

Docs Predict Quint Birth

RICHMOND, Va. (UP)—At St. Luke's Hospital here today Mrs. Richard H. Shais, 32, was getting more than the usual privacy, care and rest accorded an expectant mother.

Doctors have told her she may give birth to quintuplets next month.

Around the maternity ward at St. Luke's preparations were being made for what may be an historic delivery. Quintuplets occur only once in every 57 million births.

Additional incubators have been ordered. Blood donors are being lined up in case the babies need transfusions because of a rare blood condition.

Richard Shais, 31, already the father of five children, was trying to avoid publicity.

"We're expecting them any time in the next six to eight weeks," he said.

"But I wish there wouldn't be any publicity until after they arrive. It wouldn't be fair to my wife and the rest of the family if they got their hopes up and then something were to happen."

The chances are great that something will "happen."

Doctors immediately involved in the case will not discuss it.

But other Richmond physicians are pessimistic about the children's chances. Statistics alone give them only a slight chance for survival.

Of the less than 50 quintuple births recorded in medical history in only two cases have all five babies survived. These are the Dionne quintuplets born in 1934 in Canada and the Diligent quintuplets born in 1943 in Argentina.

Adventure Show To Take TV Cameras Under Water

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—Next Sunday, for the first time in television history, mobile cameras manned by skin-divers will explore a wonderland 90 feet below the surface of the Pacific.

The live program originating off Catalina Island, Calif., will be seen on Adventure (CBS-TV).

In the past all live underwater scenes on TV have been covered by fixed cameras suspended from surface craft.

There's something fascinating about a dozen men swimming three special waterproof cameras and a monitor down 90 feet to film fish and swimming girls near the old wreck of a cargo vessel while an announcer, Charles Collingwood, stands talking on the ocean bottom in a diving suit.

Charles Romine, producer of Adventure, who thought up the idea, is something of a skin-diver enthusiast himself. "It's the fastest growing sport in the country," he said the other day. "You have no idea how beautiful it is down there. The kelp forests are like something out of a dream. You expect to hear music."

So many things could go wrong with this program that Adventure should change its name to "Most Venturesome." Suppose there's a bad storm? Suppose the poisonous eels or octopi that haunt those waters go after a cameraman? (Guards armed with knives and guns will be swimming around down there.) Suppose the cameramen get confused? (There will be an ocean floor manager to give hand signals.) Suppose there are transmission difficulties?

Romine, about to board a plane for the West Coast where he'll don skin-diver's paraphernalia, refused to be discouraged by these pessimistic questions.
