MacArthur 'Lost Touch' Says Truman

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Truman says he thinks Gen. Douglas MacArthur became too "wrapped up in the East" and lost touch with this country during his 14-year absence.

Truman both praises and criticizes MacArthur in the latest installment of his memoirs, appearing in Life Magazine. But he expresses regret that the general, who remained in the Far East from 1936 until Truman fired him early in 1951, didn't visit this country more often "to familiarize himself with the situation at home."

Only two months after MacArthur took command of U.N. forces fighting in the Korean War, Truman said, he considered sending Gen. Omar Bradley to replace MacArthur in that command. MacArthur would have continued in charge of the Japanese occupation.

But Truman says "after weighing it carefully, I decided against such a step. It would have been difficult to avoid the appearance of a demotion, and I had no desire to hurt Gen. MacArthur personally."

In New York, an aide to MacArthur said the general had no immediate comment.

Truman, who stripped MacArthur of all his commands on April 11, 1951, said he had considered removing him as military commander in August 1950.

That followed a statement MacArthur sent to the Veterans of Foreign Wars stressing the importance of preventing Formosa from falling into hostile hands. He contended the fall of that Nationalist Chinese island would create an enemy salient within America's Far East line of defenses.

The official U.S. policy at the time was stated to be that the United States had no designs on Formosa and was guarding it only to keep the Korean War from spreading.

"My only concern," Truman writes, "was to let the world know that his (MacArthur's) statement was not official policy." The White House said then that the general was directed to withdraw his statement "in order to avoid confusion as to the U.S. position."

Truman says MacArthur's statement "contradicted" this policy.

Marriage Of Movies And TV Receives Poor Reception

By ALINE MOSBY
 United Press Hollywood Writer
 HOLLYWOOD (UP)—What happened to the marriage of movies and television? TV executives agree that TV, the one-time child bride, doesn't need the movies so much any more.

When television first invaded the living room, the Hollywood studios regarded it as a pest that might go away if they kept their eyes closed. Now the standstills on the success ladder have switched.

Film studios plunged into TV last fall with fanfare—but a look at the ratings reveal many of the studio shows didn't fare so well. "The MGM Parade" is reported by trade papers to be on the verge of losing a sponsor because of the low rating. The studio, trade reports say, was asked to change the format of the program.

Twentieth Century-Fox refilled some of "My Friend Flicka" series at CBS' suggestion. Some of the "Warner Presents" programs were not raved over by the critics.

The Screen Directors Guild series of half-hour TV dramas was called on the carpet by its sponsor because, "They promised us big stars and top stories and we didn't get them."

On the "old movie" front, studios may have been left in the dust. At first they refused to sell their backlog of old films to TV, reportedly waiting until the price was high enough.

Recently RKO broke the deadlock and dumped its back product into TV. Producer David Seiznick sold his films to television; Columbia Studio has some for sale. Other studios are expected to follow suit. But it may be too late.

"We're not negotiating for any studio backlog," says Al Scalpene, West Coast program head for CBS. "A while back TV could have used those old films, if sold at a reasonable price. But now we've developed our own shows."

"In fact, it's good they didn't sell their backlog of films when TV began," he noted. "It made TV develop faster. If we had had many hours of programming with feature films we might not have had to work so hard to develop new shows."

Program Given By High School

MALIN—Whether it was music or drama you favored, you were certain to be pleased by the program presented at the Malin High School gym Wednesday evening.

The girls' chorus under the direction of Jean Underwood sang "Mary Roundelay" and "Pledge Allegiance to the Flag."

Arthur said the general had no immediate comment.

Truman, who stripped MacArthur of all his commands on April 11, 1951, said he had considered removing him as military commander in August 1950.

That followed a statement MacArthur sent to the Veterans of Foreign Wars stressing the importance of preventing Formosa from falling into hostile hands. He contended the fall of that Nationalist Chinese island would create an enemy salient within America's Far East line of defenses.

Bureau To Hear Meeting Report

A report by Louie Lyon of Malin on the recent meeting of the National Potato Council will highlight the annual meeting of the Klamath County Farm Bureau, which will be held at 10 a.m. Monday at the Klamath County Fairgrounds.

Lyon, Klamath County delegate to the council, will probably discuss the results of meetings between council officials and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson. His talk will be during the afternoon session of the meeting.

Other items on the program will include a talk by Mary Rogers, Bonanza High School student who recently attended sessions of the United Nations in New York, and several motion pictures, according to Farm Bureau President Randall Pope of Merrill.

The meeting will be open to all farmers, whether or not they are Farm Bureau members. A potluck luncheon will be served.

Omnibus To Present Series Of Constitution TV Shows

By CHARLES MERCER
 NEW YORK (AP)—"For some time," says Joseph Nye Welch, "I've been concerned that so many people have so dim a perception of the Constitution and what it does in safeguarding their liberties."

"Almost any strong, rugged guy can make people forget there is a Constitution around. I felt it was time that as many people as possible were refreshed on the nature of the Constitution. The perfect medium for communication seemed to be television. So I got in touch with Omnibus. It seemed that if any program had the courage to try the idea, Omnibus would."

Omnibus did. And so, next Sunday afternoon it will present the first of a three-part study of that living document, the Constitution, on CBS-TV.

Welch, you remember, is the tall Boston lawyer of gentle manner and wry speech, who served as special counsel to the Army in its disagreement with Sen. Joseph McCarthy and his aides in 1954. Welch became well known to the nation's TV audience then. Now, at the age of 64, he's come here from his home in Walpole, Mass., to serve as a visible, audible guide to the television audience when Omnibus takes up the subject of the Constitution.

"There's a bit of the ham in every trial lawyer," Welch said drily. "But I'm not being integrated into the program as an actor. I have no future as an actor. But I think I have a little future as a lawyer."

Welch impresses you as the ideal person to serve as a guide. Large but not florid, acute but not sharp, he's the sort of lawyer you want to call "Judge" because he shows vast wisdom of human nature.

Character actors will play the many historic roles of the framers and changers of the Constitution. But they won't speak glib lines cooked up for them on Madison Avenue in 1956. In dramatic flashbacks they will speak the actual words written and spoken by the men who made and developed the Constitution.

Shorter Army Terms Studied

WASHINGTON (AP)—More young men may be drafted to serve for shorter periods in a temporary move to bolster the lagging ready reserve program.

Secretary of Defense Wilson disclosed the tentative plan at a news conference Wednesday. Still under discussion, it would cut from 24 to 18 months the required active service of as many as 100,000 present draftees who agree to remain in the ready reserve for at least 2 1/2 years.

To provide replacements for them and keep up the military strength, draft calls would be increased—perhaps doubled, Wilson emphasized that the program, if adopted, would be temporary and would extend no later than June 1957.

No special legislation would be required.

By 1959, Wilson said, the workings of last year's Reserve Forces Act will automatically build up the ready reserve—the men who would be called to arms at or shortly after the outset of another war. Service in the reserves is required of men drafted since the new law became effective.

Window Display Contest To Open

MALIN—In celebration of National Boy Scout Week, the Malin Boy Scout Troop No. 33 and Explorer Post No. 133 will enter a window display in Wilde's Store in Malin. The display will be completed on Saturday, February 4, and will be in competition with displays entered in other store windows by Boy Scout troops throughout the county.

The Malin Cub Scout Pack No. 33 will join Troop No. 33 and Post No. 133 in a potluck dinner at the Community Hall, on Monday, February 13 for members and their families at which time a court of honor will be held.

Family Night Ends Campaign

SPRAGUE RIVER—The March of Dimes Drive in Sprague River ended with the Family Fun night Saturday and netted $146.32.

Highlight of the evening was a basketball game between 10 volunteer women of the community who played to a 62 score. High scorer was Mrs. Charles Burroughs with four points. Other players were Mrs. Esther Wilson, Mrs. Bill Dickson, Mrs. Elwyn Hall, Mrs. Gordon Kelsey, Mrs. Oscar Capellan, Mrs. Chester Williams, Mrs. E. Reynolds, Mrs. Dean Parks and Mrs. Sylvan Crum. Oscar Capellan and Kenneth Newlin were referees.

The McCalls Dairy team of Redding defeated the Sprague River Indians by a score of 83-75. Gary Dawes and Elbert (Hi) Hatfield of Klamath Falls donated their time as referees. The two men also refereed a game between a group of teen-age boys from Chiloquin and Sprague River.

Mrs. Laura Martin, Beatty, won the door prize, a table lamp donated by Glencer's Grocery, and Lanny Sargent of Sprague River won the box of candy on the children's drawing.

Local chairmen, Nina Gienger and Lois Dickson, wish to thank all the people who so generously contributed food, time and money to make the drive a success.

Gilchrist High News

The Gilchrist Junior High held the local speech festival on January 31, in preparation for the annual Klamath County Junior High School Speech Festival which is to take place at the Altamont Junior High School on February 10.

The winners of the local festival are: Poetry, first place, Nancy Brewer; alternate, Sharon Huddleston. Radio Speaking, first place, Grade 9, "The History of Crater Lake," alternate, Grade 7, "Lewis and Clark at the Pacific." Special Speeches, Mervin Jordan, Humorous, first place, Donovan Hitt; alternate, Mary Evans. Story Telling, first place, Linda Wyse; alternate, Colleen McKenzie. Serious, first place, Chet Emery; alternate, Diane Norlin.

The students and their instructor, George H. Bell, have accomplished much in their speech work this year.

Varied Storms Hit Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Midwinter storms and cold weather plagued broad sections of the country today.

Heaviest snow falls of the season were reported in many areas of the Midwest and the East. A belt of freezing rain and sleet from Oklahoma to the Tennessee Valley and the Carolina mountains shifted northward during the night.

Ice and snow-covered highways made driving conditions hazardous in much of the storm belt.

Precipitation during the night and early morning spread over most areas from Pennsylvania to Florida and from eastern Minnesota southwest over New Mexico.

The Weather Bureau didn't think the groundhog would see his shadow in the eastern half of the country today—Groundhog Day.

Winter's worst storm struck the Albuquerque, N. M., area. An elementary school in an outlying section was snowbound, and four pupils and 20 adults, including teachers and parents, remained in the school overnight.

The stormy weather forced the closing of many schools in Iowa and Missouri.

Snowfalls in the storm-swept mid-continent areas measured up to 10 inches in some places. Snow piled up to more than 20 inches, the season's heaviest fall, at Oswego, N. Y. The wet belt extended southeastward from Lake Ontario.

Services Tomorrow For W. E. Smith

YREKA (UP)—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for W. E. (Pop) Smith, former publisher of the Yreka Weekly Journal, who died at his home yesterday at the age of 86.

Smith had been in retirement since he sold the paper in 1941. He published the Journal for 25 years.
