

We've Come a Long Way Since 1904

About 1915

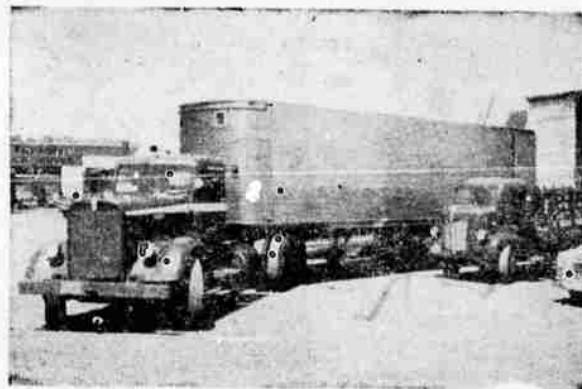

Shown above is one of the first fleets of trucks owned in Klamath Falls. Frank Driscoll, a long-time employee is shown cranking the center truck.

Back in 1904 when Dave Kenyon founded O.K. Transfer and Storage, horses were the big power that moved freight in Klamath Falls. In 1908, when Fred Murphy joined the firm as a partner, motor trucks were just coming into their own. By 1936 when Red Bussman became owner of the firm, OK Transfer and Storage was the leading freight company in Klamath Falls. In 1941 he sold the business to Elmer Meritt and in 1944 Mr. Meritt sold the firm to Al Vinze, the present owner. Perhaps the largest step in the progress of O.K. Transfer and Storage came in 1952 when the company followed the "do-it-yourself" trend and became Pioneer Truck Rentals . . . renting trucks for every purpose.
