"DENNIS THE MENACE"

"I WISH DADDY WOULD HURRY AND GO TO WORK SO YOU AN' ME CAN GO BACK TO BED AGAIN!"

YOUR CONGRESSMAN SAYS

by Rep. Sam Coon
2nd District

It was a great shock to all of us to see the life of such a well-loved man as Governor Paul Patterson end so suddenly at the height of his brilliant career. I served with Paul in the Oregon Senate when he was its president. He was a most capable legislator. He was honest, sincere and untiring in his efforts for the best interests of our state.

Oregon has lost a great citizen. The Patterson family has lost a dearly beloved husband and father. I have lost a real friend.

I attended the fourth annual prayer breakfast for President Eisenhower and his cabinet last Thursday. The President spoke at the breakfast. It made me feel good to see how well he looked.

I can report real progress on my Wapinitia Irrigation Project Bill. It has been reported out favorably by the full Interior and Insular Affairs Committee of the House. This bill would provide water for 2,100 acres near Maupin.

My bill to authorize construction of the Crooked River Reclamation Project near Prineville is getting a lot of my attention these days. Last week I conferred with assistants.

Andre Kostelanetz To Make TV Debut On Sullivan Show

By CHARLES MERCEY
 NEW YORK (AP)—Next Sunday Andre Kostelanetz will make his American television debut conducting a symphony orchestra playing Aaron Copland's "The Lincoln Portrait" on the Ed Sullivan show (CBS-TV).

Kostelanetz himself commissioned Copland to write it in 1942. Carl Sandburg, the poet and Lincoln biographer, will speak the narrative sections of the composition.

Seven KF Dogs Enter Show

Seven local dogs will be shown February 12 at Roseburg's first American Kennel Club licensed point bench show. To date 300 dogs have been entered for this show, Roseburg reports.

St. Bernards are Sanctuary Wood's Oh Gorgous and Sanctuary Wood's Paulawan, both owned and handled by Tom and Mary Grigsby of Old Midland Road.

The only American bred Sealyham terrier in Oregon, Paulaboo's Sealy of Klamath, owned by Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bryntun of Lake-store Drive, will be handled by Kathy McDonald. This dog was a judged best local at the bench show last September in Klamath Falls.

OTI Road Amber Adventure was recent winner at the San Francisco Golden Gate dog show.

Bob Petersen, owner of 10-month old Copper Hope, is a 13-year-old newspaperboy who saved earnings from his paper route to become owner of the registered collie. This is the dog's first showing.

It's good news when Kostelanetz, an outstanding conductor in radio and the recording field, says "I'd like to do all I can in television." He was quite amazed to learn that many people had the impression he was opposed to participating in the medium.

"Television has the highest priority in my thinking these days," Kostelanetz said. "The great problem in any new medium is to find out just how to do it."

He believes the nation's leading symphonic orchestras should appear regularly on TV—not in long programs, to begin with, but in half-hour concerts. "A viewer must feel he's occupying a fine seat in a concert hall. He must get the musical message of the composition."

The nervous camera work that often marks orchestral appearances on TV is distracting to the audience. Thus when a camera swings to a close-up of a tympanist striking a couple of inconsequential notes the audience is missing the over-all musical message. You would not be so distracted, he points out, if you were sitting in Carnegie Hall.

Last Sunday an intelligent bit of planning by the creators of Omnibus (CBS-TV) enabled viewers to see two fine programs. Omnibus did not begin the first of its three-part series on the Constitution until Hallmark Hall of Fame had completed its presentation of "The Good Fairy" on NBC-TV.

"The Good Fairy," Ferenc Mol-nar's charming whimsy, proved to be grand TV entertainment, thanks in large part to the interpretations of Julie Harris, Walter Slezak and Cyril Ritchard under George Schaeffer's light-handed direction.

Omnibus added another cluster to its distinguished television service ribbon by declining to fictionalize history. The Constitutional Convention of 1787 and the Virginia ratification of 1788 came glowingly to life in dramatic flashbacks prompted by that urbane and friendly Boston lawyer Joseph N. Welch.

'Gyroscope' Openings Told

Men with or without prior service may now enlist at the local U.S. Army Recruiting Station directly for the U.S. Eighth Division which will begin "gyroscope" operation to Europe beginning in August.

It is anticipated the entire division will arrive in Europe before the close of the calendar year.

Men with prior service who qualify for reinstatement in the first three enlisted grades may take their families with them. Housing will be available to all first three graders. Corporals with four or more years of active service may take their families to their first duty station in the U.S. but will not be furnished overseas housing facilities in Europe. They will, however, be permitted permanent change of station privileges from the recruiting main station to their first duty station in continental United States.

Young men without prior service may enlist under the "buddy system" and be assured they will travel together to Europe with the division. Following eight weeks basic training at Fort Ord, California, they will join the unit, now stationed at Camp Carson, Colorado.

Those joining the division will have opportunities to travel in various European countries during their off-duty hours or when taking official leave. Travel rates are very inexpensive and men who accumulate 18-30 days leave each year have ample time to visit Western Europe.

Interested men from the Klamath Falls area may contact the local Army Recruiting Station for further information. The station is located in Room 5, 621 Main, telephone 8401.

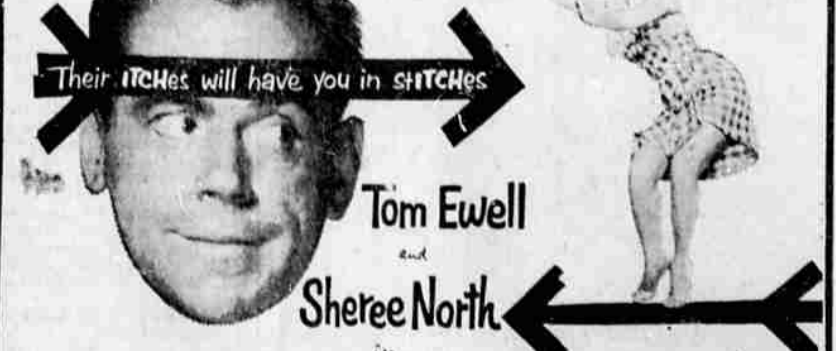

Toastmistresses To Meet Thursday

The Mt. Mazama Toastmistresses Club will meet for dinner at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, February 9 at the Willard Hotel.

Eva Cook will give the invocation. Mabel Hansen will be toastmistress and Arlene Skaugst will be toastmistress.
