza.

A cake raffle was held in the gym Friday night at the Malin gymnasium to fund-raising project for the Society.

A highly anticipated game with the Henley Hornets will be held in the Sacred Heart Gym Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. The Trojans are hoping to carry off the victory but not without a hard fight.
